This material has been adapted from one of our most popular programs, Gram Like a Brand:

gramlikeabrand.com

By the end of this workshop, you'll be able to implement:

1. Using your Instagram like a second website for marketing and driving sales
2. Researching hashtags and using them to find your future clients and helping them find you

And if there's time:

3. Identifying accounts that you should be connecting with
4. Discovering what to post
5. Creating a custom plan for engagement 30 minutes a day

If we don't get to everything, don't worry. We have a 60-page download waiting for you at:

Meet Your Team

We may be one-hit wonders at other things in life 🤪, but combined, we own 5+ profitable Instagram accounts in different niches: health, business, travel, food, etc.

We (Allie—left, and Regina—right) have other combined wins 🙌 such as:

- ▶ Creating over 100 profitable online and in-person events.
- ▶ Graduating with a Master's in Organizational and Workplace Learning.
- ▶ Studying business in undergrad.
- ▶ Building an online Facebook Group of over 10,000 people.
- ▶ Publishing photography with over 90,000,000 views on Unsplash.com and 300K downloads.
- ▶ Running a profitable (full-time income) health & wellness brand in addition to our business brand.
- ▶ Hosting two online schools (one with 14,000 students and one with 10,000+ students).
- ▶ Building up an email list to over 50,000 people.
- ▶ Being featured on Fast Company and Entrepreneur's websites; speaking at conferences for Teachable, ConvertKit, and Black Enterprise.
- ▶ And most importantly, helping multiple clients start and run full-time businesses online through the use of smart signature events and epic social media content and connection principles.

What product or service are you selling? And why?

Why do you have a website?

You want people to be able to find you, understand what you do, know that it applies to them, and be able to contact you or buy from you, right?

What if you could have a website in a place where everyone is spending their time and searching for inspiration?

1. Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

So that the new people you connect with on Instagram are led back to an organized, creative, helpful space that motivates them to take the next step.

The Second Website Framework

1. Home Page

2. Primary Call to Action

3. Static Pages

4. Blog Posts

The Second Website Framework

1. Home Page

On your website, it's called a home page, on Instagram, it's everything visible from your profile page. We'll get into how to optimize your IG "home page" on the next page.

2. Primary Call to Action

From your website, you might encourage people to book a free consultation call or sign up for a free resource so that they're on your email list; you can do the same thing from Instagram.

3. Static Pages

The static pages on your website are pages that you refer back to frequently and are often located in the main menu. On Instagram, your Stories Highlights serve as your static pages.

4. Blog Posts

Your gallery posts on IG serve as your blog posts. They get the most views the day they're posted (and the few days after), but there are ways to draw attention to them even after that.

5. Vlog Posts

Video blogging (or "vlogging") is done on Instagram through IGTV episodes, IG Live broadcasts, gallery video posts, and even videos in your IG Stories.

6. Contact Page

On your website you likely have a contact page that provides a contact form and your email address; on Instagram you can provide a direct link to your email, scheduler, DMs, and more.

7. Testimonials

Just as on a website (where you can share testimonials on your home page, sidebar, footer, or separate page), you can display testimonials on IG—in your Stories, Highlights, gallery, and more.

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

Makeover Goal One: Your "Home Page"

Makeover Goal #1: Your IG “Home Page”

The home page of your website helps people determine they're in the right place.

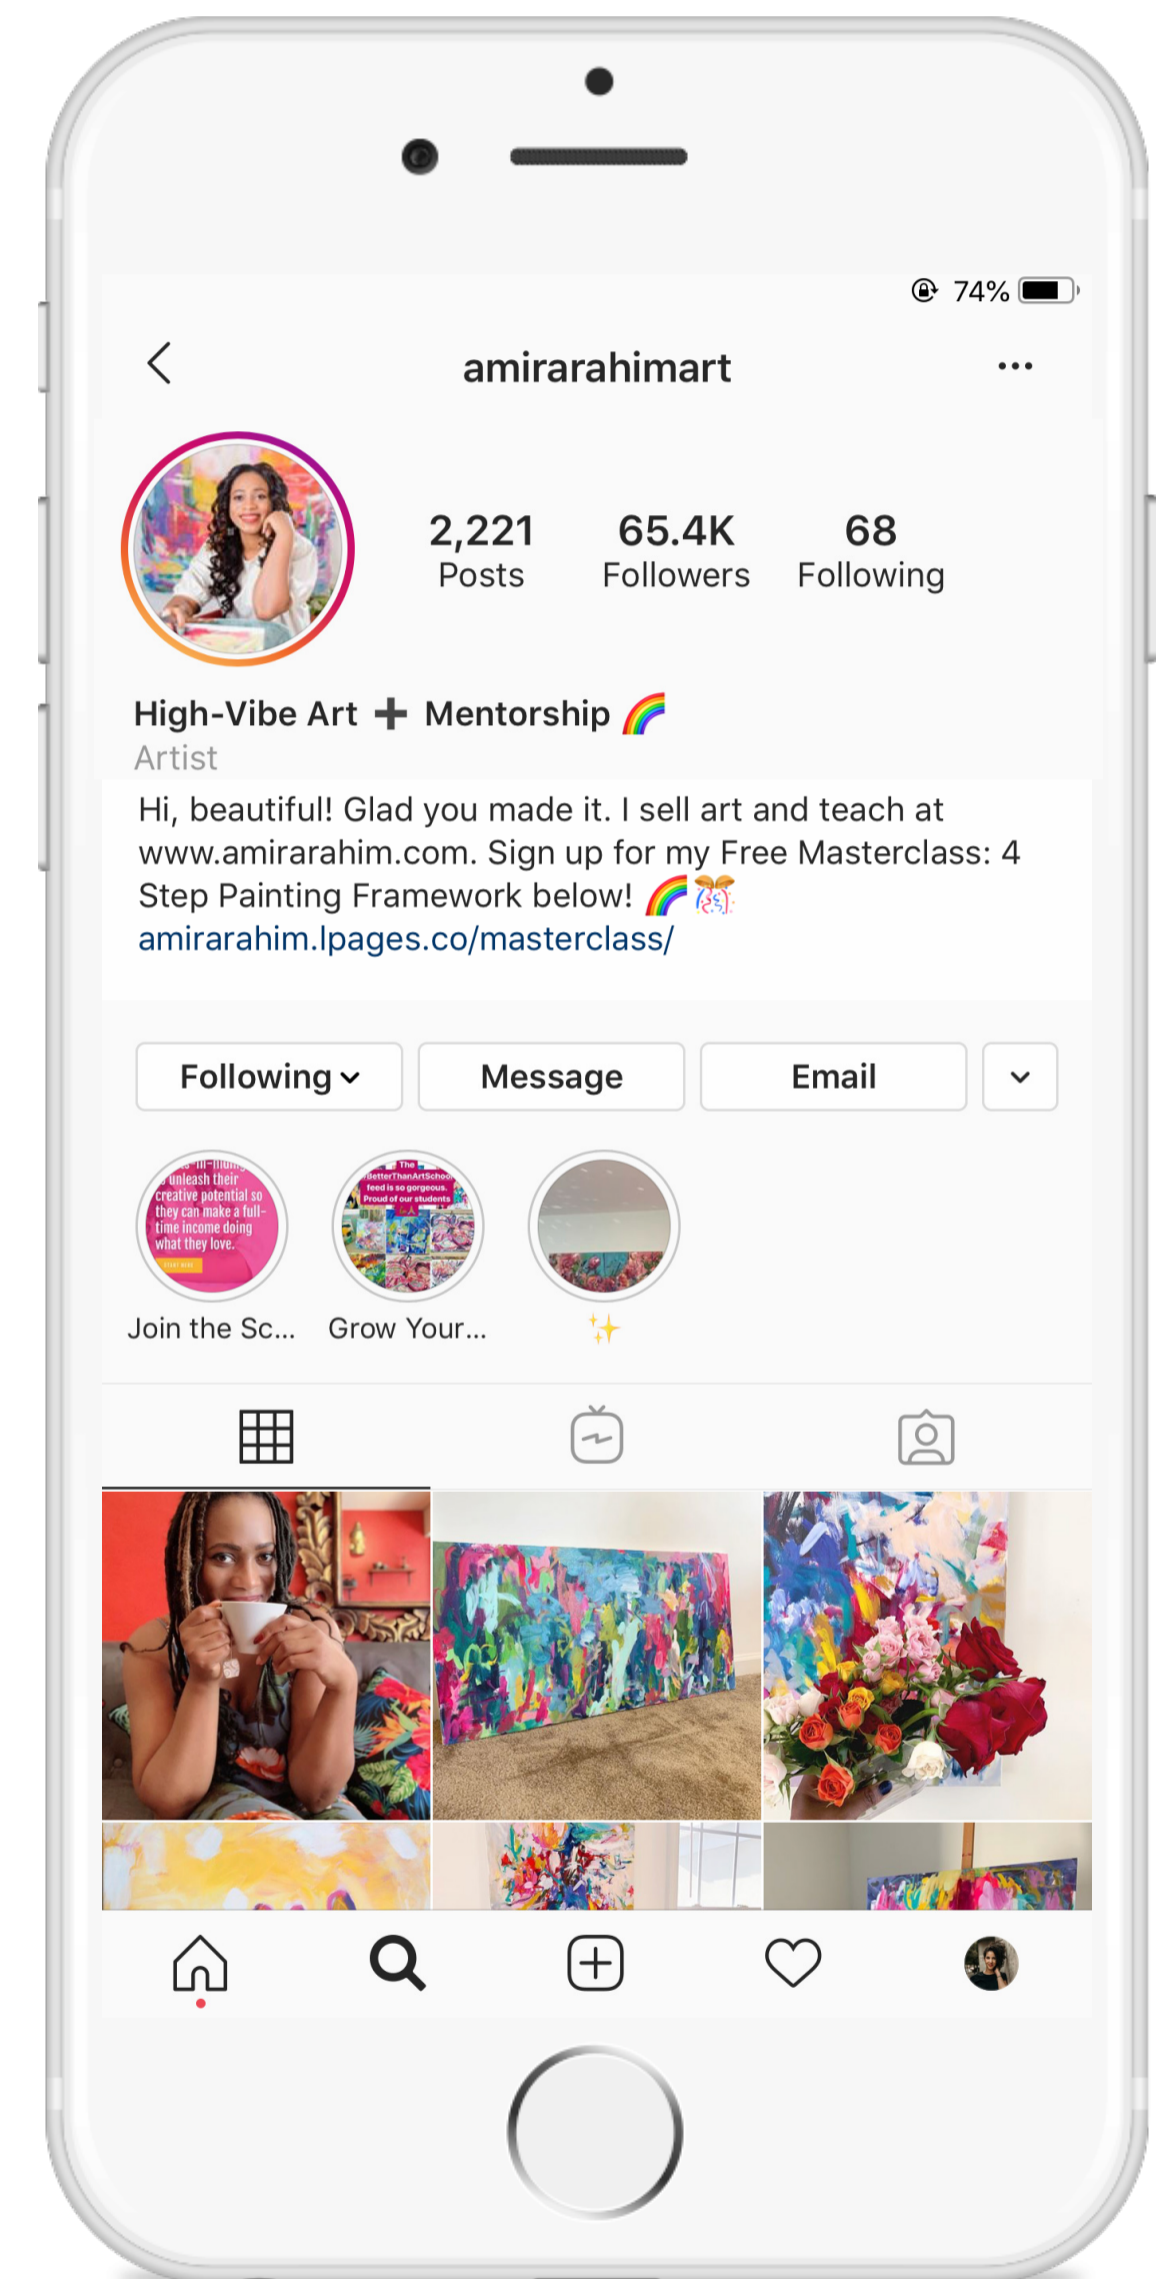

“What is this?”

“Does it apply to me?”

“Can this help me?”

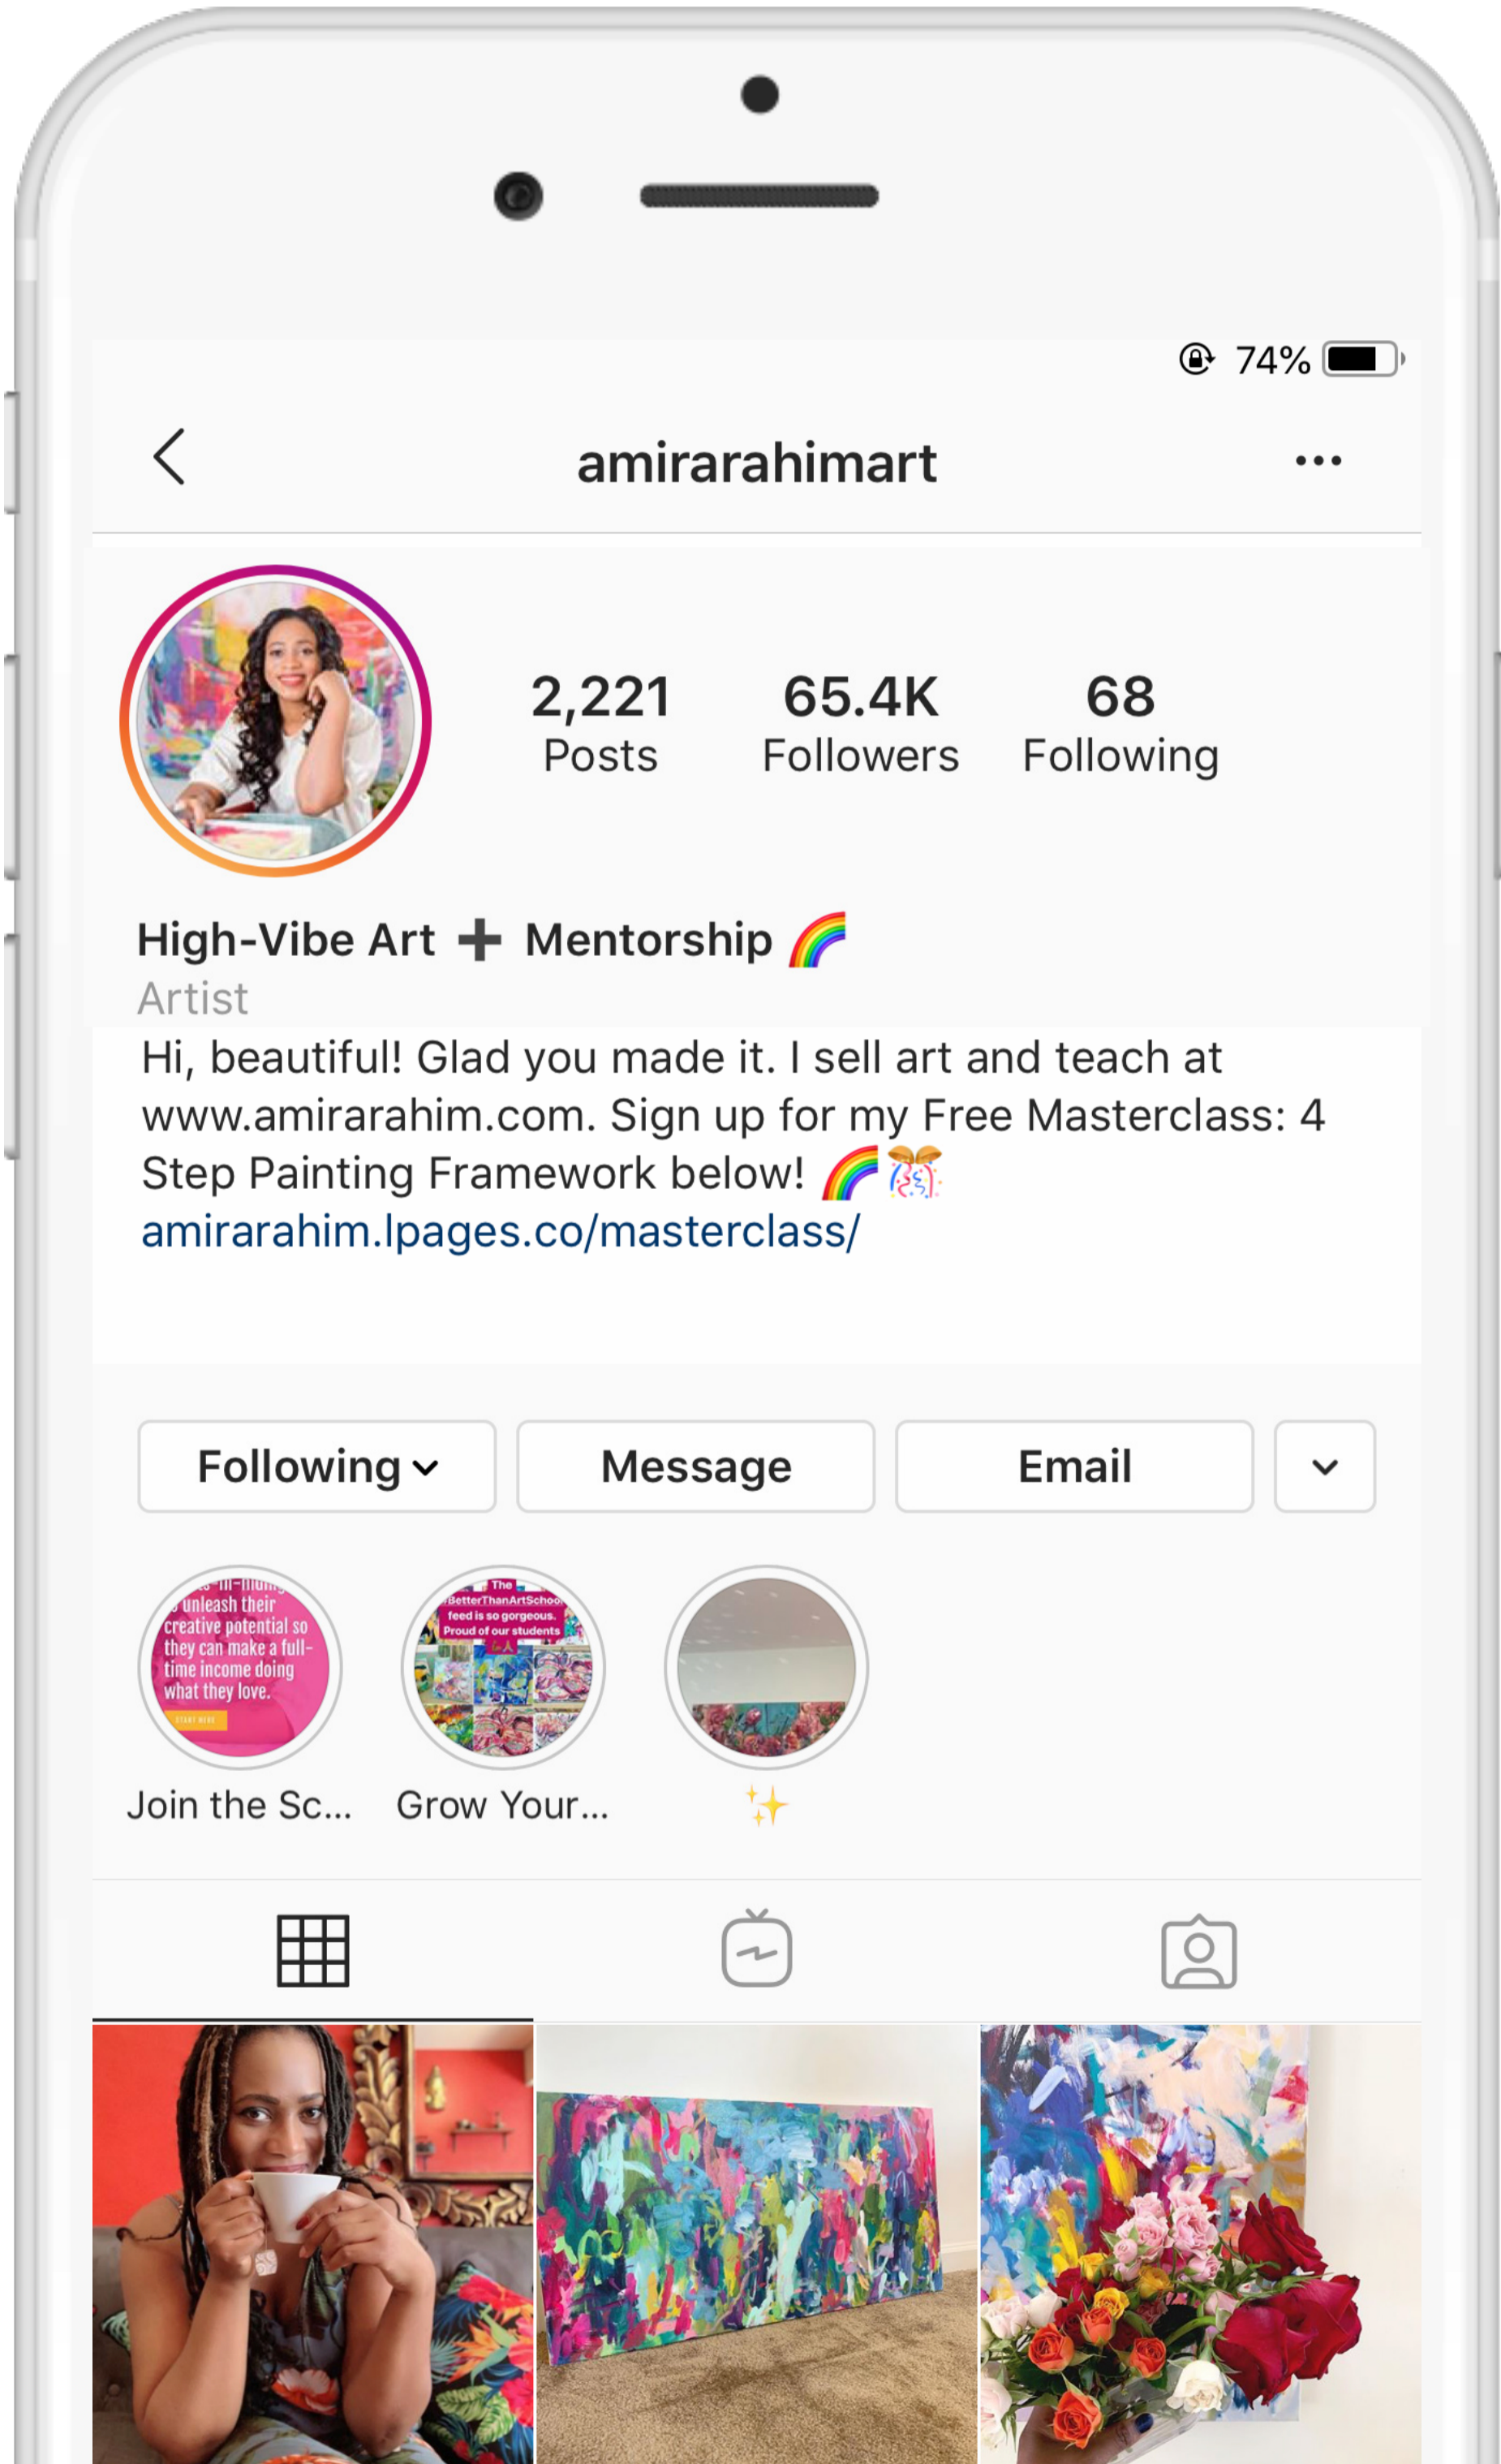

... are questions a potential client is likely asking while on the home page of your website.

On Instagram, everything visible from your profile page helps to answer those same questions. Potential clients will be looking at the elements we're about to go over to make up their minds about whether or not they should follow, tune in, and engage with you.

