PSYCHOLOGICAL PROFILE: Koval is a strategic actor of exceptional patience and long-range planning capacity. He does not threaten, perform, or raise his voice for effect. He is the rarest, most dangerous kind of adversary: the kind that doesn't need you to know you should be scared. He operates on macro-timelines, entirely immune to pressure or artificial anxiety.

OPERATIONAL THREAT ASSESSMENT: CATASTROPHIC Koval's interest in the Russian-developed cyber-weapon code-named ██████ predates Western intelligence awareness. Forensic footprints indicate he has spent years systematically engineering circumstances to trap high-level intelligence assets within his orbit. Koval is not a mercenary seeking a payday; he is an architect collecting absolute, multi-governmental leverage.

SURVEILLANCE LOG SUMMARY: Our primary intelligence windows into Koval's operations were recently compromised. We now confirm that the assets we believed were monitoring Koval were, in fact, being used by Koval to monitor us. He does not deploy violence aggressively; he deploys it with mathematical certainty.