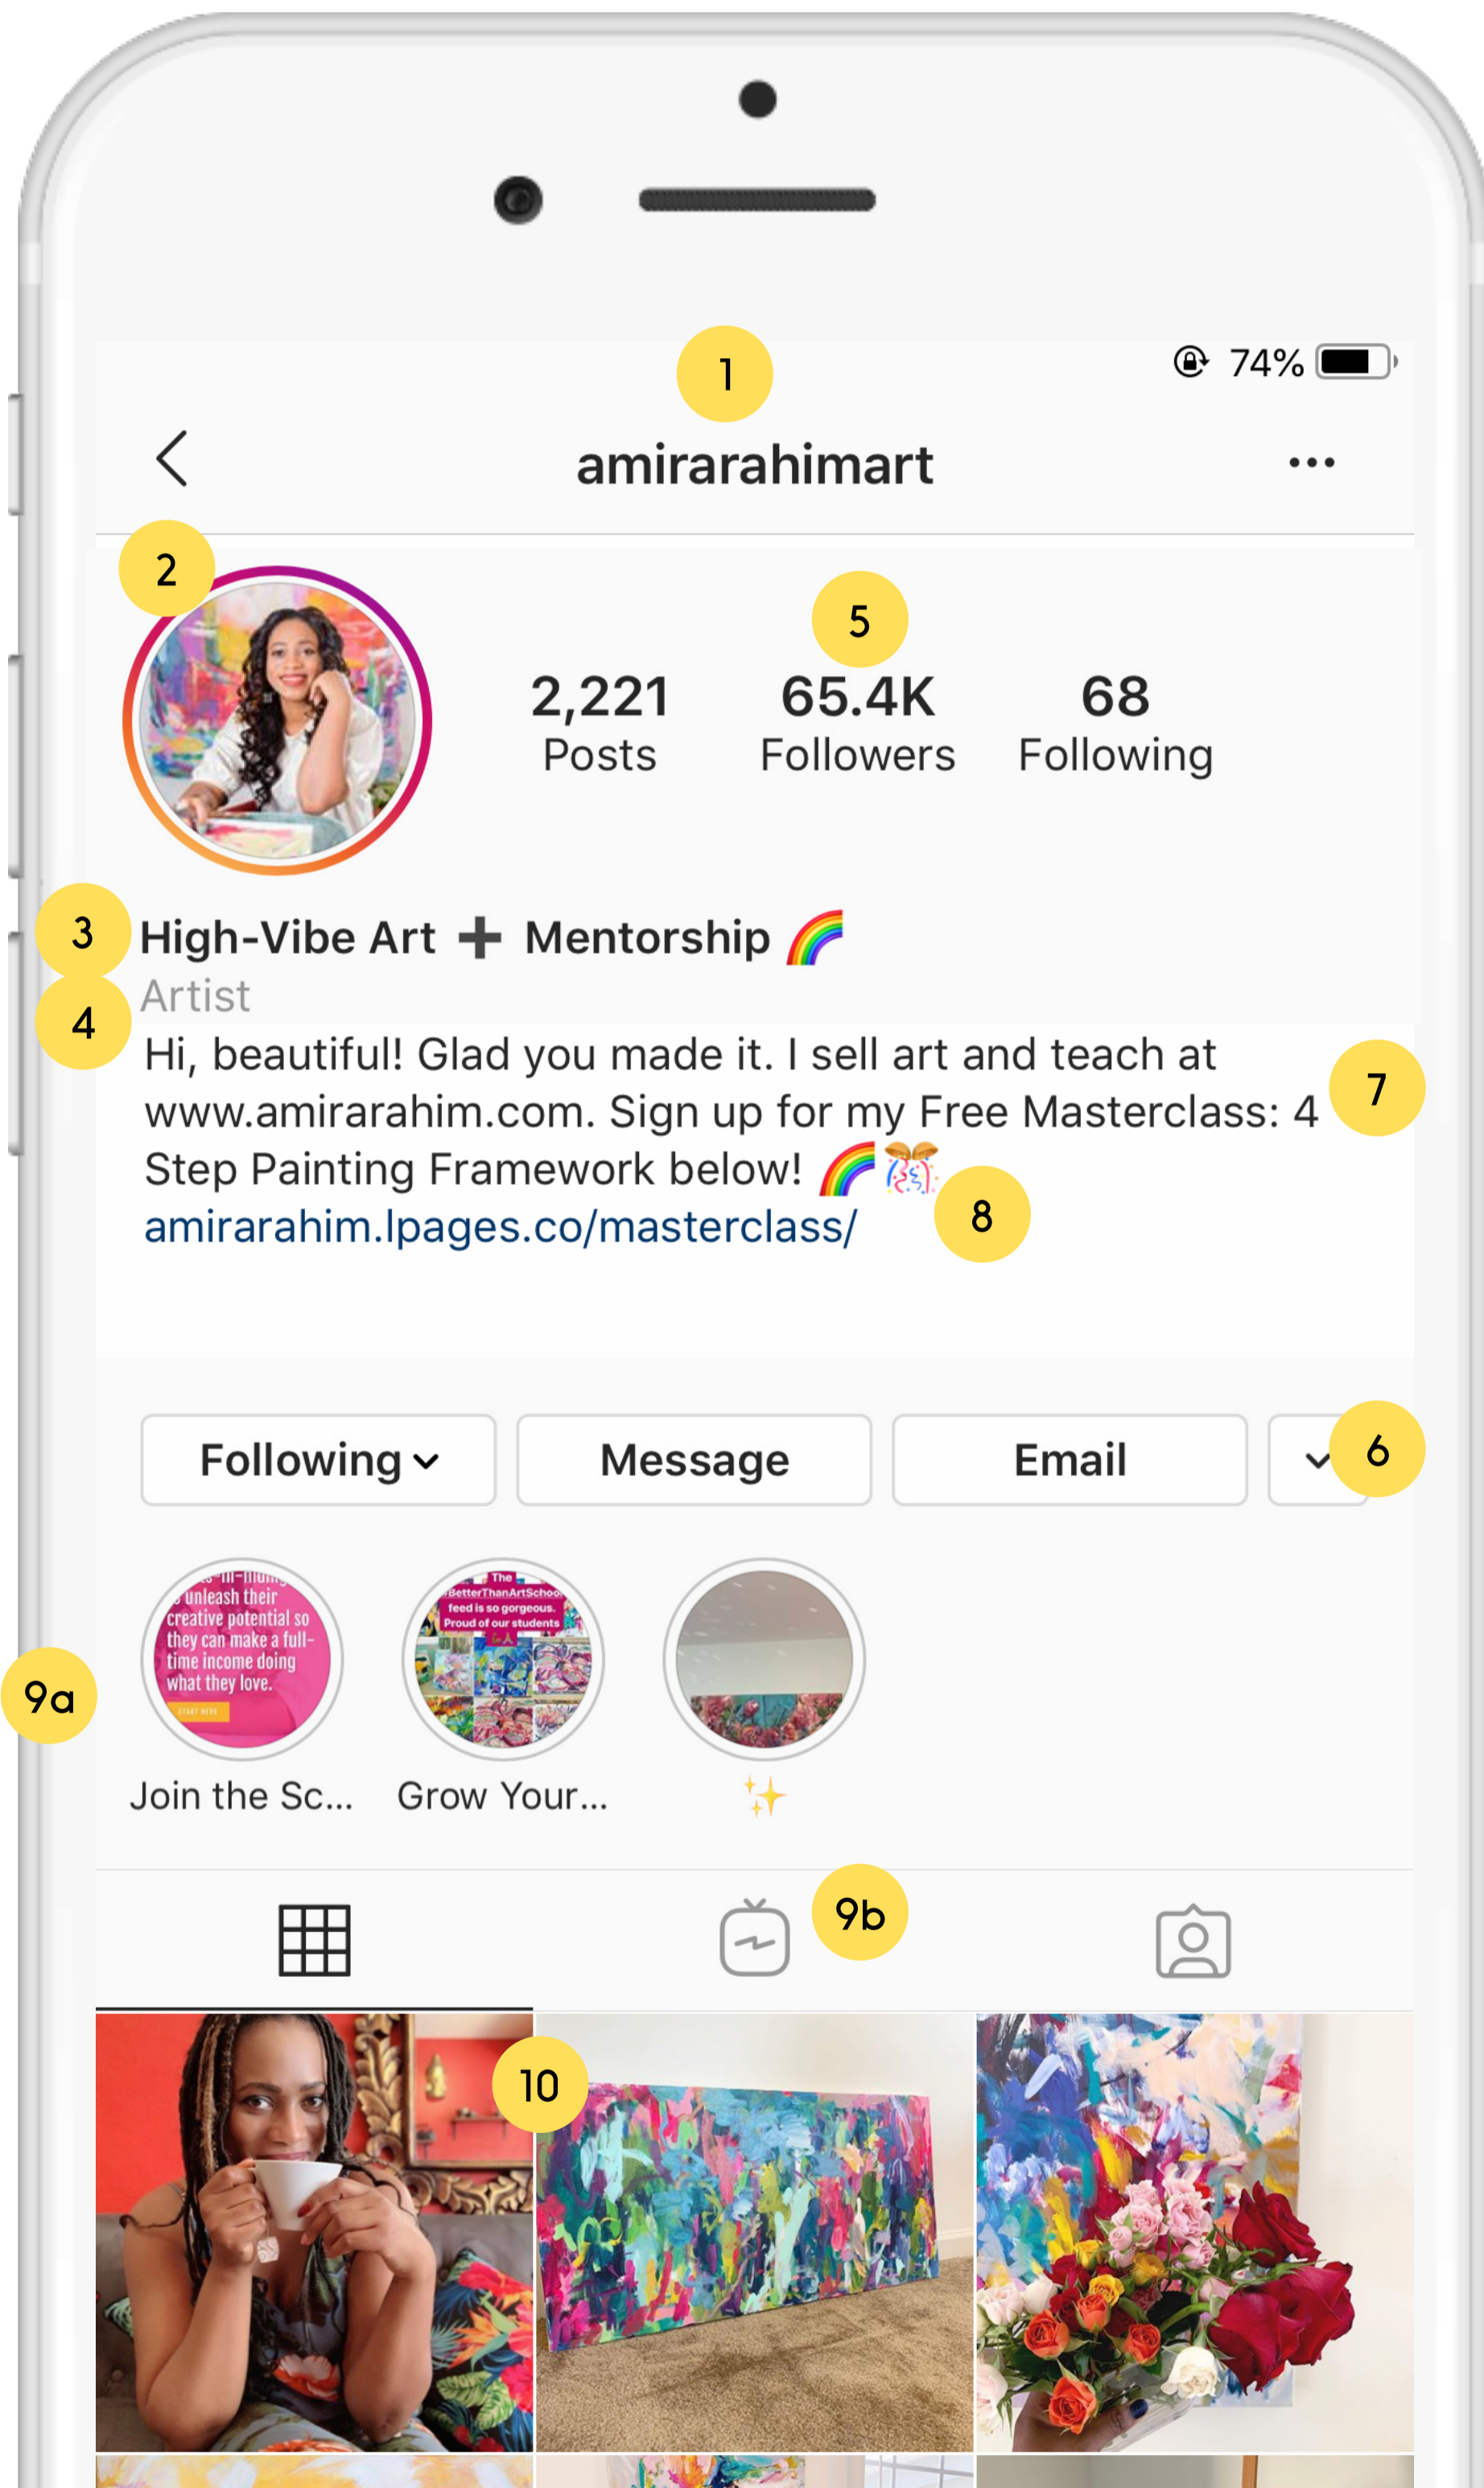

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

Makeover Goal #1: Your IG “Home Page”

Makeover Goal #1: Your IG “Home Page”

1: Your Instagram handle (ex: @amirarahimart)

2: Your profile picture (should be well lit, professional/creative, and on brand)

3: Your Instagram name (ex: Veronica | UX Content Strategy or High-Vibe Art + Mentorship 🌈)

4: Your page’s category (ex: Artist or Designer or Entrepreneur)

5: Your follower and following count (plus your number of posts)

6: Your contact options (ex: email, text, scheduling software link, “Message” button)

7: Your bio/description (ex: “Hi beautiful! Glad you made it . . .”)

8: Your link (ex: krisssdidit.com/masterclass-registration)

9a and 9b: Your highlighted IG Stories, easy access to your IGTV episodes

10: Your gallery of images and videos

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

Makeover Goal Two: Your “Primary Call to Action”

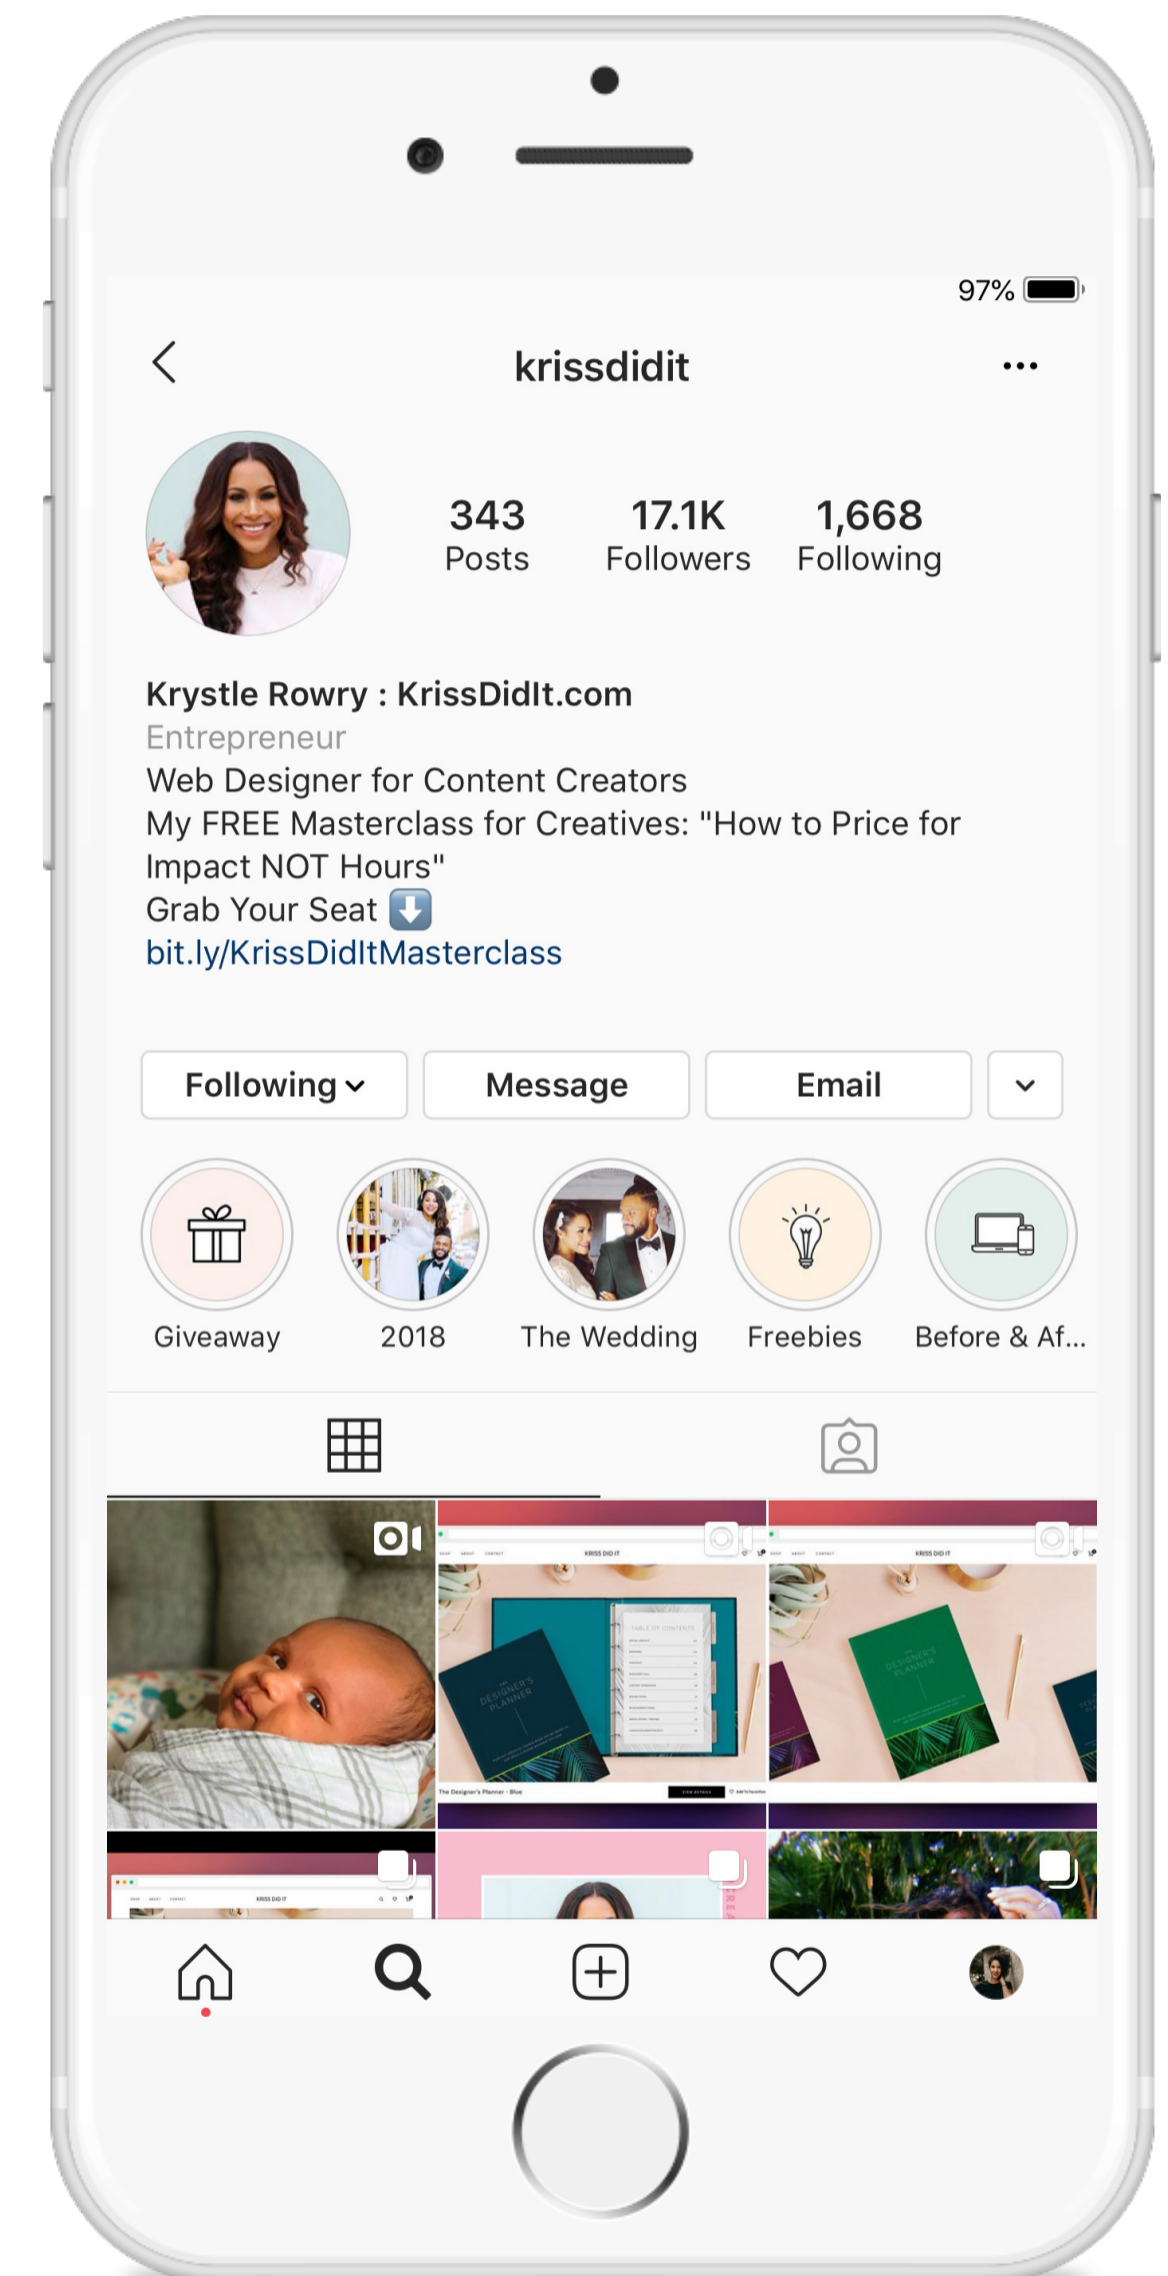

Makeover Goal #2: Your Primary Call to Action

If someone has landed on your home on the web (your website), would you want them to leave before they take an action that benefits both them and you? Probably not. So, why would Instagram be any different?

- ✓ You have someone's attention.
- ✓ That someone might be your next client.
- ✓ Ask them to take a key step right then and there.

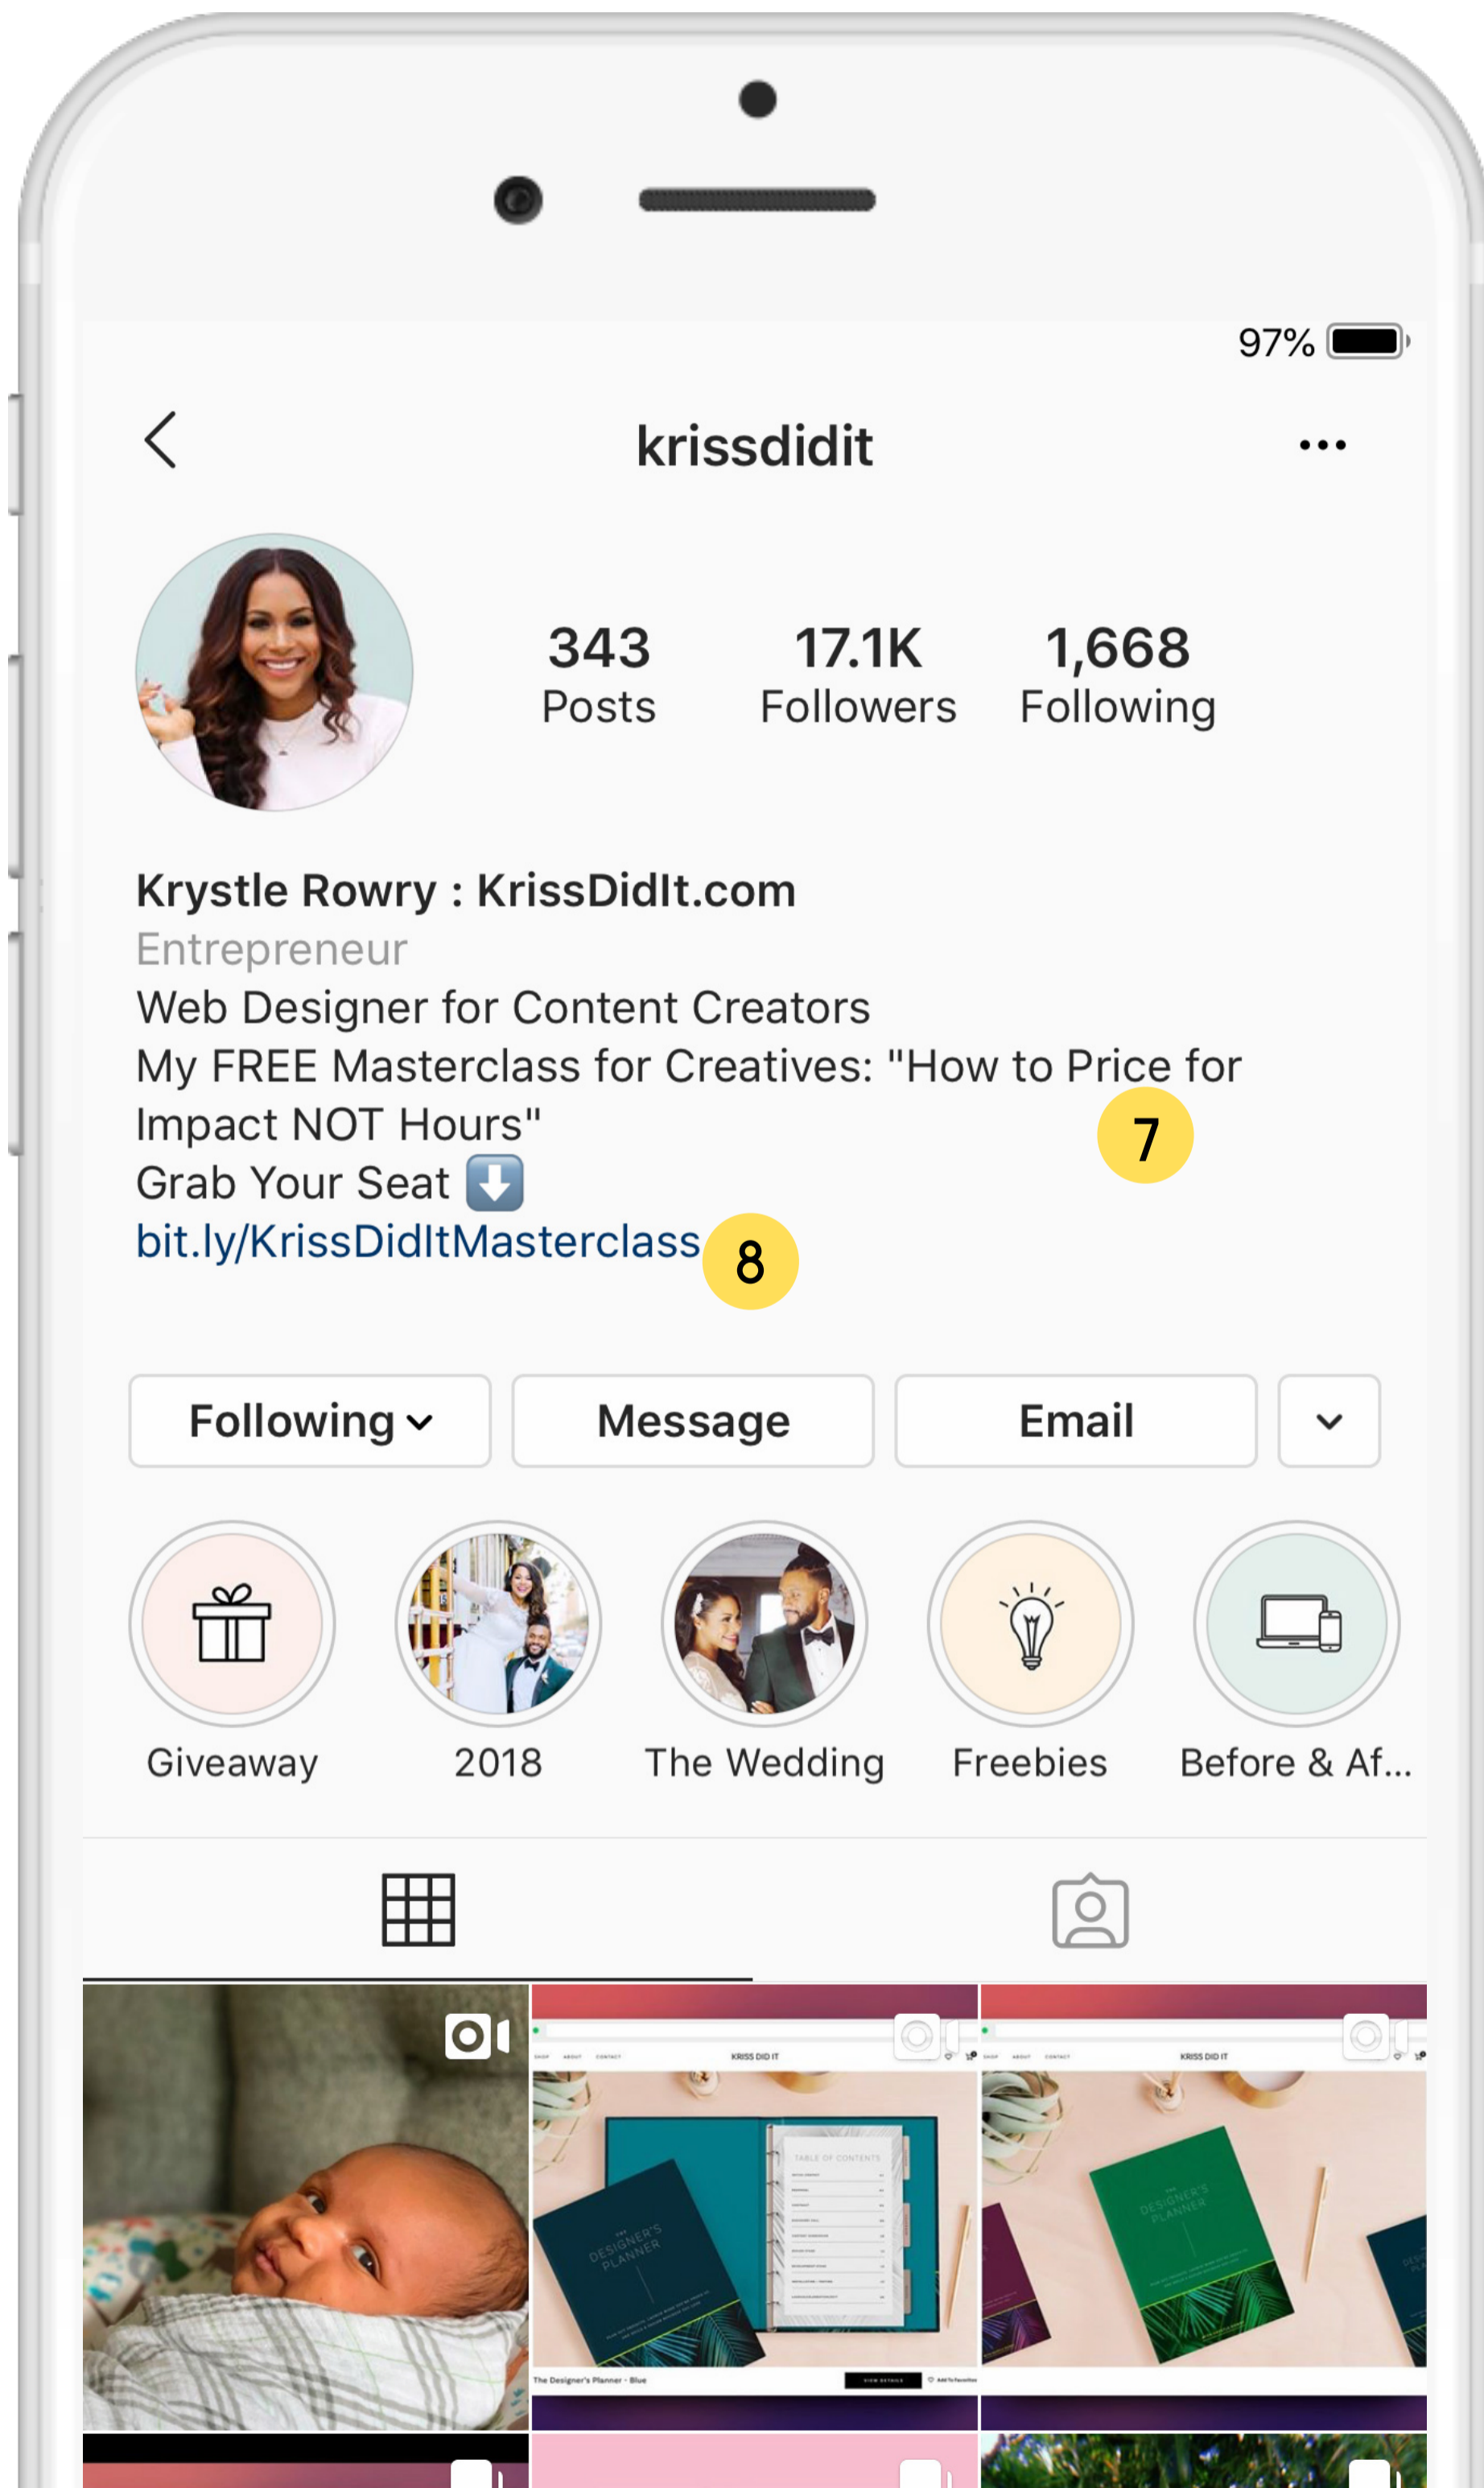

And when you do this, it's important to keep one thing in mind: Being clear is more important than being clever (or cute).

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

We're not saying that your Instagram account and your call to action can't have personality, of course, we're simply saying that people will be more excited and more likely to click something they can tell clearly applies to them and offers them benefits, than they would to click something they really don't get . . . even if it sounds kinda cool.

Makeover Goal #2: Your Primary Call to Action

Asking for one specific action, instead of providing a stream of options, is ideal. You might be hesitant to seemingly “limit” your ideal customer to one specific action in your Instagram bio and link.

“Then I won’t be able to send them to my most recent blog post, or give them the option of downloading my new workbook, or direct them to my favorite podcast episode, or . . .” 😞.

We completely get the feeling that giving the person more options (by including for example a Linktree link that lets people select from 3 - 10+ options) means they’re more likely to get drawn in.

But. In reality, if someone is your ideal client, then you can create an ideal “sample” (like Krystle’s masterclass—in the example on the left) that gives them the ideal intro into your brand and offers them the ideal product or service you have waiting for them.

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

Makeover Goal Three: Your “Static Pages”

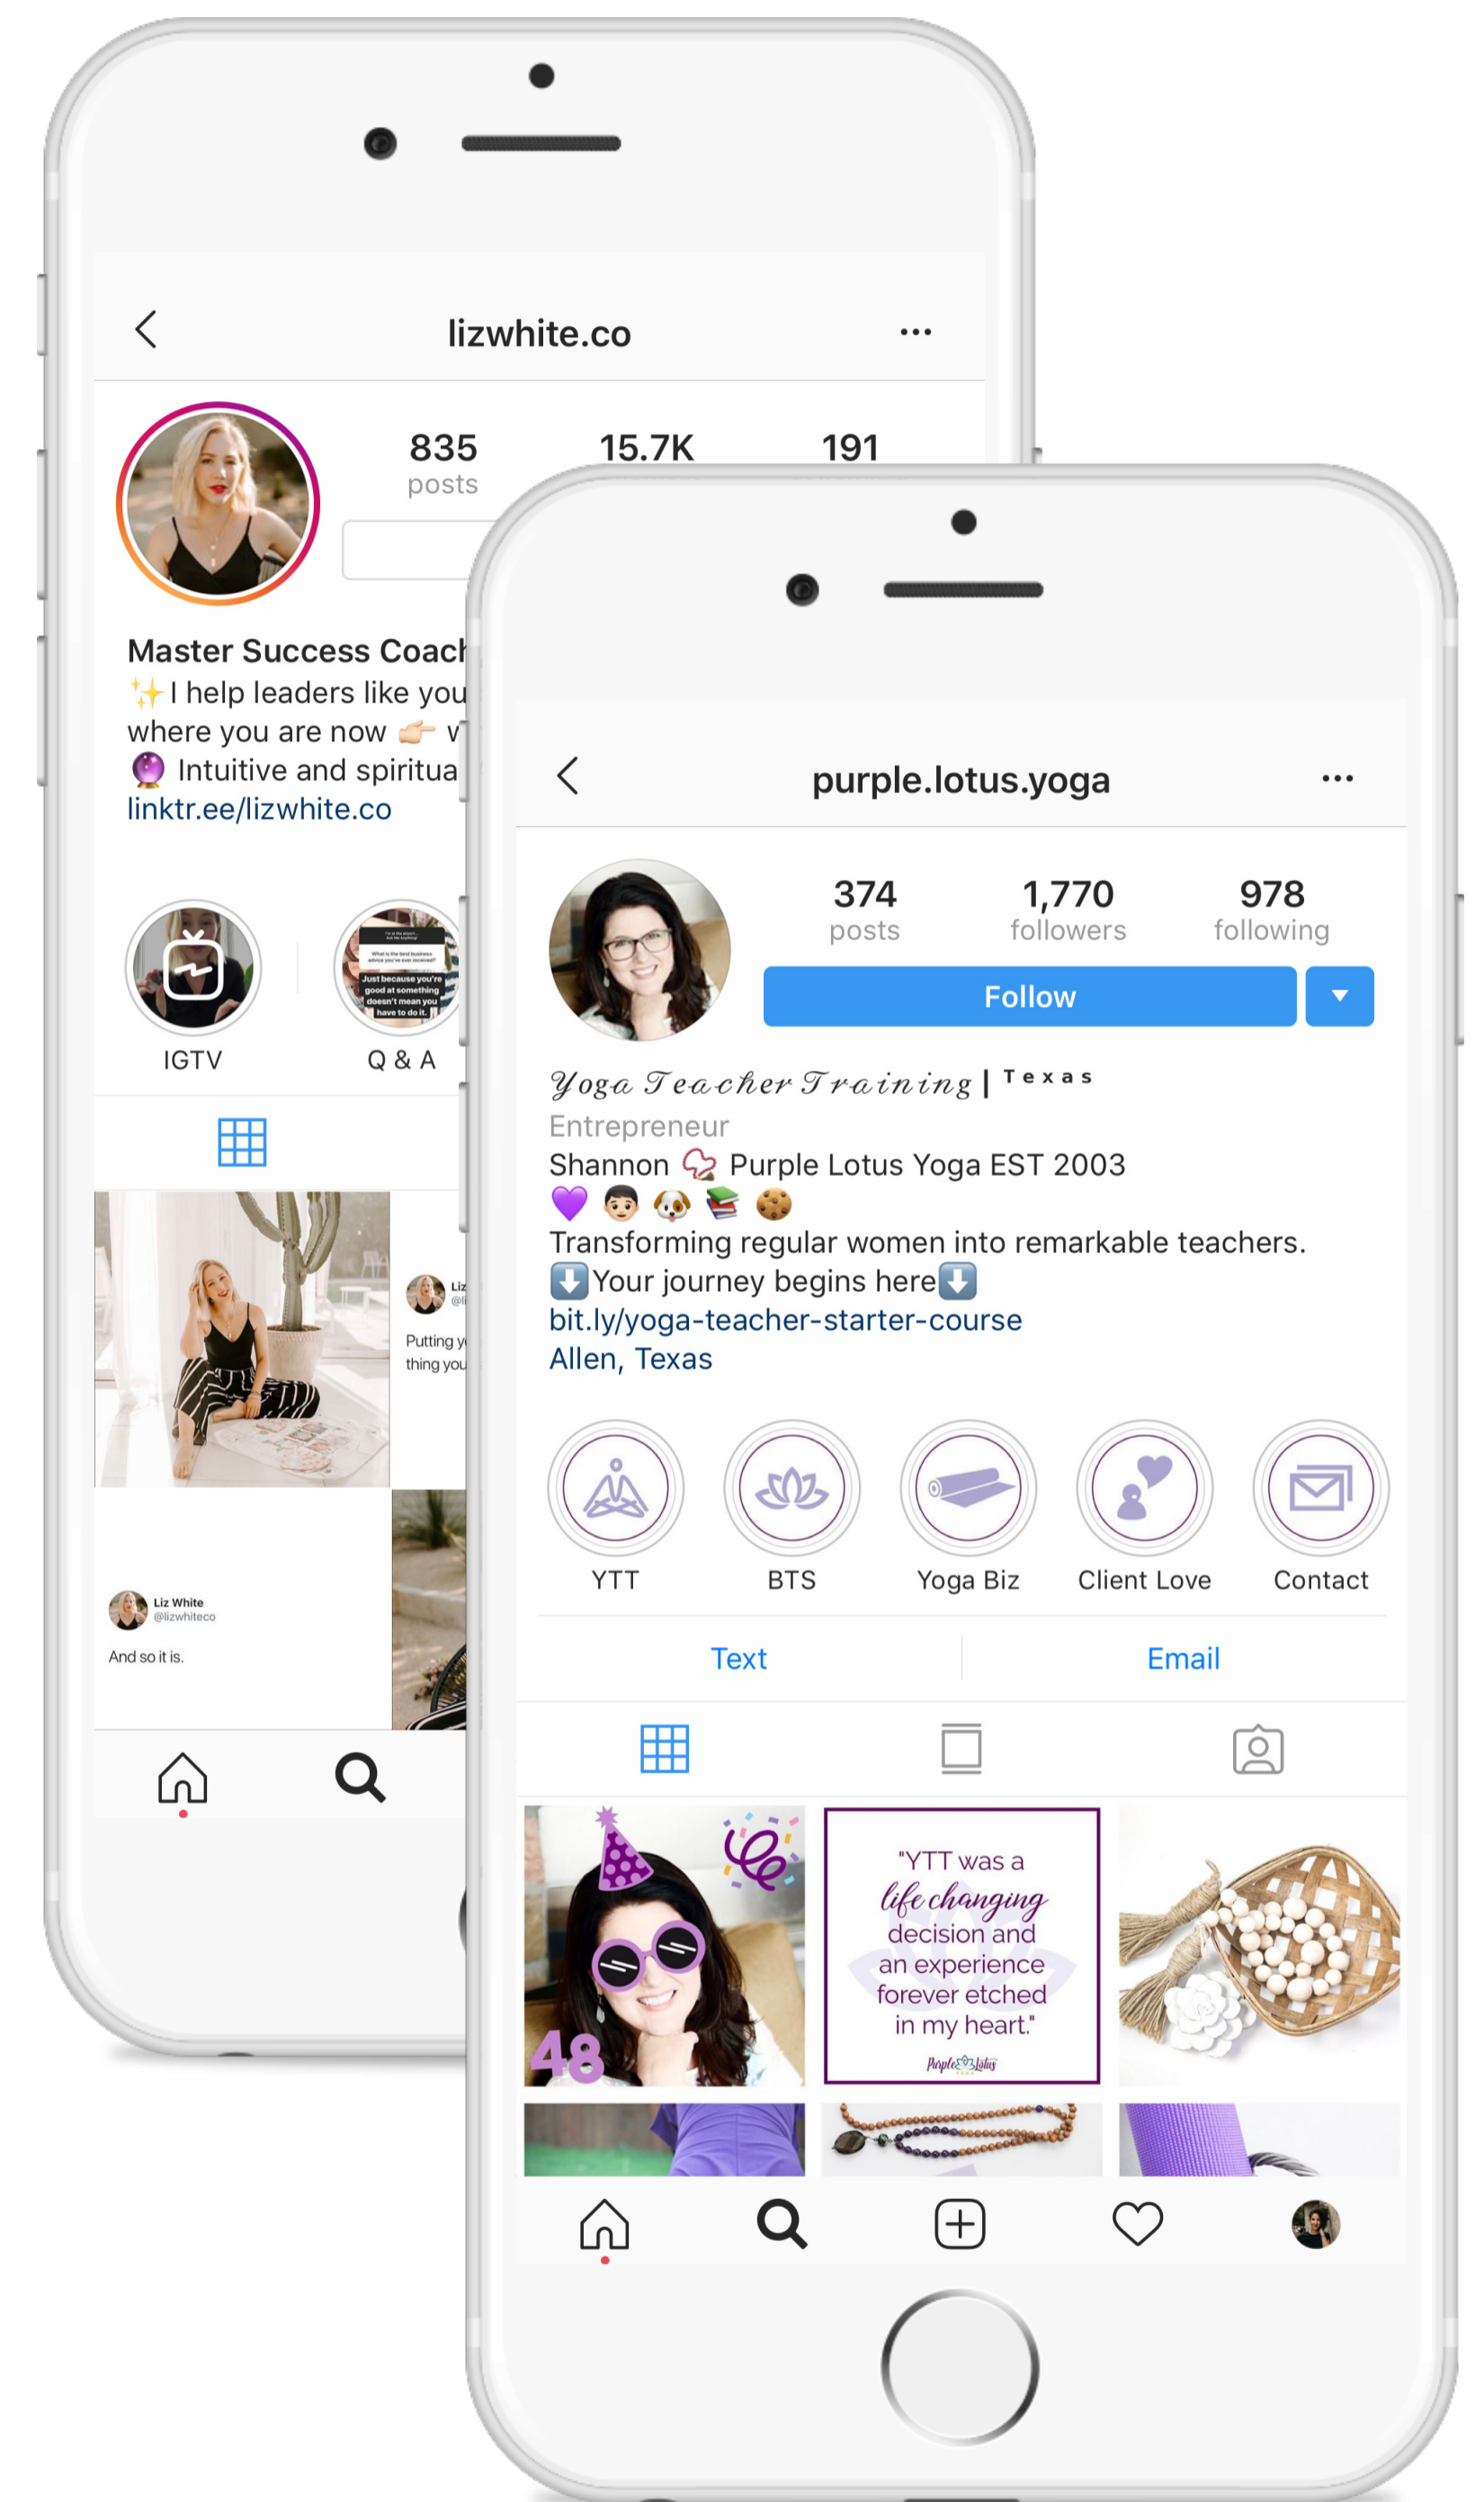

Makeover Goal #3: Your IG “Static Pages”

If you have something to sell that you believe is truly valuable and helpful/transformational for your customers, you wouldn't then build a website that didn't include a services page, or testimonials from past customers, or a way to contact you or buy from you, right?

Right. So it's important to not do that on IG either.

What you choose to feature as Stories Highlights on IG becomes your “menu bar” of static pages.

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

Makeover Goal #3: Your IG “Static Pages”

To help you with your ultimate business goal of guiding your clients through transformation (and getting paid well to do so), it might be a good idea to create Highlights such as:

- ▶ Client Love (Testimonials)
- ▶ Case Studies or Success Stories (to highlight how clients have won with your help)
- ▶ Top Answers (a Q+A or FAQ area to answer people’s most pressing questions)
- ▶ Product Name Here (a deep dive into what your product or service does for people and what it consists of)
- ▶ Lesson Name Here (teaching your ideal client something new can be a great way to draw them in and convince them of your skills)
- ▶ Contact or Get in Touch
- ▶ Is This You or Start Here (to help your potential client realize they are in the right place and that you can help them)
- ▶ My Story or My Why (to give people a picture of who you are and why you do what you do)
- ▶ BTS or My Process (showing your potential clients the “behind the scenes” of what you do, or your particular approach to helping them, can be an excellent way to showcase how different you are from your competition)

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

Makeover Goal Four: Your “Blog Posts”

Makeover Goal #4: Your IG “Blog Posts”

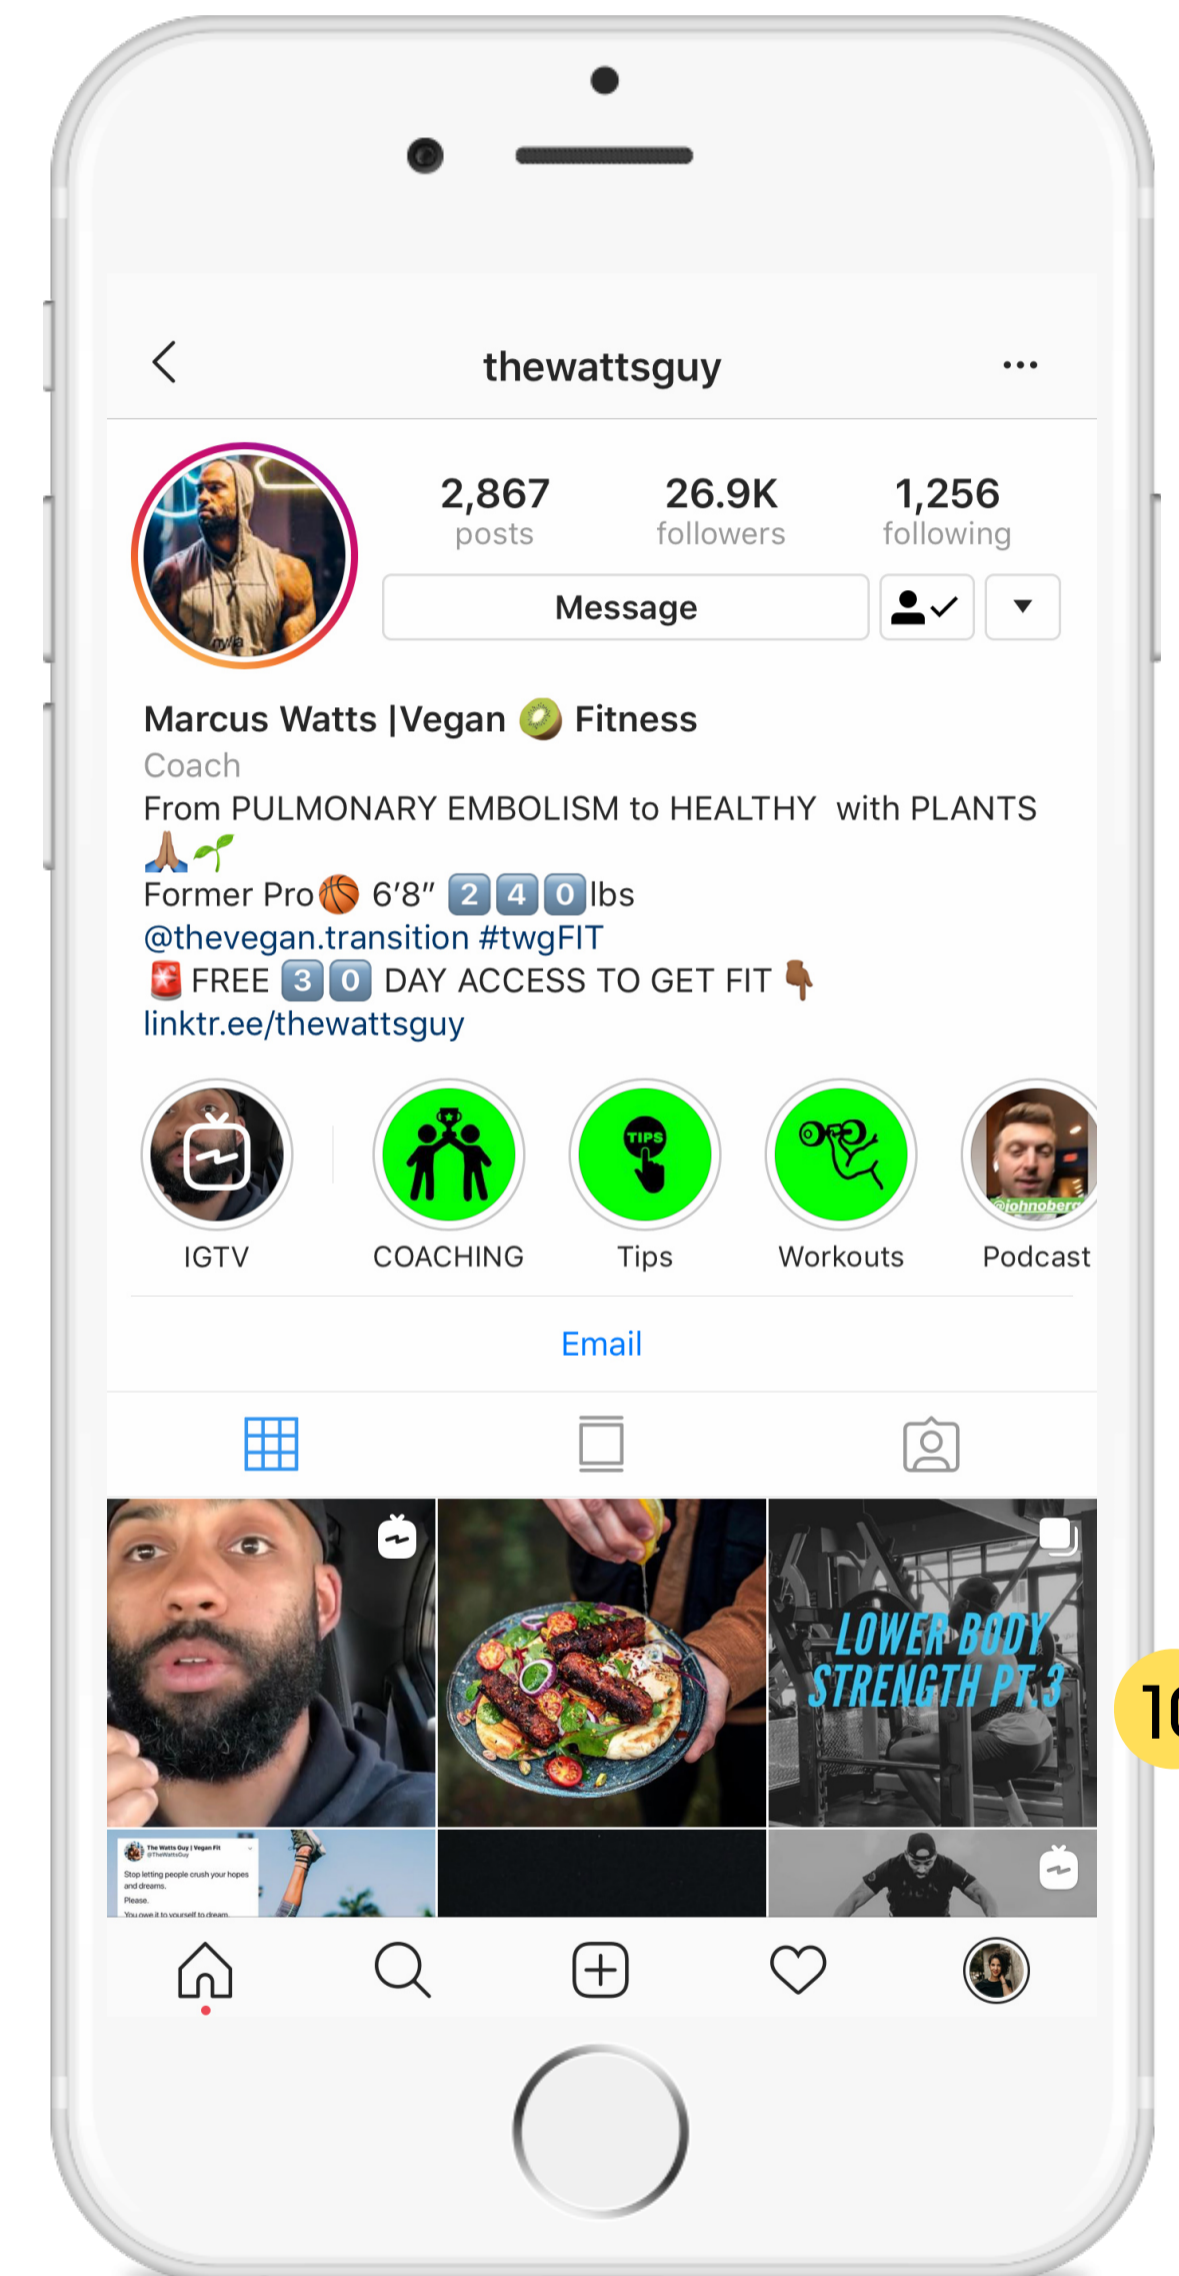

We’ll go over a 5-step process to create “smart themes” for your content shortly.

But also, consider:

- ▶ If I’m coaching, should I include a clear image or video of myself at least 1 in every 9 posts?
- ▶ If I sell products, should my product (or my product in use) be in 1 of every 6 posts?
- ▶ If I’m a teacher or consultant, should there be a clear graphic inviting people to an event or lesson of mine at least 1 in every 6 posts? Or 9 posts?

What will send the clearest and most helpful message?

Makeover Goal Five: Your "Vlog Posts"

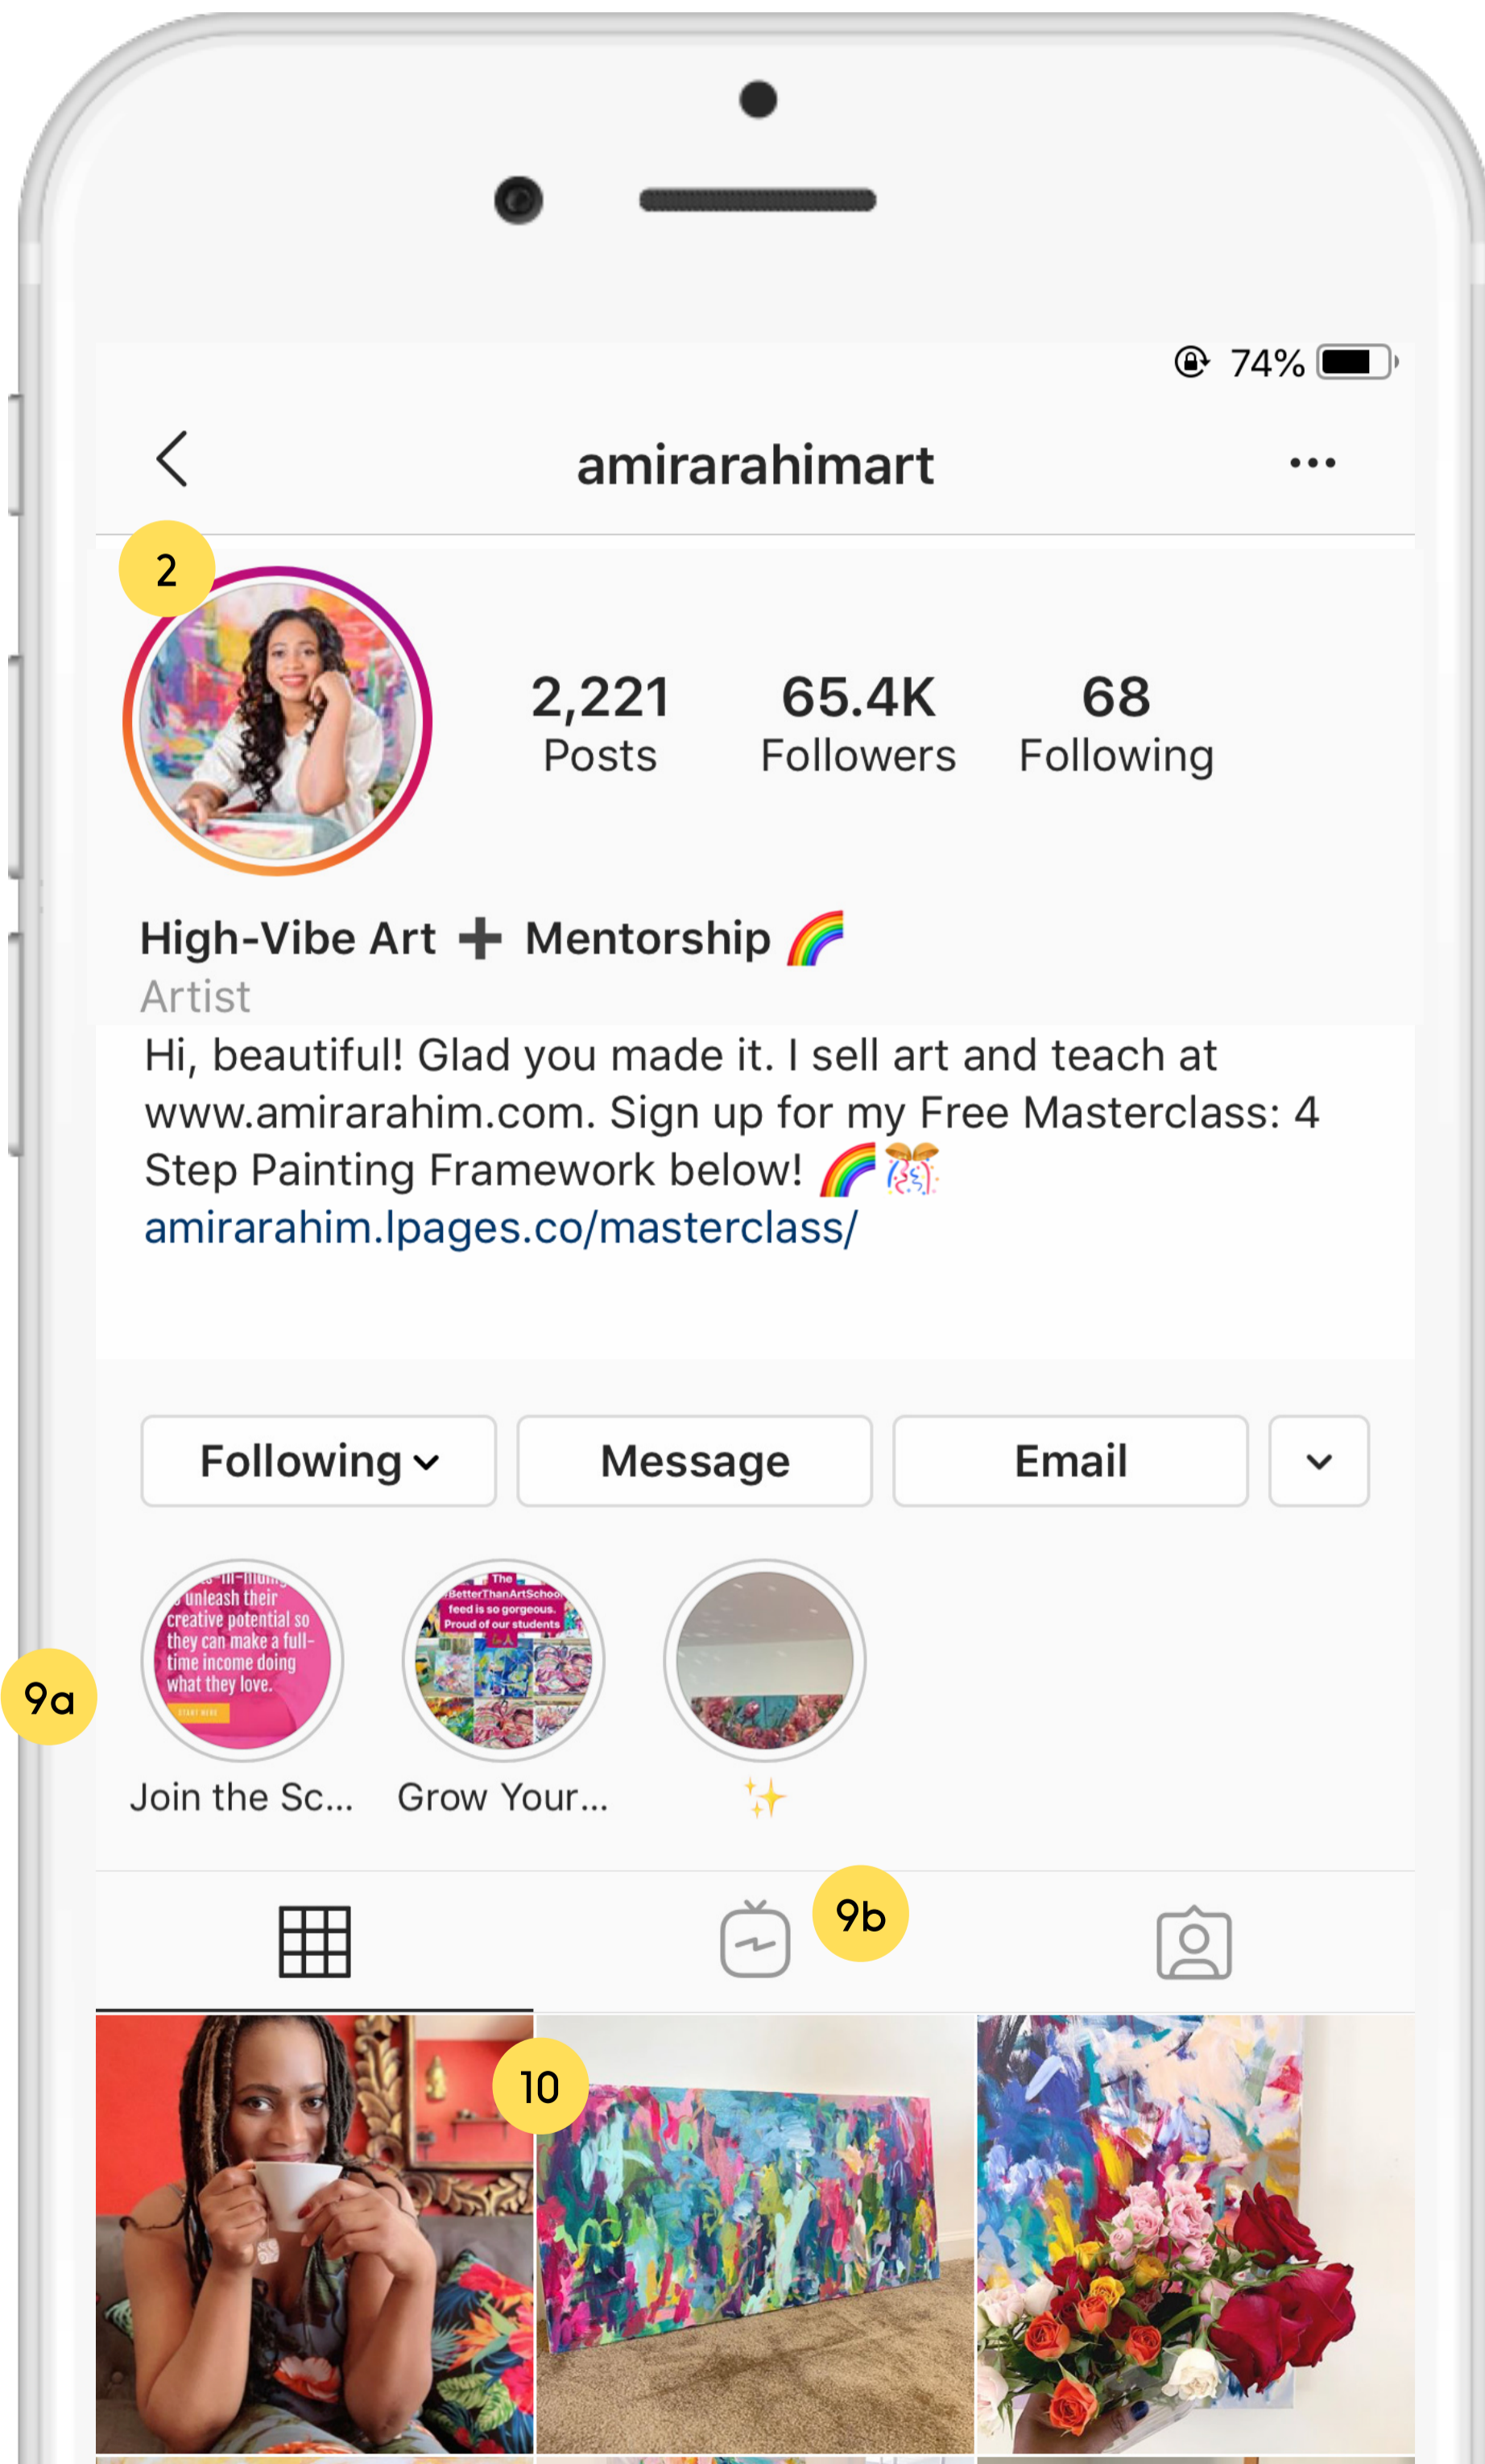

Makeover Goal #5: Your IG “Vlog Posts”

As you decide what videos you want to post in your IG gallery, and in other places such as IGTV, IG Live, or as Stories, use the 5-step process for “smart themes” we’ll show you shortly. But also think, will your video be a:

- Tutorial/walkthrough?
- Case study?
- Lesson?
- Behind the scenes (BTS) video?
- Before & after share?
- Testimonial?
- Portfolio piece?
- Story (in a more traditional sense—because all of the above will have story elements)?
- Motivational video designed to encourage people to take a specific action?

Videos can go in your gallery (#10 in the image), can be IGTV episodes (#9b), part of your Stories highlights (#9a), or part of your Stories in general (#2).

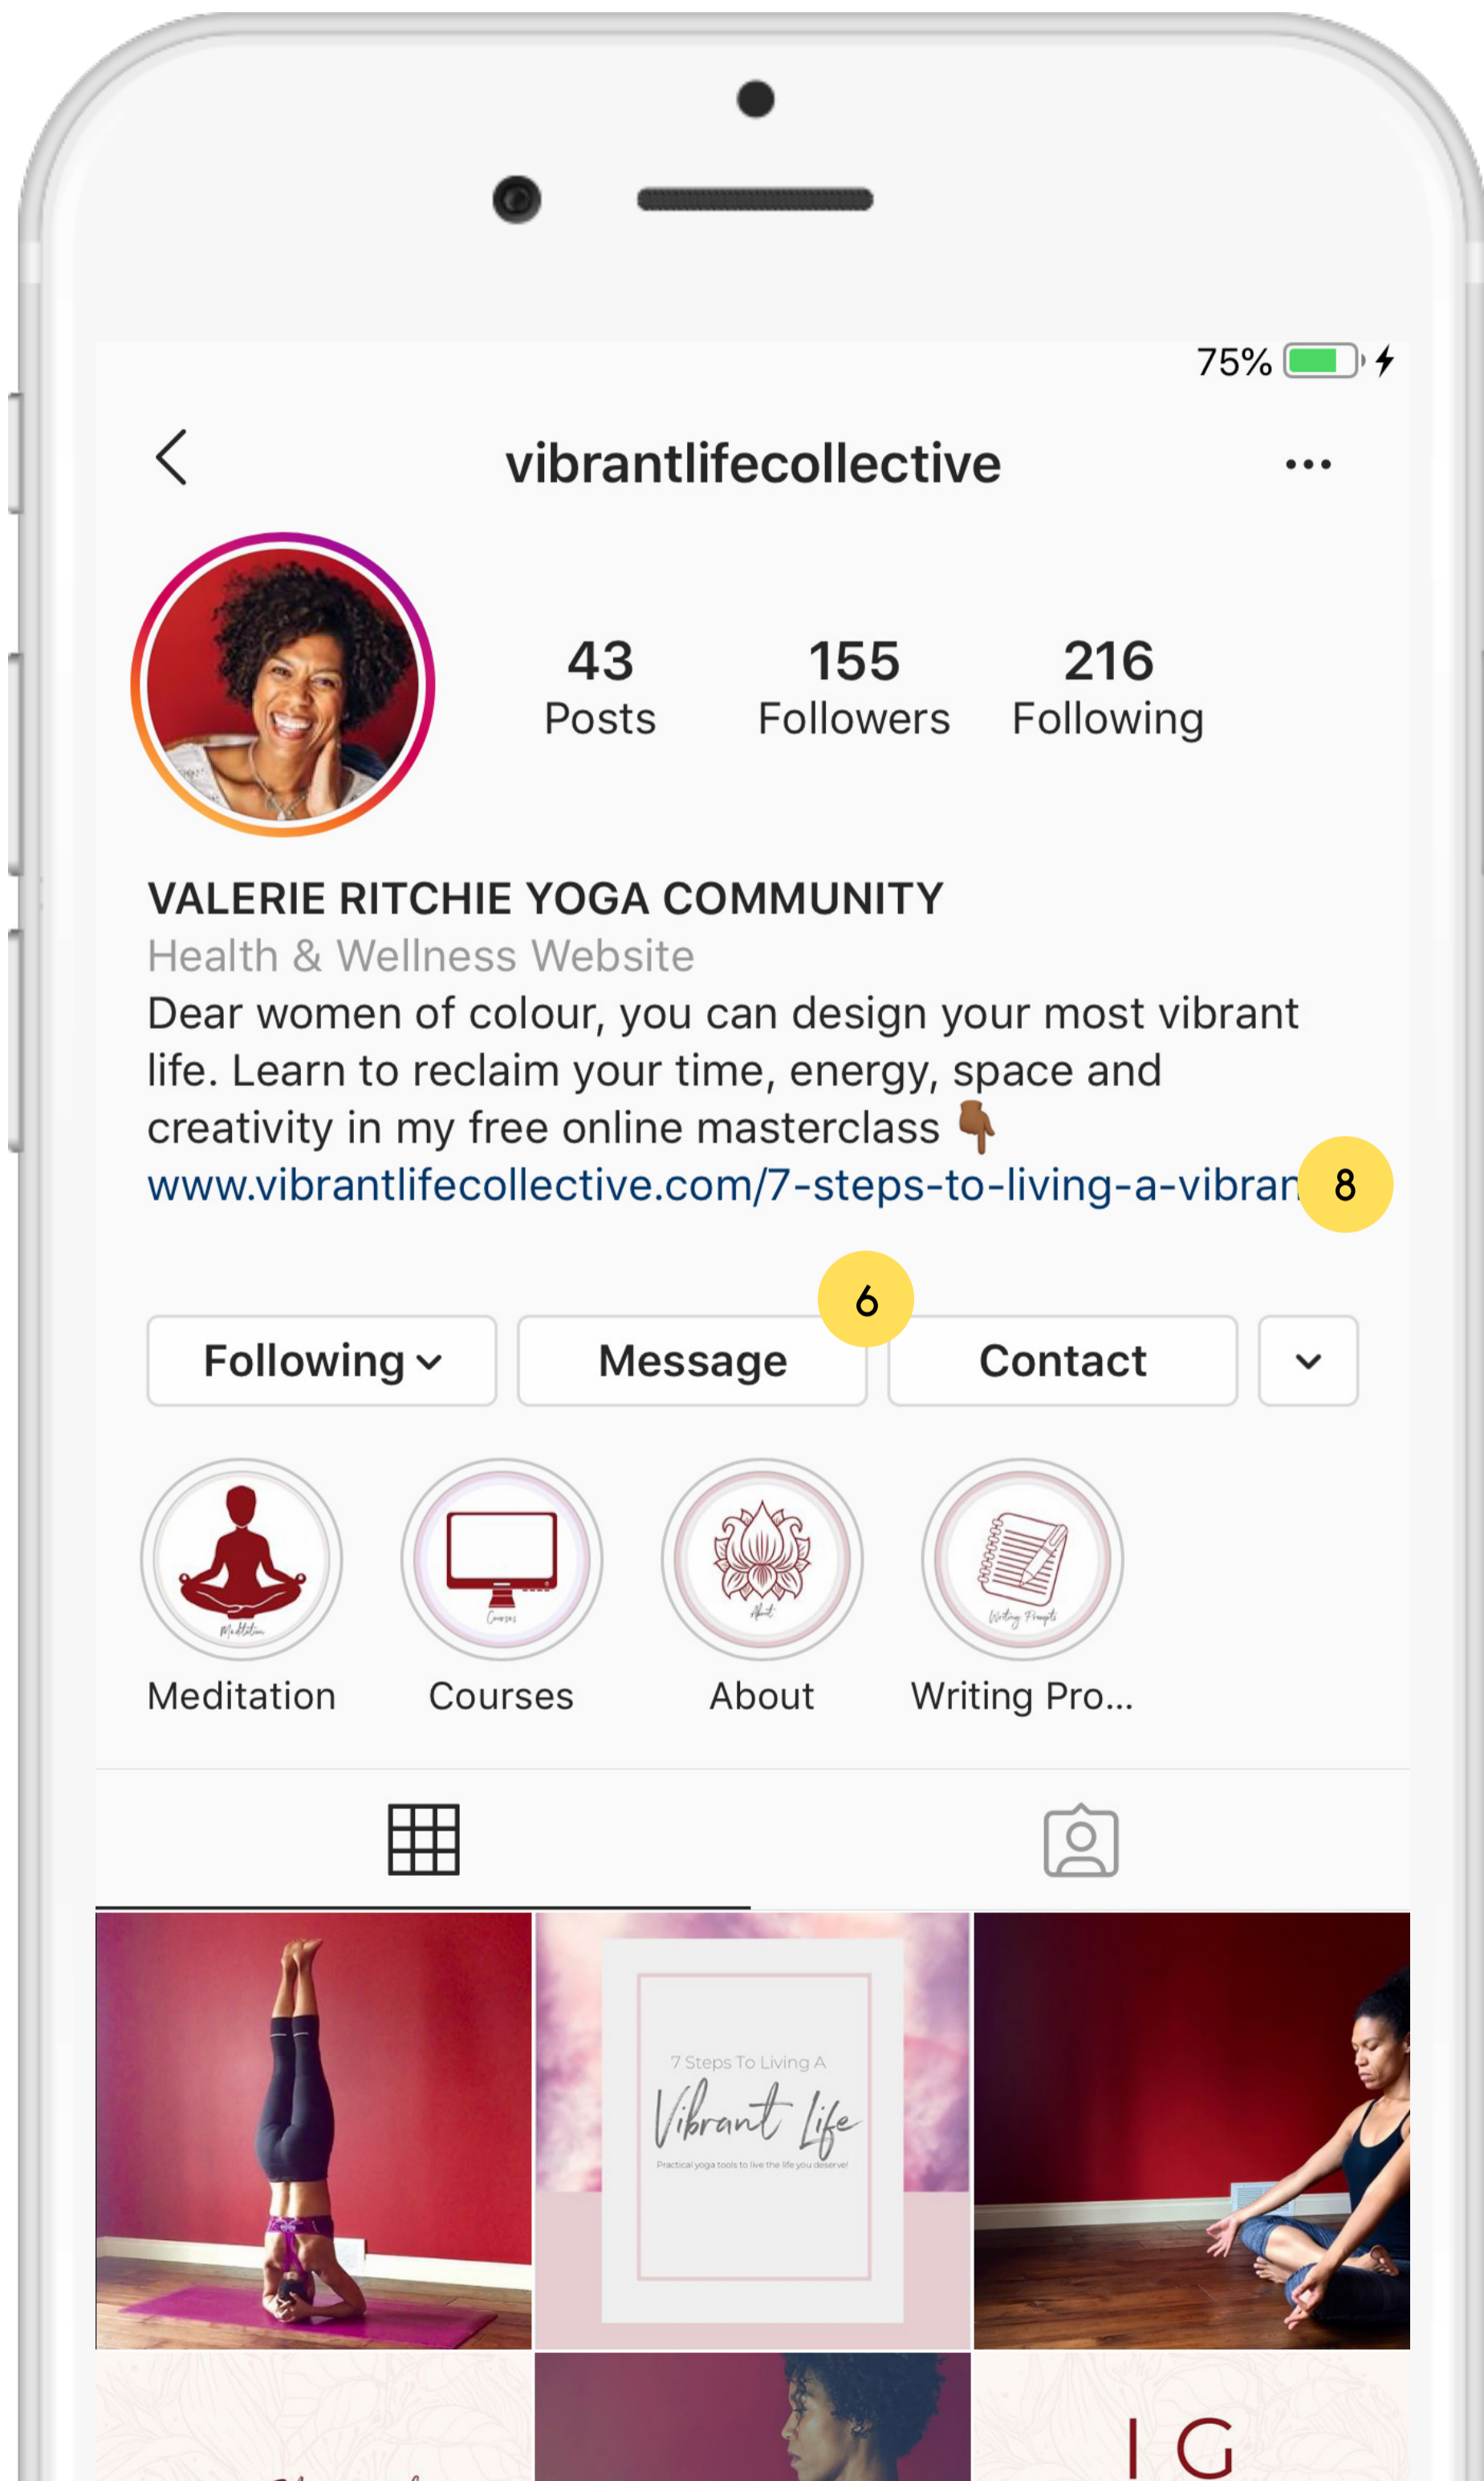

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

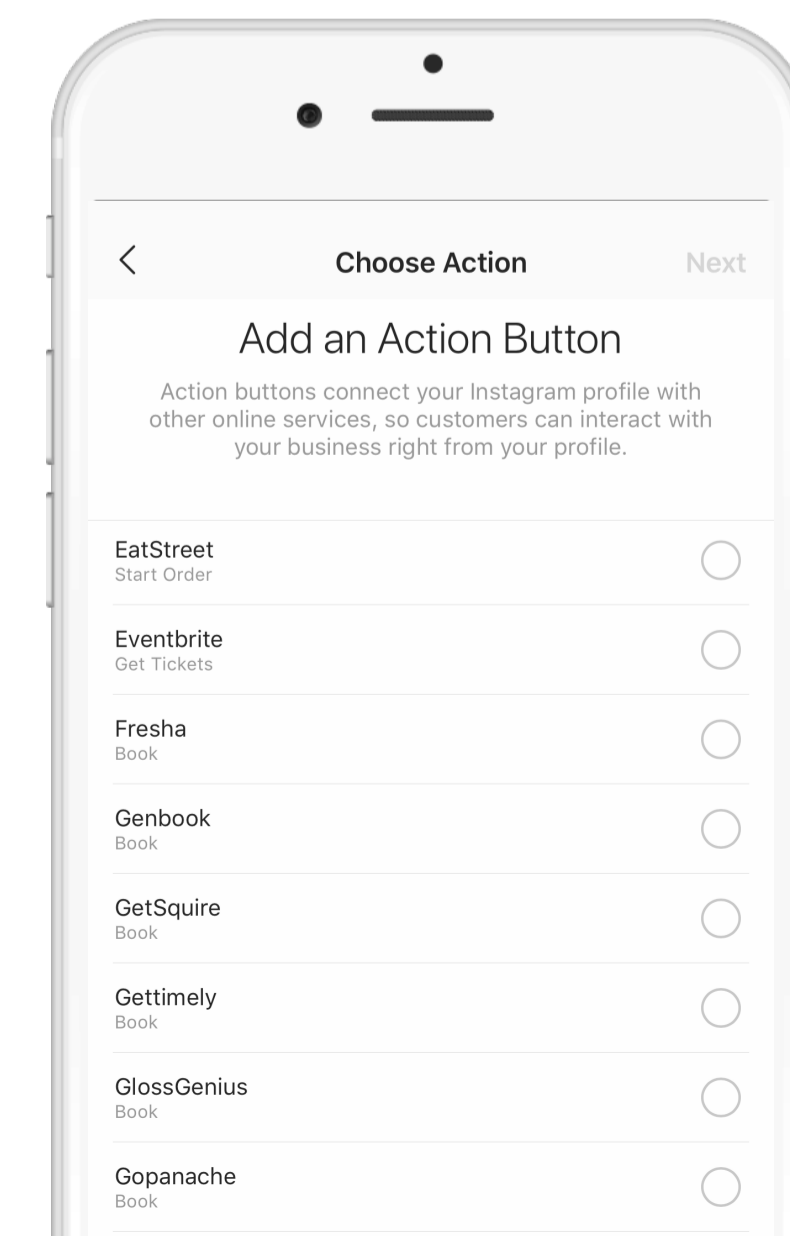

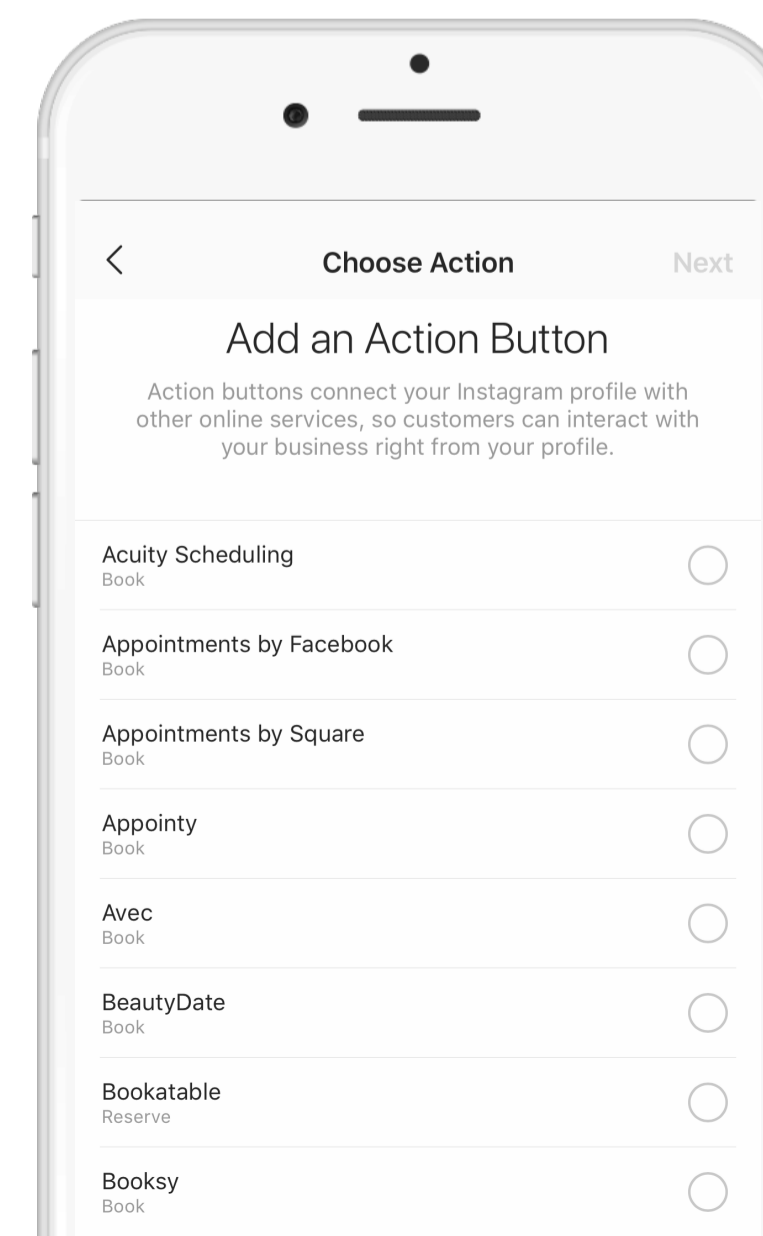

Makeover Goal Six: Your "Contact Page"

Makeover Goal #6: Your IG “Contact Page”

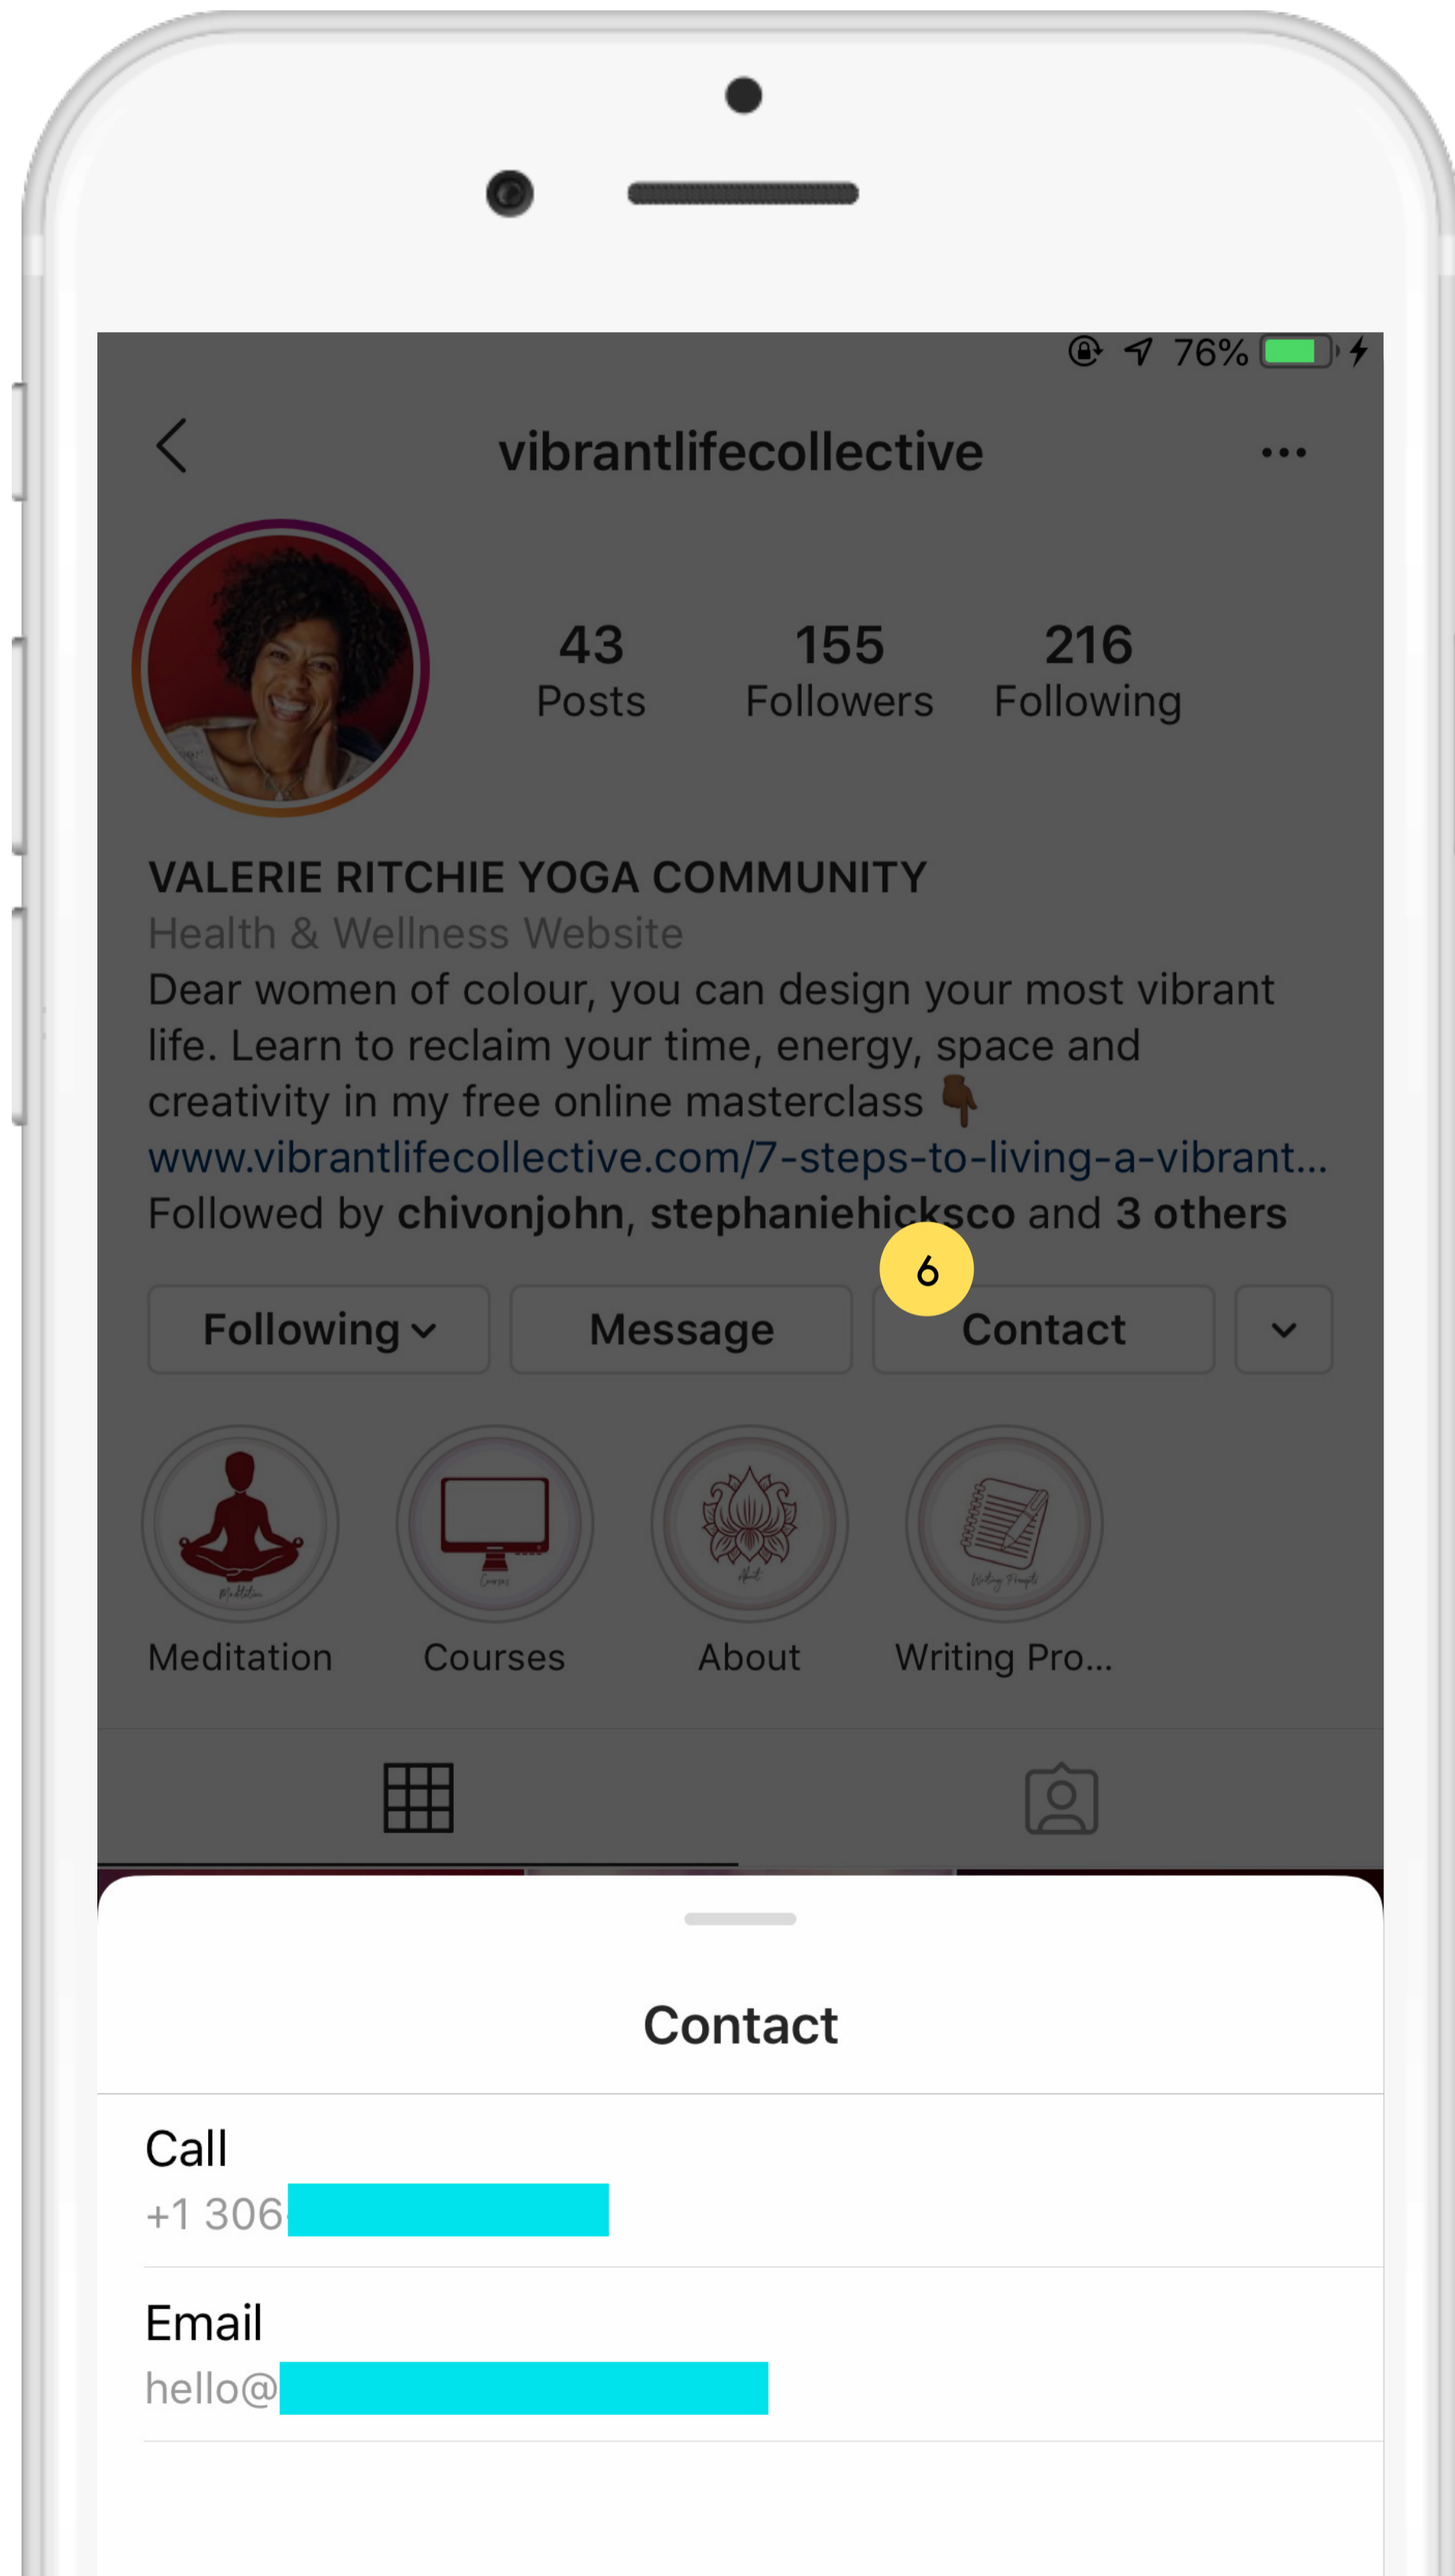

Not only will potential clients be encouraged to contact you by the “Message” button on your profile if they follow you (#6 in the image on the left), but you can make a clear ask/offer in your bio and link as well.

You can also open up Instagram and hit the “Edit Profile” button then head to “Contact Options” . . . this is where you can add/change your email address, phone number, and address (if you have a physical location of your business that you want people to show up to), plus, it’s where you should be able to “Add an Action Button”  such as “Book” for an Acuity appointment or “Get Tickets” if you have an event.

Makeover Goal #6: Your IG “Contact Page”

When someone hits your contact button, the options you've added will appear.

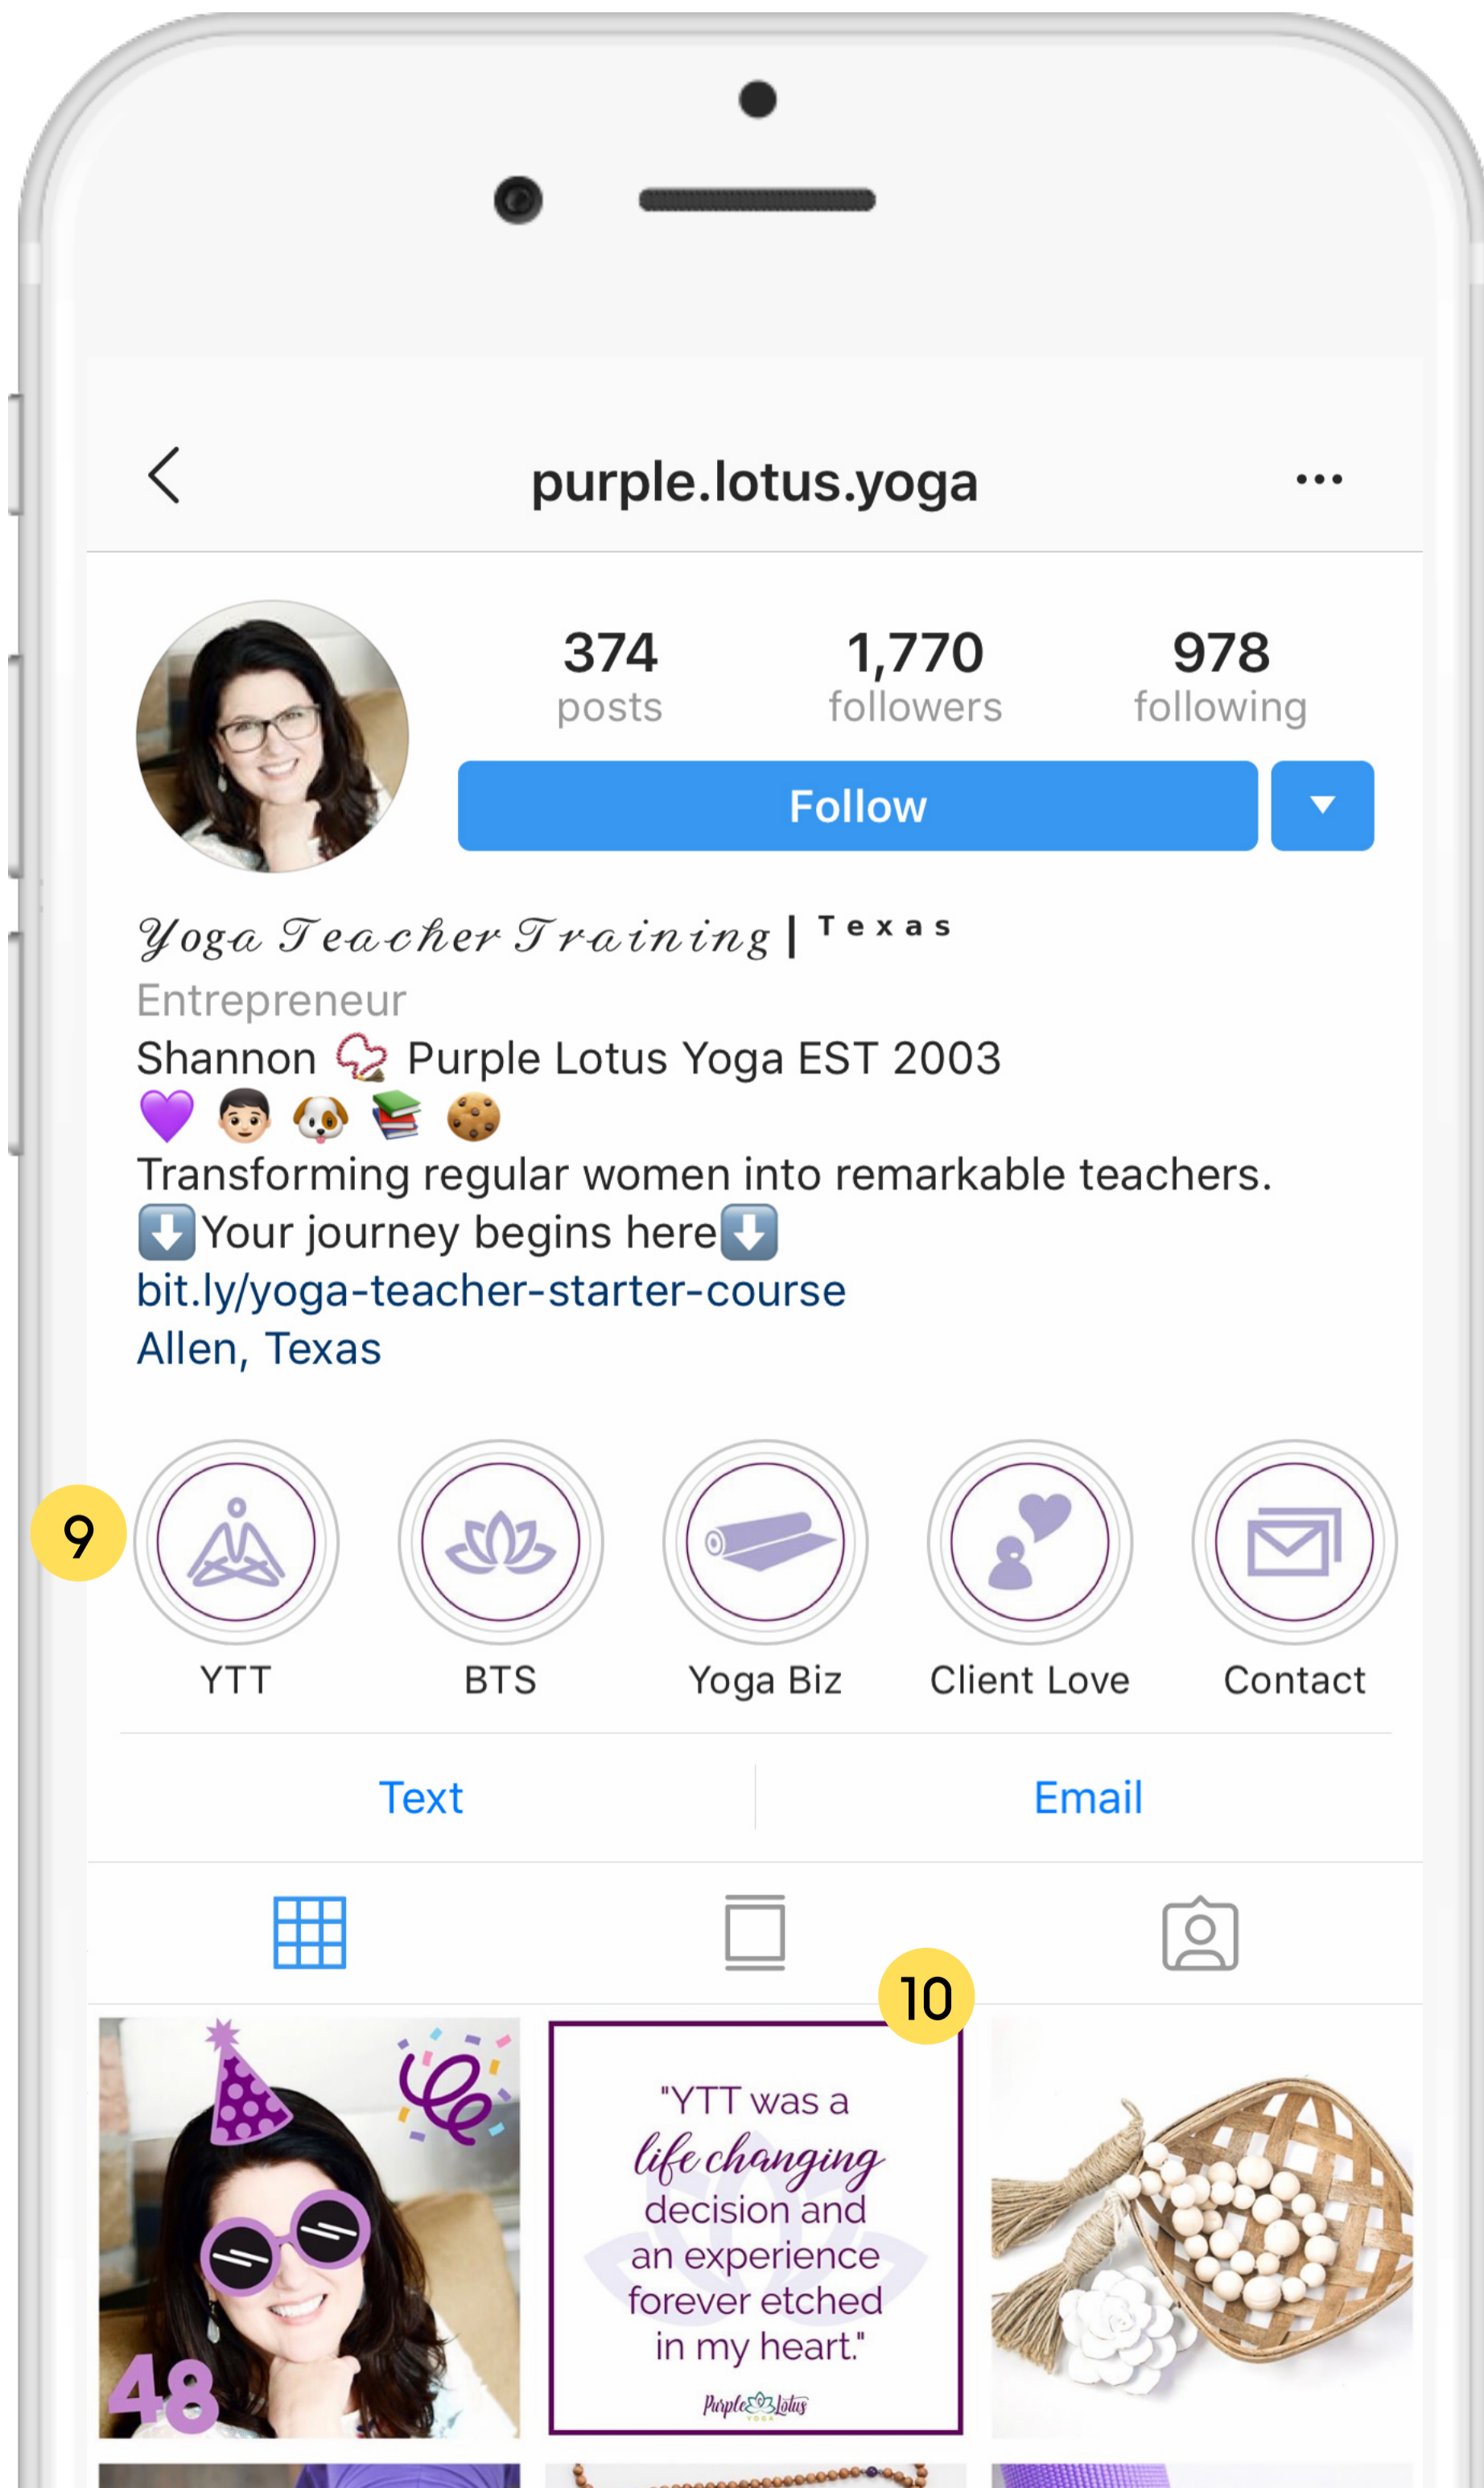

Use the Second Website Framework for Your IG Makeover

Makeover Goal Seven: Your “Testimonials”

Makeover Goal #7: Your Testimonials

Since you have something to offer people that you know is truly helpful and/or transformative, why not highlight the success/happiness of other customers (always with permission of course), so that new ideal potential customers have increased confidence that you can help them?

You can include "Client Love" or "Case Studies" (or even "Success Stories" or "Testimonials" or "Client Wins") in your:

- ▶ IG Stories
- ▶ Highlights (as in: your main menu of "static pages")
- ▶ IGTV episodes
- ▶ IG Lives or co-hosted Lives (why not invite your client on for an interview?)
- ▶ Gallery videos
- ▶ Gallery images
- ▶ Gallery multi-swipe images and video

Think about it: It's the same thing people do on websites. They put testimonials everywhere so new potential customers can't miss them . . . they share testimonials on their home page, sidebar, footer, or even as a whole separate page called "Testimonials" or something of that nature.

2. Research Hashtags the Smart Way and Craft Your Plan

So you don't waste any of your valuable time, or limited space on the IG platform, sharing or searching for hashtags that don't help you.

The Best Way to Find the Hashtags You'll Use and Follow

Hashtags are a way of finding the right people and getting found. You can put them into two main categories: hashtags you'll use on your own content and the hashtags you'll use to find your ideal clients and handshake accounts.

Hashtags are essentially keywords in a form of social media SEO, describing what type of content people are searching for and posting. Not only are hashtags a great way to find the right people in your specific niche, but they also allow Instagram to show your content to users who don't already follow you by making your content searchable.

👉 Hint: You can save sets of hashtags to reuse in software such as Planoly and Plann

The Best Way to Find the Hashtags You'll Use and Follow

As you start your hashtag research, look for these types of categories:

- ▶ Self-description: Hashtags that might describe what you do, such as #HolisticHealthCoach, #yogateacherlife, or #branddesigner
- ▶ Events: Conferences, sporting events, and shows usually have their own hashtag such as #altsummit or #slowbusinessadventure
- ▶ Content type: If you regularly post about co-working, you'll use hashtags associated with co-working such as #coworkinglife
- ▶ Organizations/Influencers: You can use the hashtags and/or names as hashtags of people you admire. Businesses, social movements, podcasts (and more) often have their own hashtags and by using a company's specific hashtag, you have the opportunity of getting on their radar).

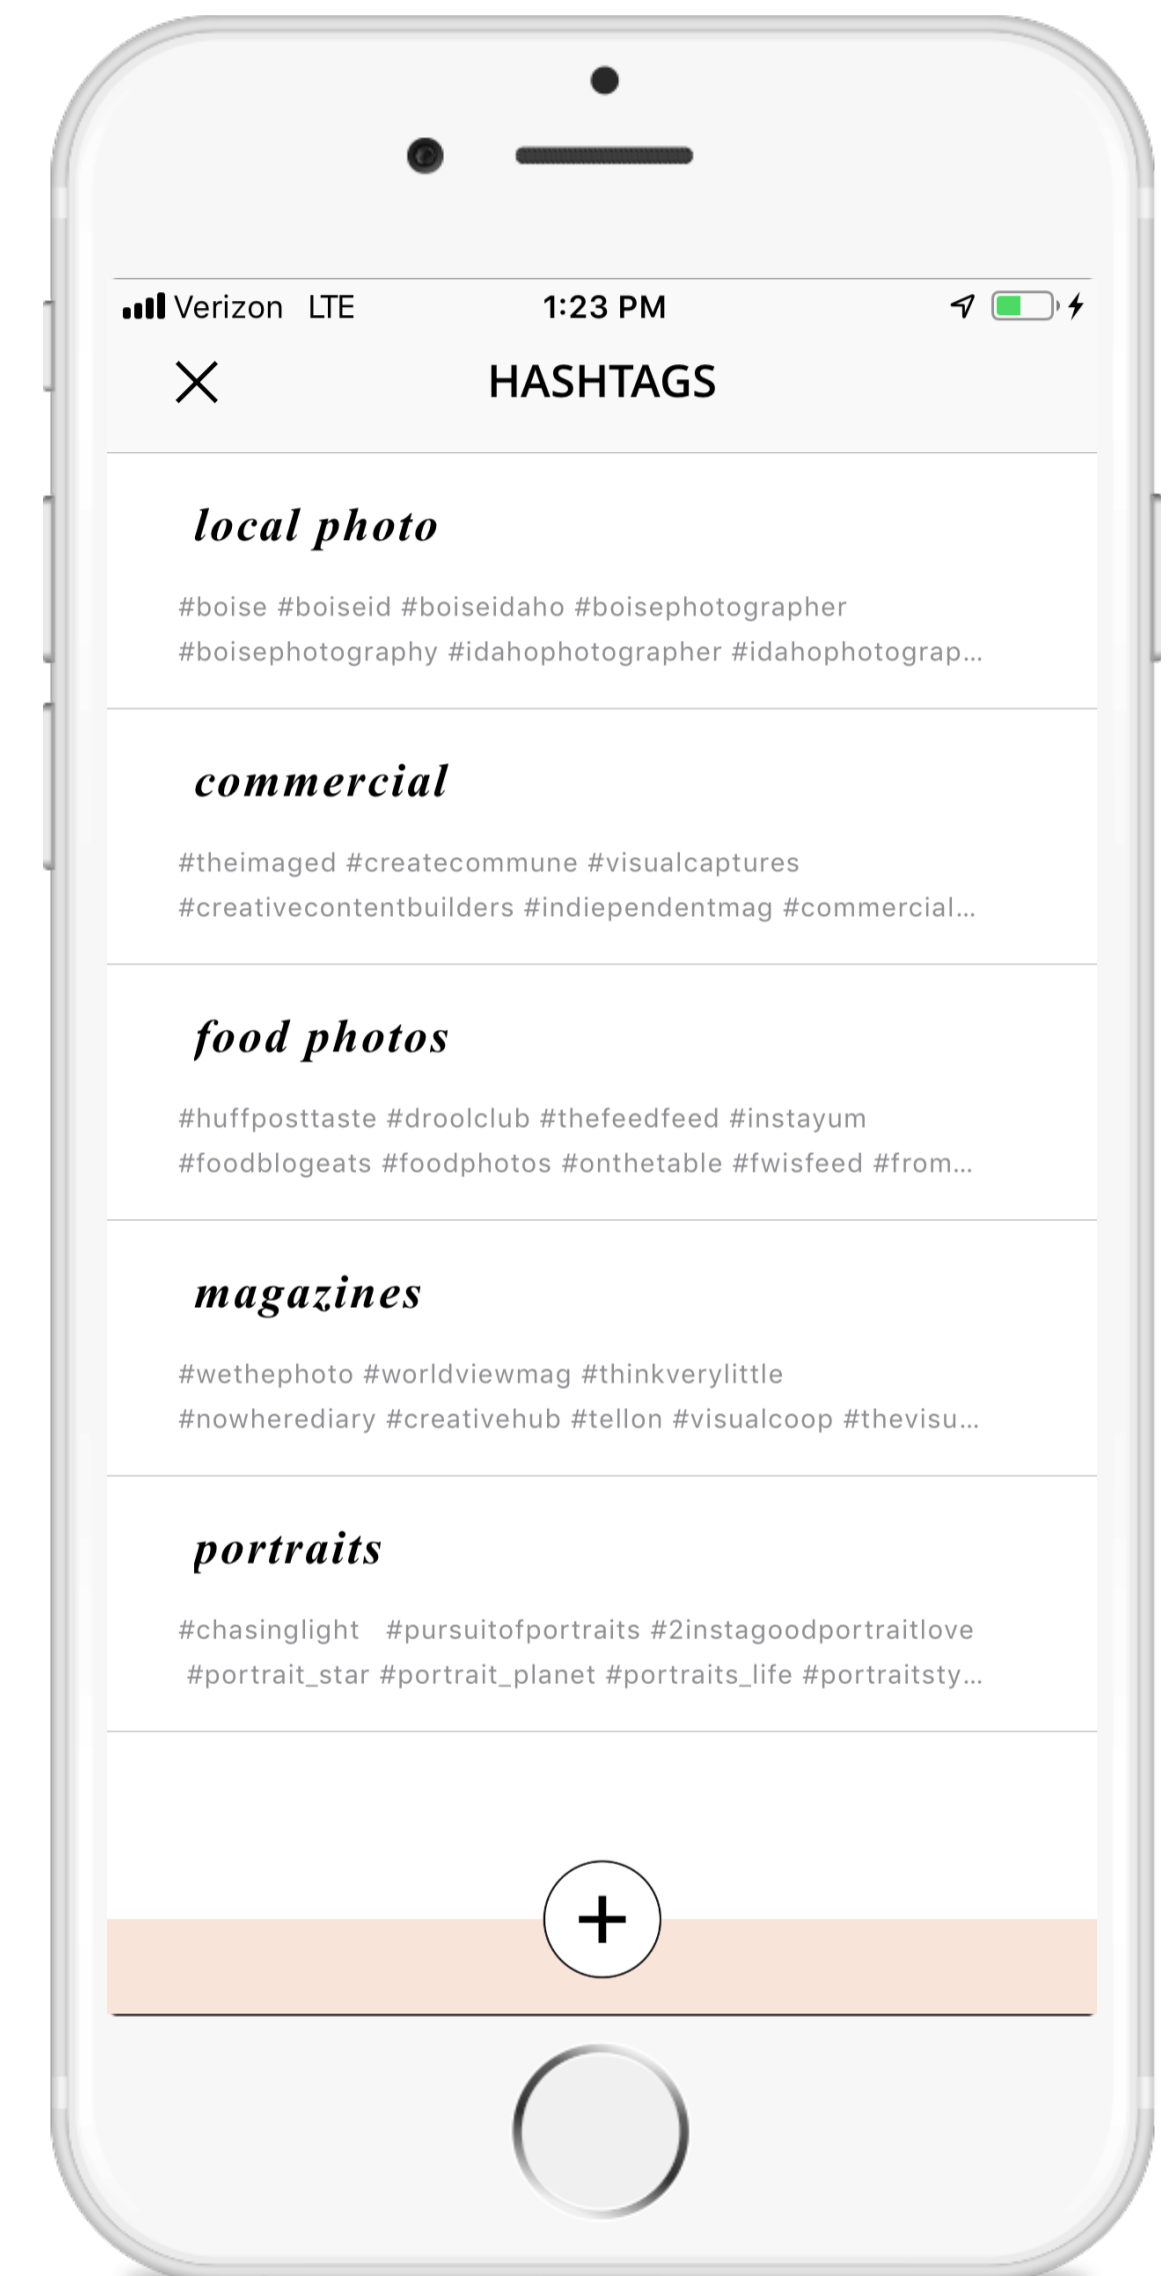

👉 Hint: You can save sets of hashtags to reuse in software such as Planoly and Plann

The Best Way to Find the Hashtags You'll Use and Follow

As you start your hashtag research, look for these types of categories:

- ▶ Your competitors: Take a look at what hashtags your successful competitors are using
- ▶ Location-based: You can use your location or the location of your audience
- ▶ Trending topics: This could include news events, viral content, seasonal content or a large scale Instagram challenge hashtag
- ▶ Publications/websites: Such as #yogajournal or #thrivemags
- ▶ Temporary/time sensitive hashtags: When a hashtag gets very large or if an event recurs annually, a spin-off hashtag often develops such as #altsummit2019
- ▶ Your ideal clients: What hashtags are your ideal clients using on their own photos?

👉 Hint: You can save sets of hashtags to reuse in software such as Planoly and Plann

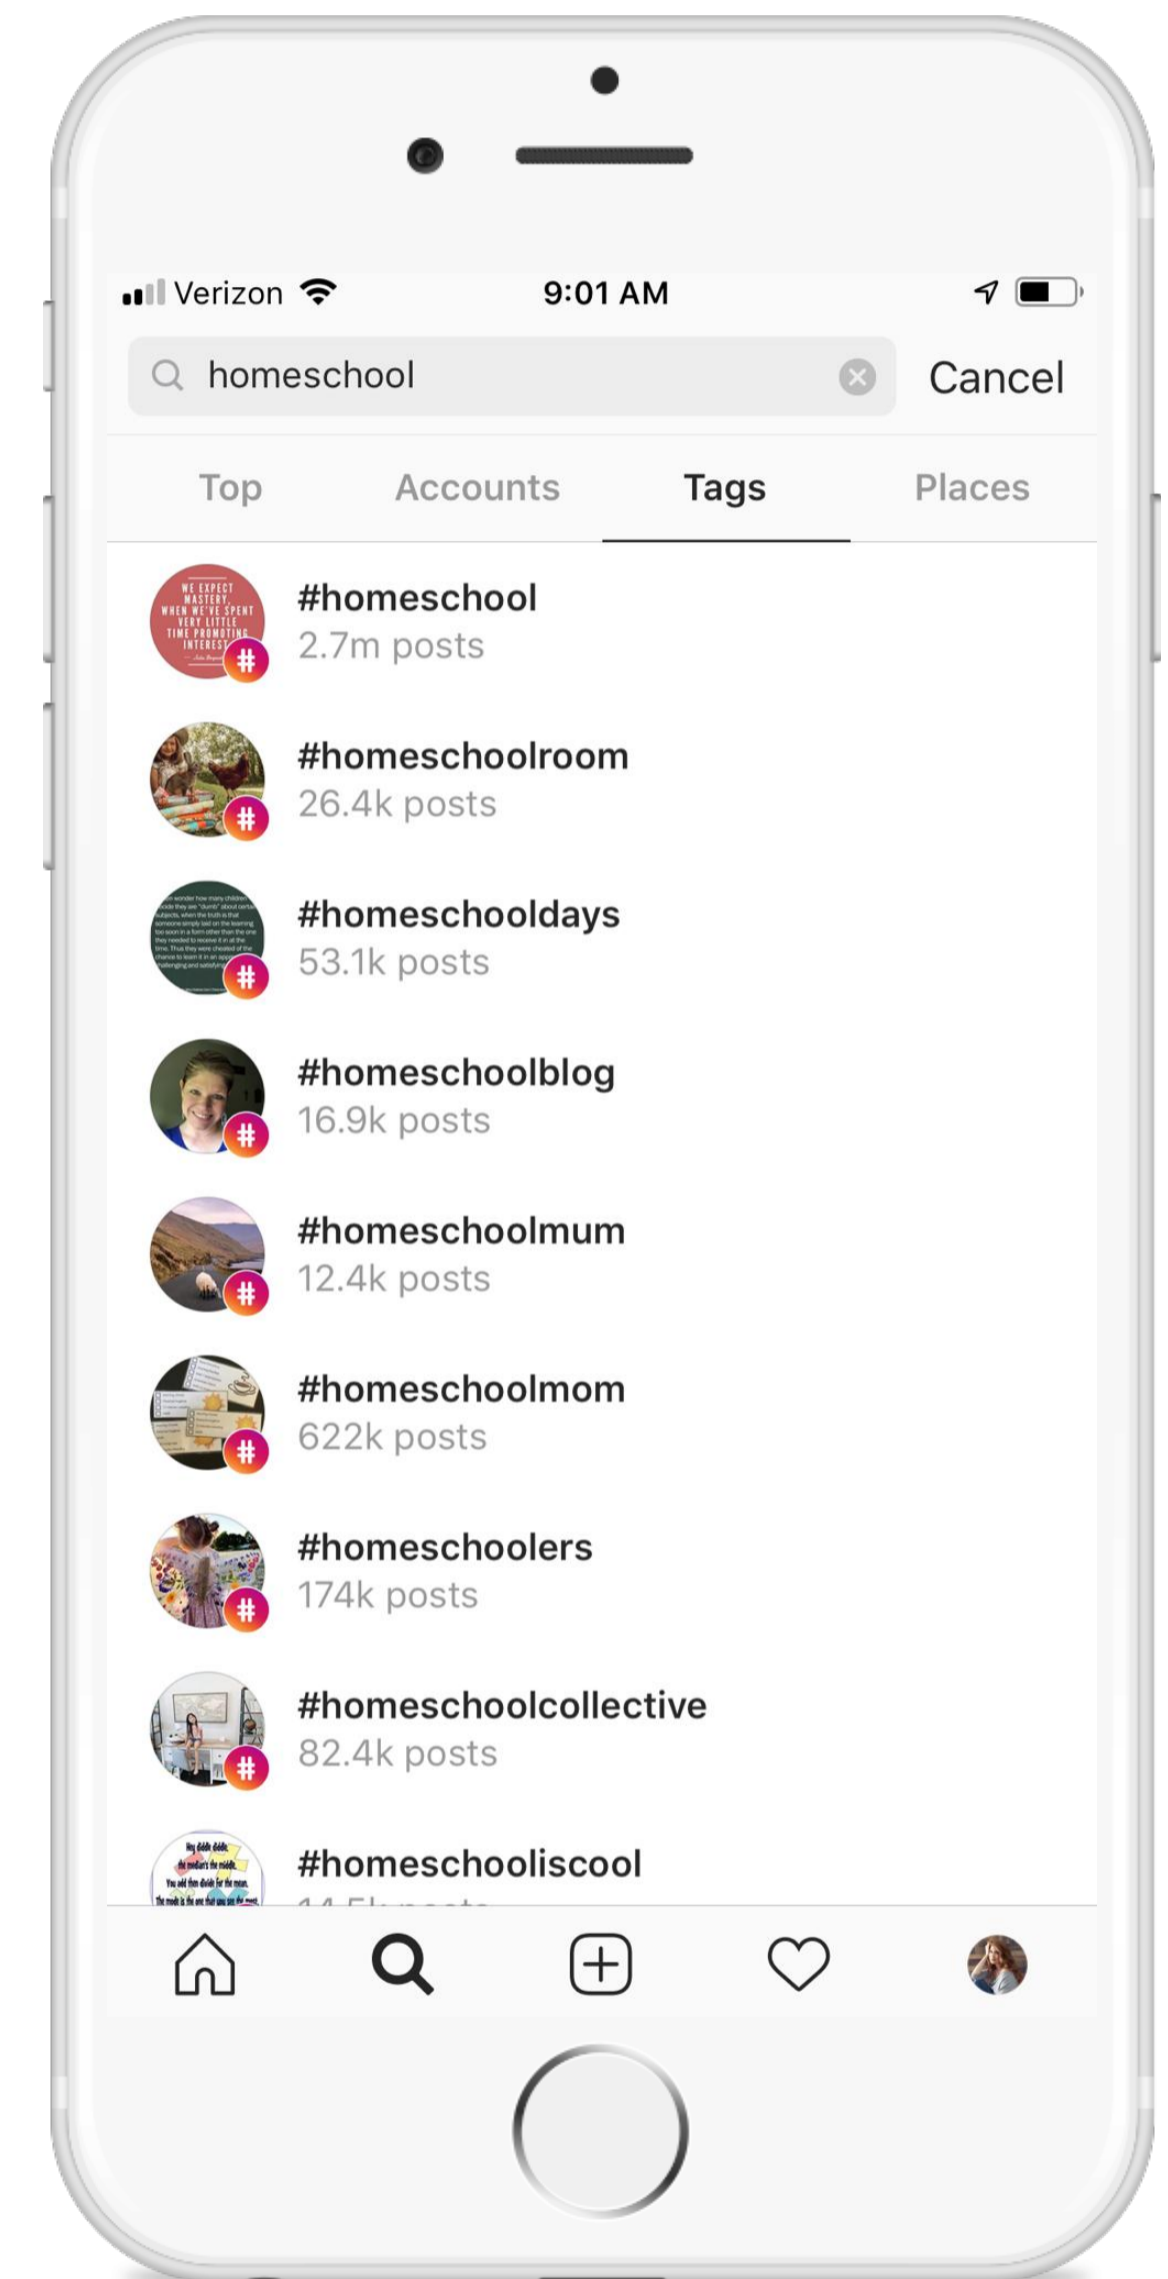

The Best Way to Find the Hashtags You'll Use and Follow

Use a combination of lower and higher volume hashtags.

When you search a hashtag, Instagram will display how many times that particular hashtag has been used on Instagram posts. You can think of these in terms of volume (small, medium and large).

You can start researching from within the Instagram mobile app or on the desktop version. Once you start typing in a word, Instagram will autofill suggestions for you and show how popular those hashtags are.

👉 Hint: You can save sets of hashtags to reuse in software such as Planoly and Plann

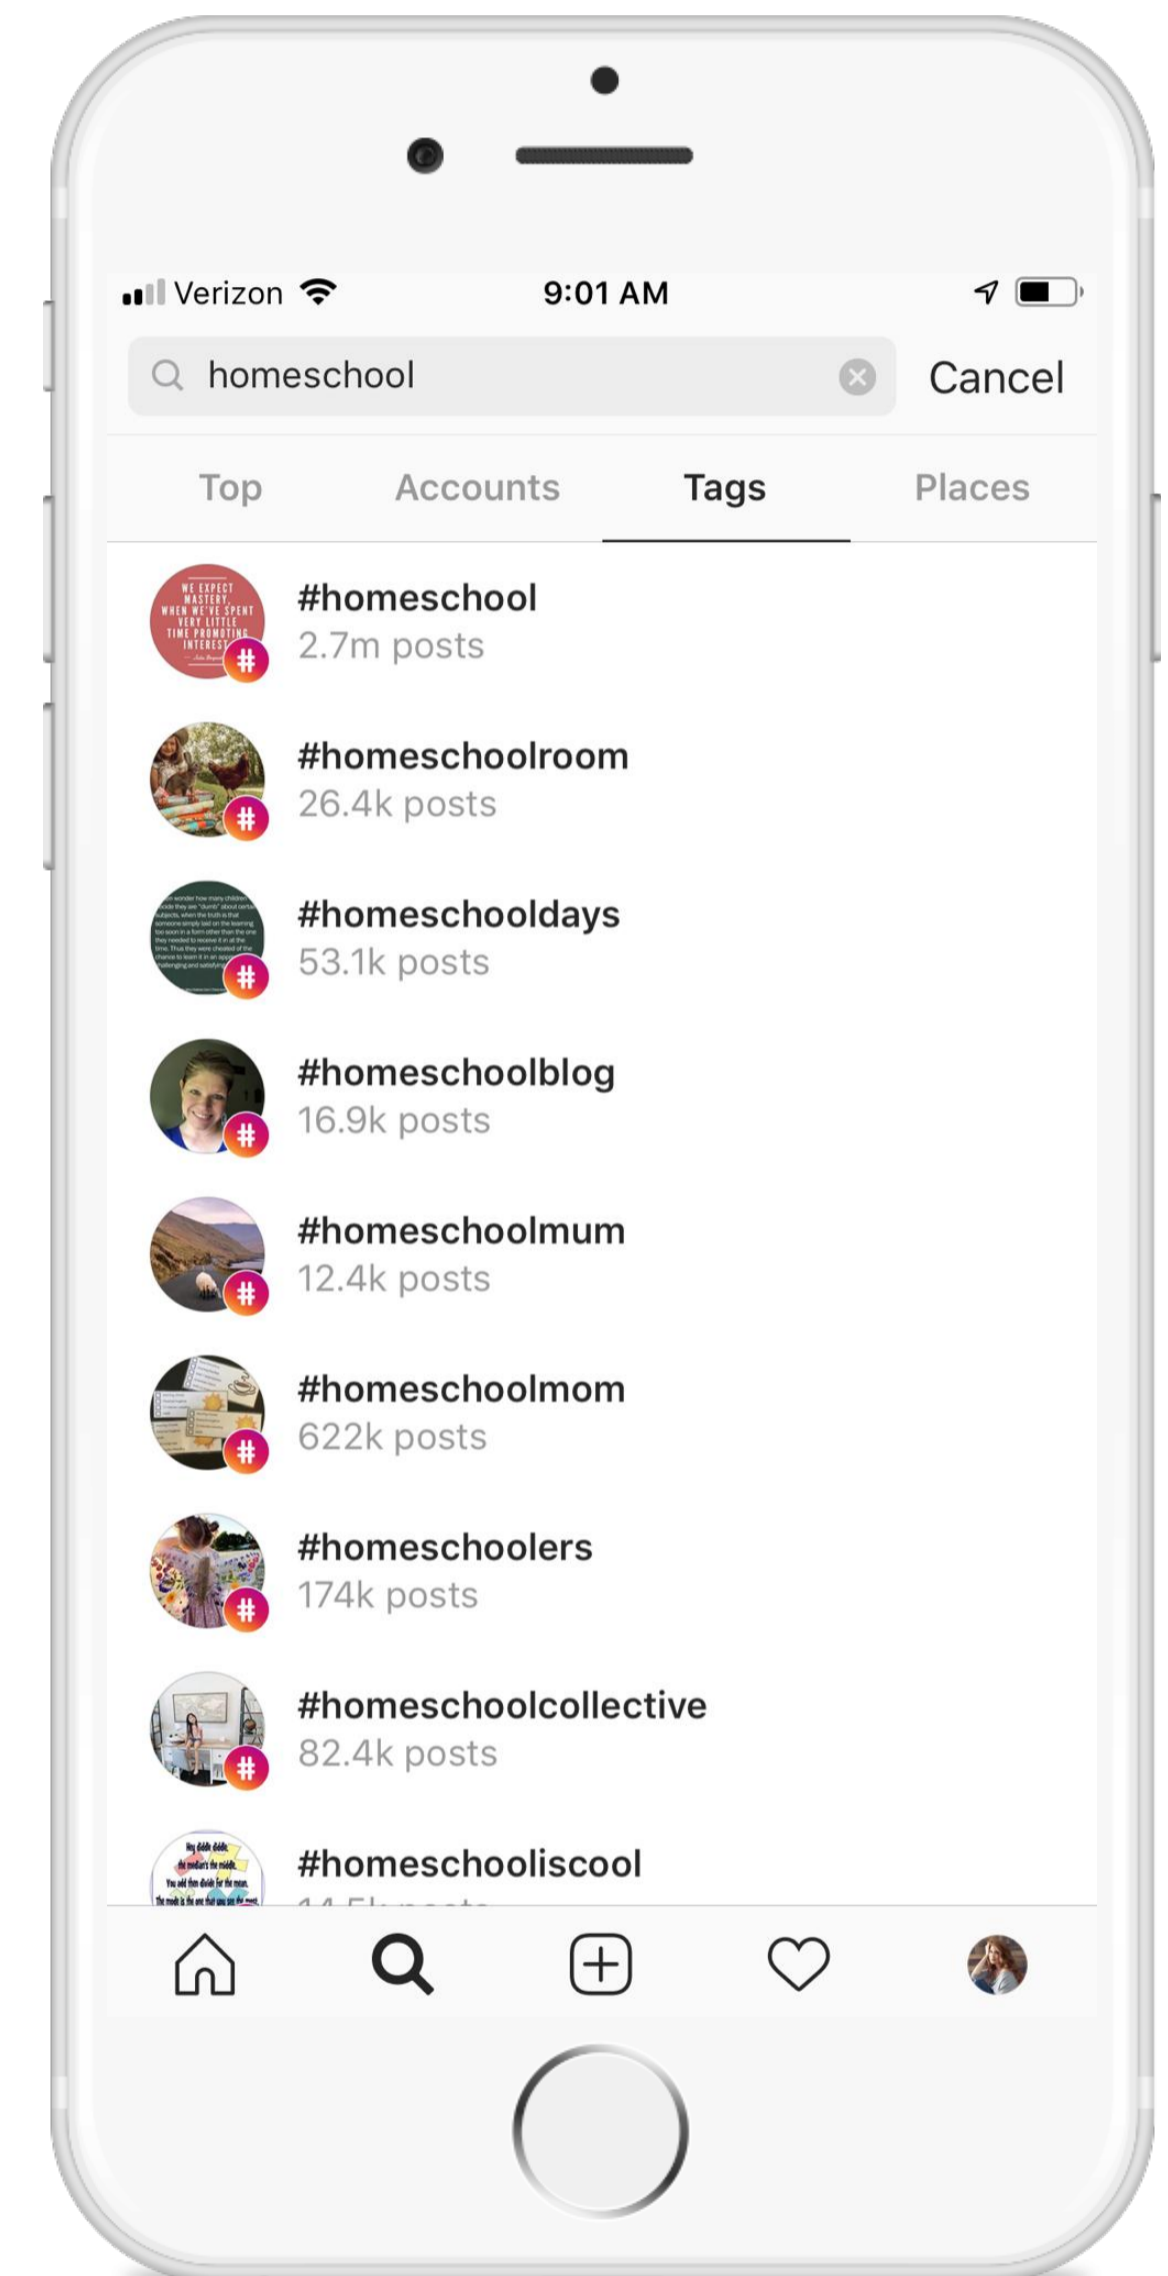

The Best Way to Find the Hashtags You'll Use and Follow

Research and test.

If you are starting with a small account or from scratch, we recommend using a greater number of micro, small, and medium hashtags which we'll explain in a bit.

Why? You're more likely to be seen by people specifically searching for those targeted hashtags. If you only use very large/x-large hashtags, your content may be lost in a sea of posts. Keep in mind that "x-large" hashtags (used over several million times) may also attract spam comments and low-quality followers (such as bots or follow/unfollow users).

The Best Way to Find the Hashtags You'll Use and Follow

Ideas:

- ▶ Use several different sets of hashtags and rotate through them, based on your image and caption content.
- ▶ You can store these in a Google spreadsheet, Evernote document, or a notes app that can sync between your computer and your phone. You can also use Planoly, Later, or Plann (among other tools) to store sets of hashtags and automatically add them to your captions. Or, you can store hashtag sets in your phone, so you can easily copy and paste them into your captions.

Test questions to ask after 30 days of use: Did I show up in the Discovery section for any of these hashtags? Which set got me the most engagement? Which set seemed to get comments from new people?

3. Identify and Organize Your Manual Engagement Handshake Accounts

So you will know how to find your potential clients on Instagram.

Let's Grow Your Account (With the Right People)

Before we go all Hulk-style growth on your Instagram account, there's something important we have to talk about. See. There's this thing called the Oprah test. Okay, I just made it up, but still. Think of a major influencer who has TV/social/etc. influence . . . someone who if they mentioned you, a ton of people would flood to your Instagram account, website, or podcast (whatever was mentioned or linked).

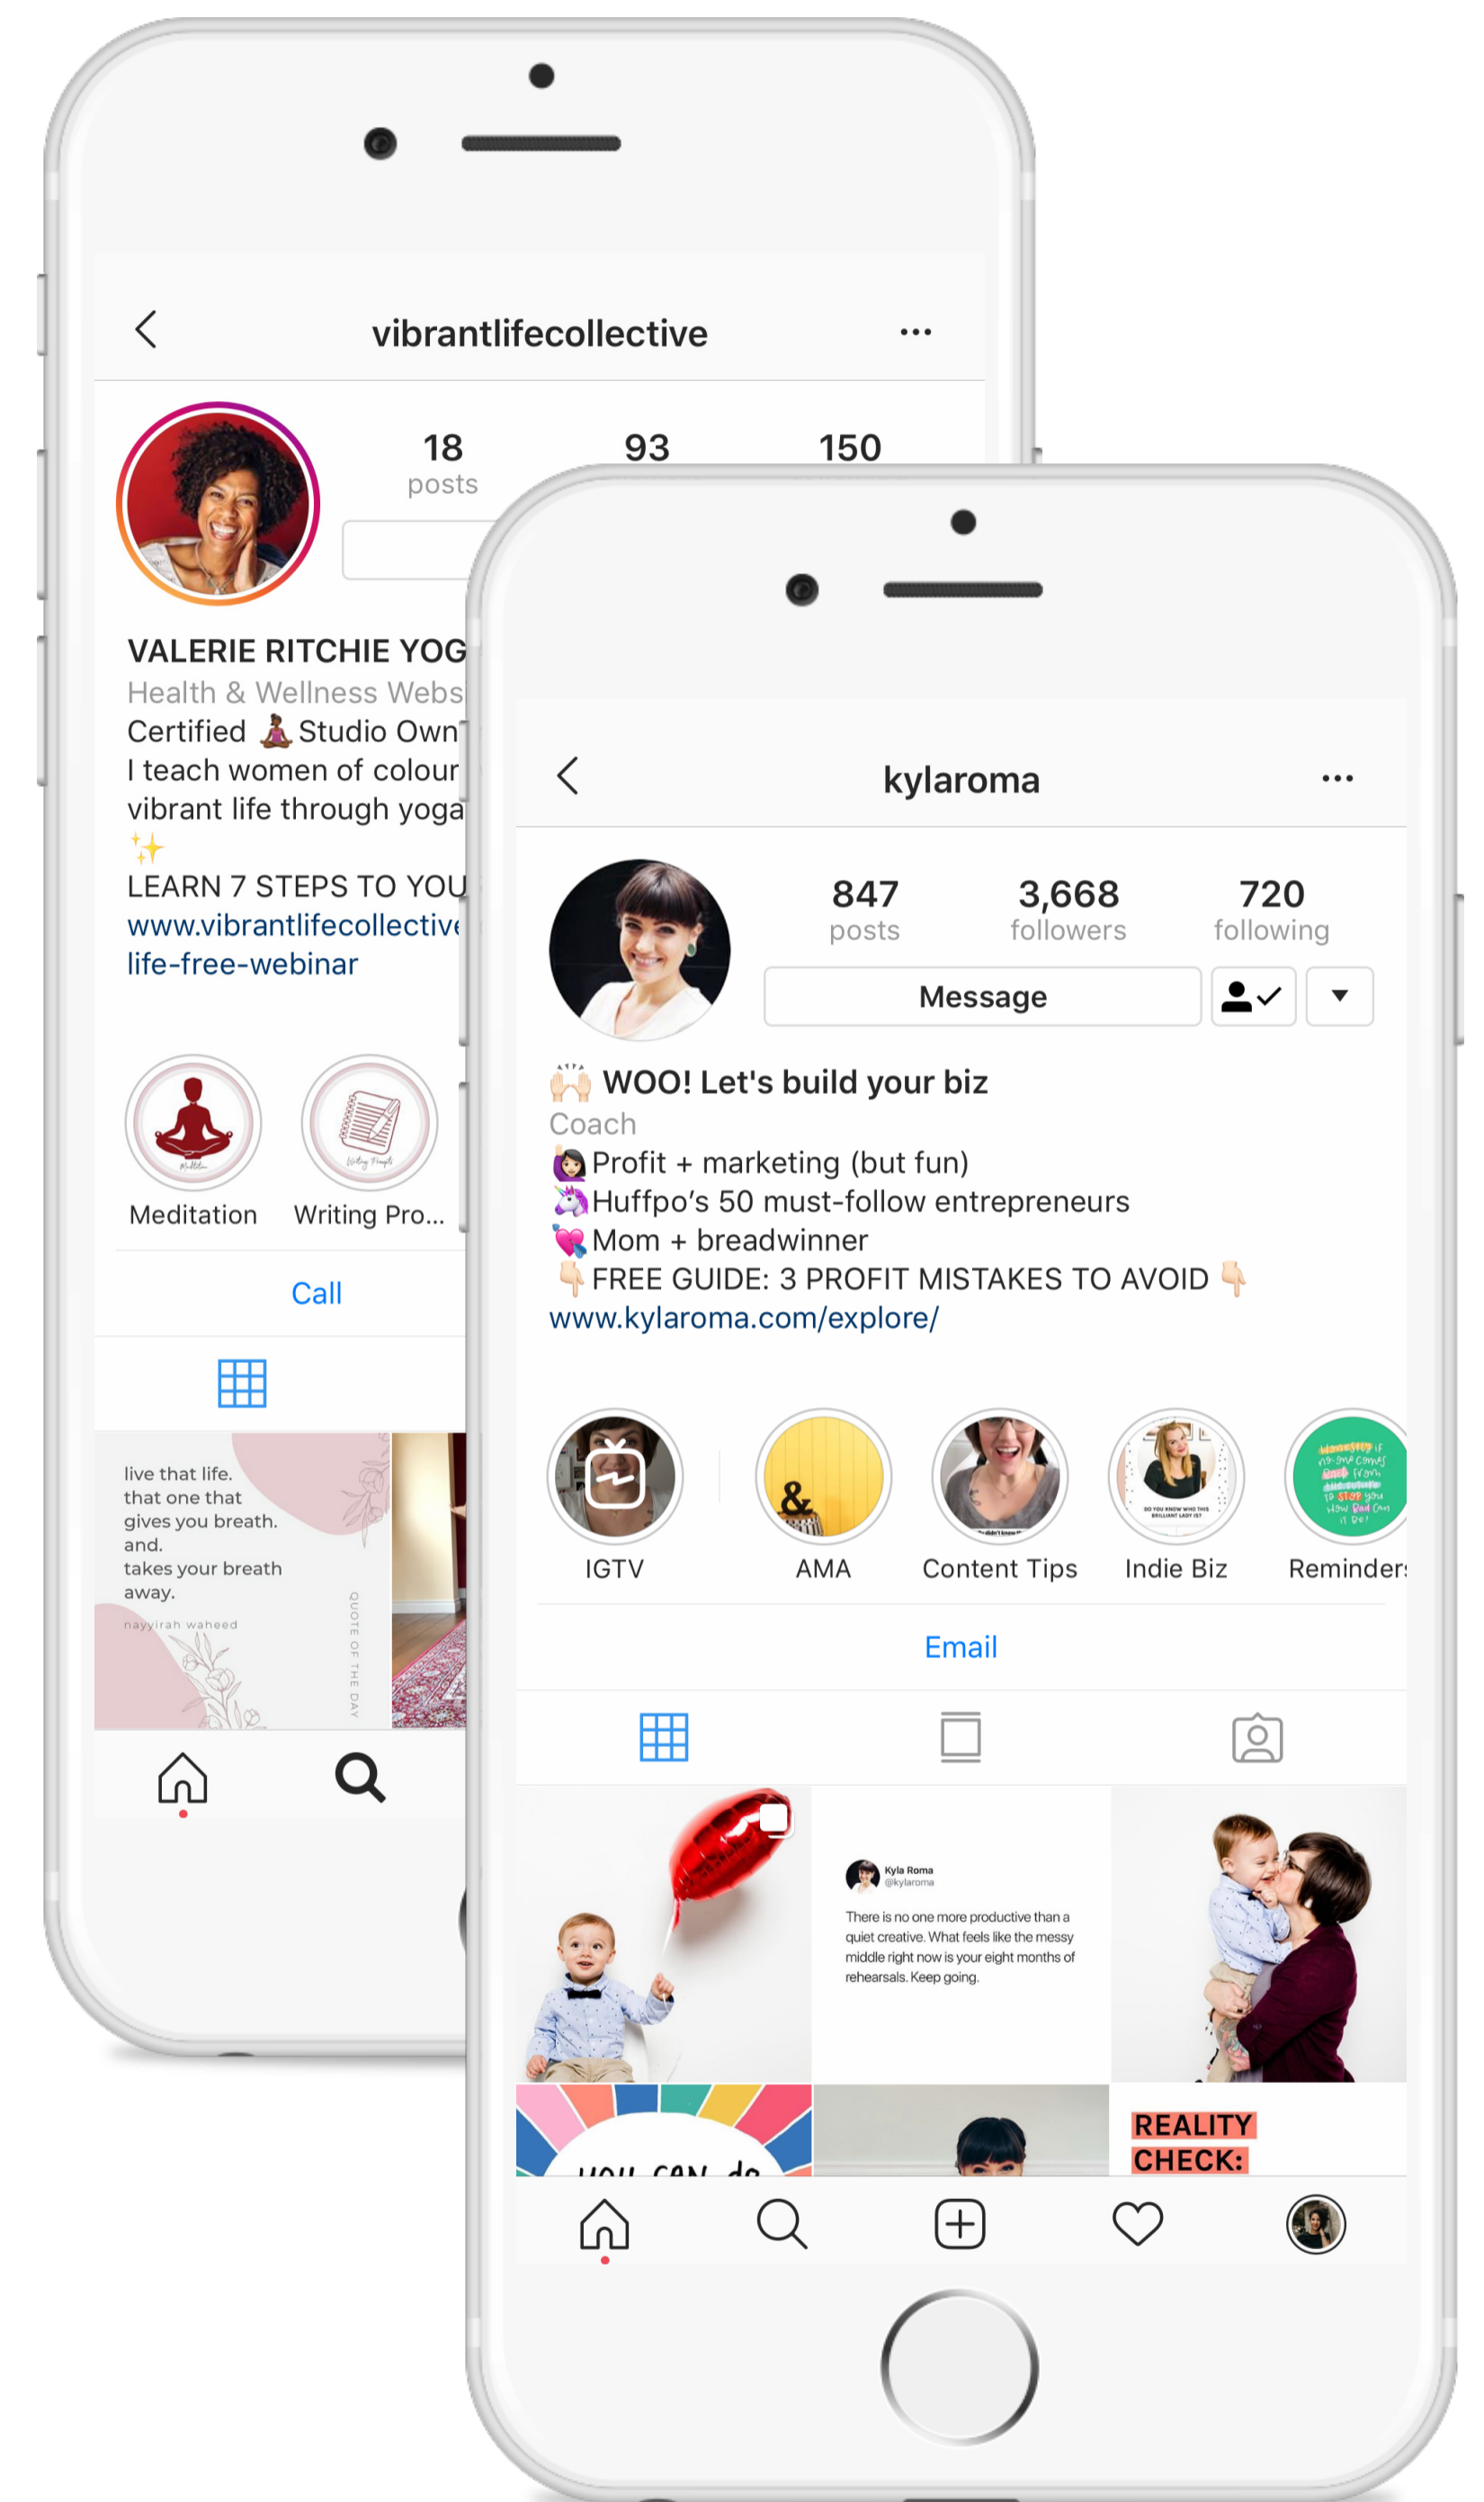

Are you ready for Oprah to mention you? All the systems (and non-embarrassing visuals 🙄) would need to be in place so that you could take advantage of all the new exposure, right?

And even if your whole entire business isn't ready for Oprah, think at least of doing this:

- Having a helpful and appealing "sample" (lead magnet, opt-in, etc.) up so that potential clients don't find your IG account and discover . . . nothing.
- Making sure people receive communication from you (as expected) after they hand over their email address and/or money to you.

And if you're thinking: Yeah, but I don't think Oprah is going to mention me tomorrow, so does this really matter? It doesn't have to be Oprah . . . many influencers with a smaller (but meaningful) reach may find you early on in your business and be discouraged from sharing your content because your profile/business simply seems not ready.

On the other hand, we have a brilliant client who only had her Instagram account up and running for a few weeks (and had less than 100 followers), but put the "2nd Website Framework" in place and made awesome visuals after watching the lessons inside Gram Like a Brand . . . and lined up guest blog post and co-teaching opportunities with influencers in the health and wellness niche, all through engaging on Instagram. Using the very strategies in this section 🙄.

👉 These accounts pass the "Oprah test"

Identify and Organize Your Handshake Accounts

Step 1: Find 15 - 30 Active Handshake Accounts

To explain handshake accounts, let's use an example.

Let's pretend you're like Georgie (from our Gram Like a Brand cast of characters) and that you have a business-to-consumer (B2C) business that helps homeschool (and other) parents integrate more painting, drawing, and art into their curriculum.

You sell a DWY solution where you consult with the parent(s) over the course of a month (online) plus ship the client art materials to use with their children. You also sell a DIY version of this product with no consulting. The parents can purchase your recommended tools then play your pre-recorded lessons for their kids.

So, let's say you realize that a lot of the parents who would be interested in your solution/offer are on Instagram, sharing their lives, checking in with friends, and getting unique homeschool/project ideas.

You're going to want a way to find your homeschool parents on IG easily so that you can start to engage them and maybe get them to sign up for your free sample (a.k.a. lead magnet) and purchase your products/services.

This 🖱️ is where handshake accounts come in.

Handshake accounts are accounts that you identify as ones your ideal future customers follow.

They are probably not only following these handshake accounts, but they're also liking the images/videos of these accounts, commenting, and watching their stories.

These handshake accounts are a place where you will find your potential clients in the comments section of almost every single photo or video. Meaning: If you visit your handshake accounts, tap on the images, read the comments, and start clicking over to the profiles of the people commenting, you'll be able to meet new people, do some virtual "handshakes" . . . and be in conversation with your ideal customers.

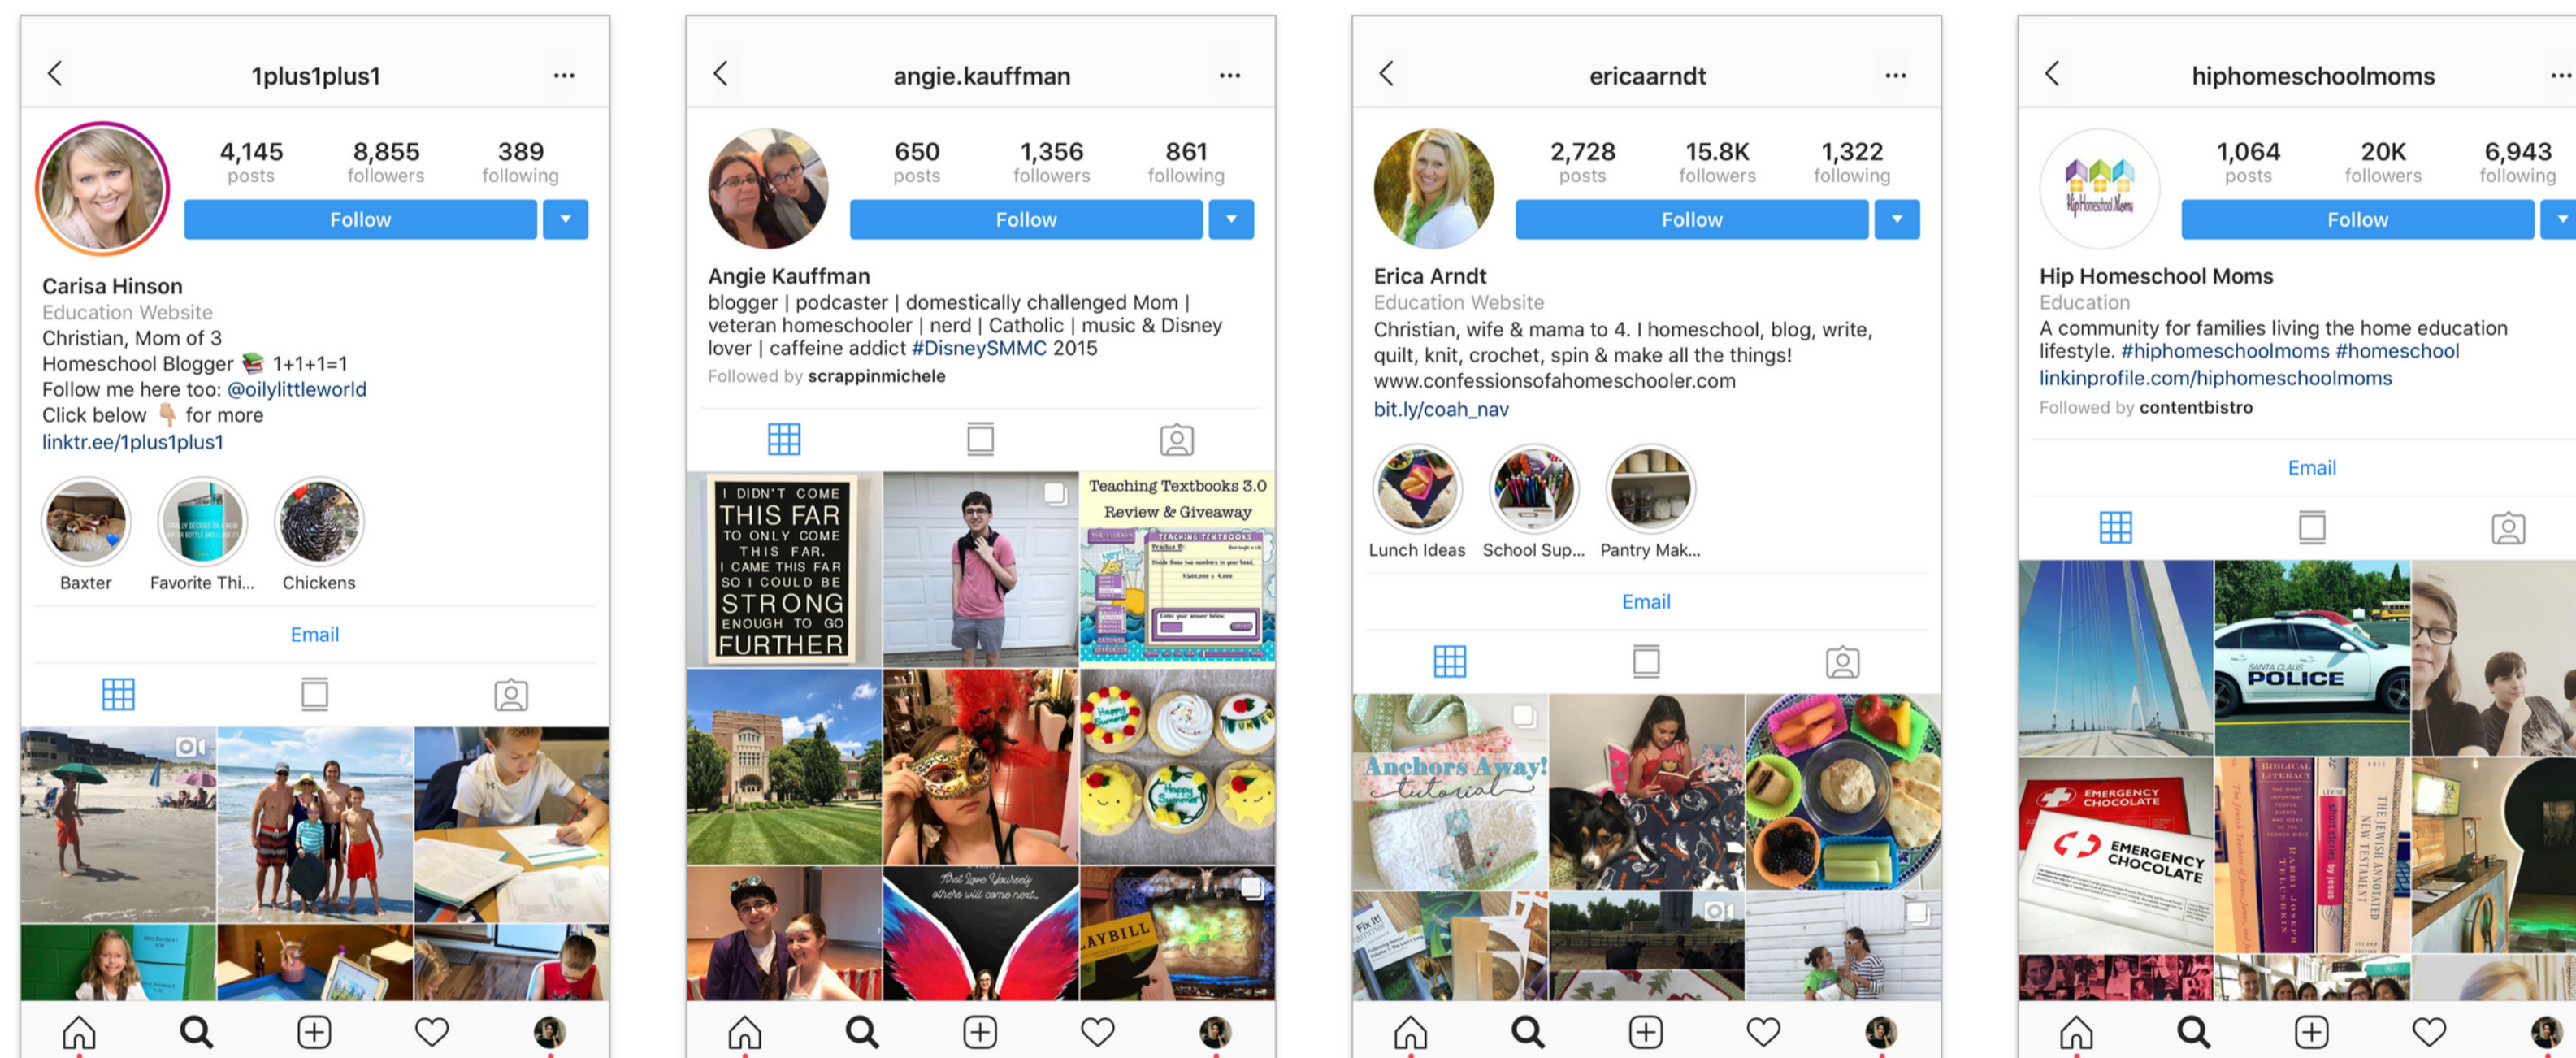

Step 1: Find 15 - 30 Active Handshake Accounts

Imagine being at an in-person networking event where a person has on a bright t-shirt that says "I'm a HOMESCHOOL INFLUENCER." And on the back it reads "Hint: The people who come up and talk to me at this event are probably homeschoolers, so if you want to reach them, I'm a good person to stand around."

This would be extremely weird and all, but you would definitely know which people to spend time talking with at this event, because they're near this particular person, right? Instagram can work in the same way for you—without requiring you to leave your home and stand around awkwardly at an event full of strangers.

Below is who you might follow as your handshake accounts if you have a business like Georgie's.

In a matter of 5 minutes I searched "top homeschool blogs" on Google, found a list of 100 blogs and started visiting them to see if they had active Instagram accounts. I'm showing just a few above. This is a niche I know nothing about but can identify 15 - 30 "handshake accounts" within a matter of minutes. Imagine what you can do for a niche you do know about (since you're creating/growing a business in it).

Note: The 15 - 30 handshake accounts you find don't have to talk about what you talk about or be a competing brand, they just need to have your ideal clients/customers as followers who engage.

Identify and Organize Your Handshake Accounts

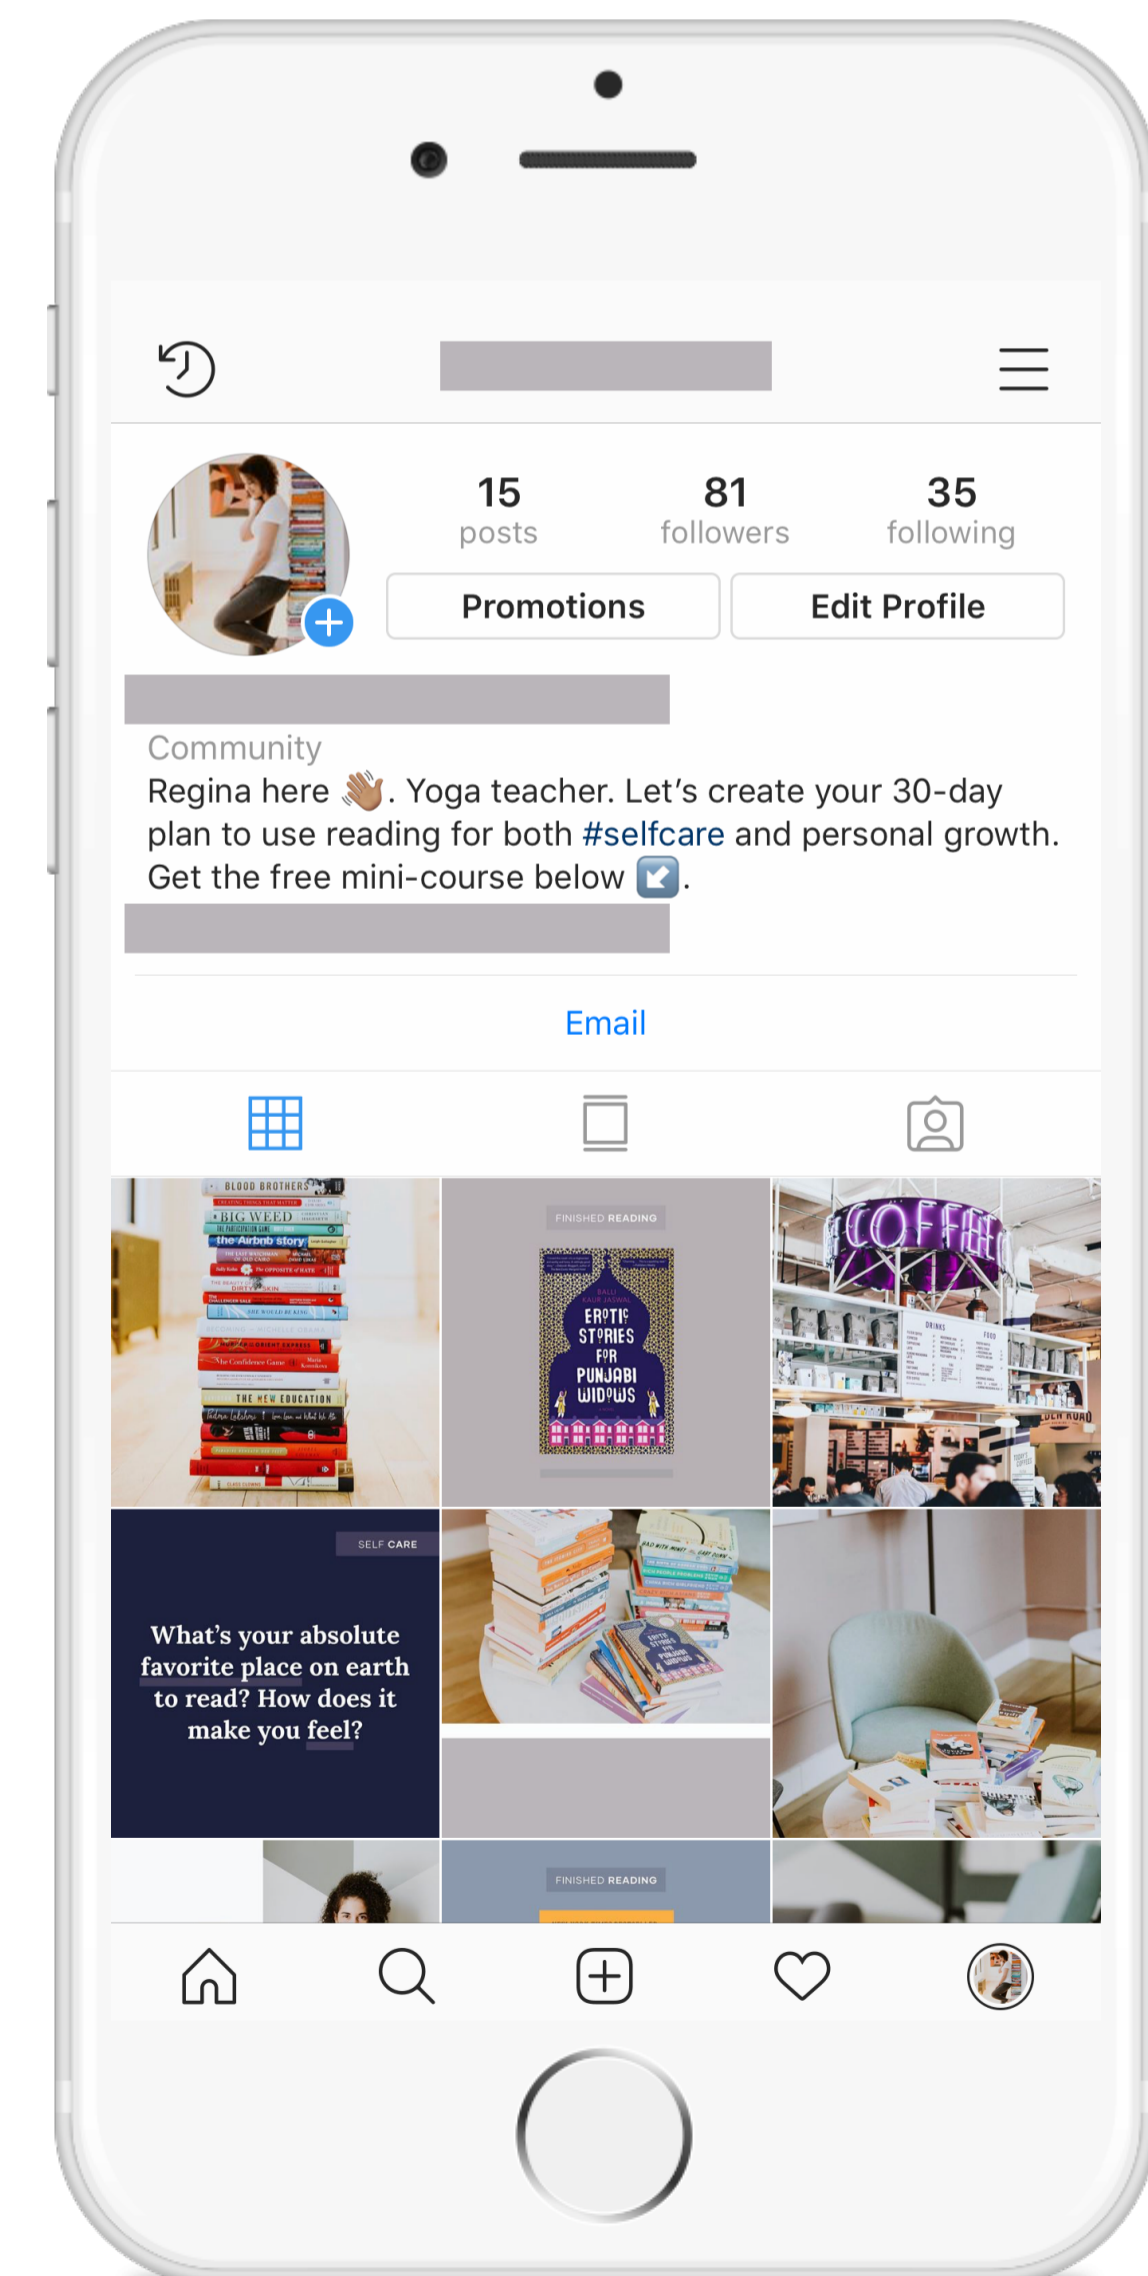

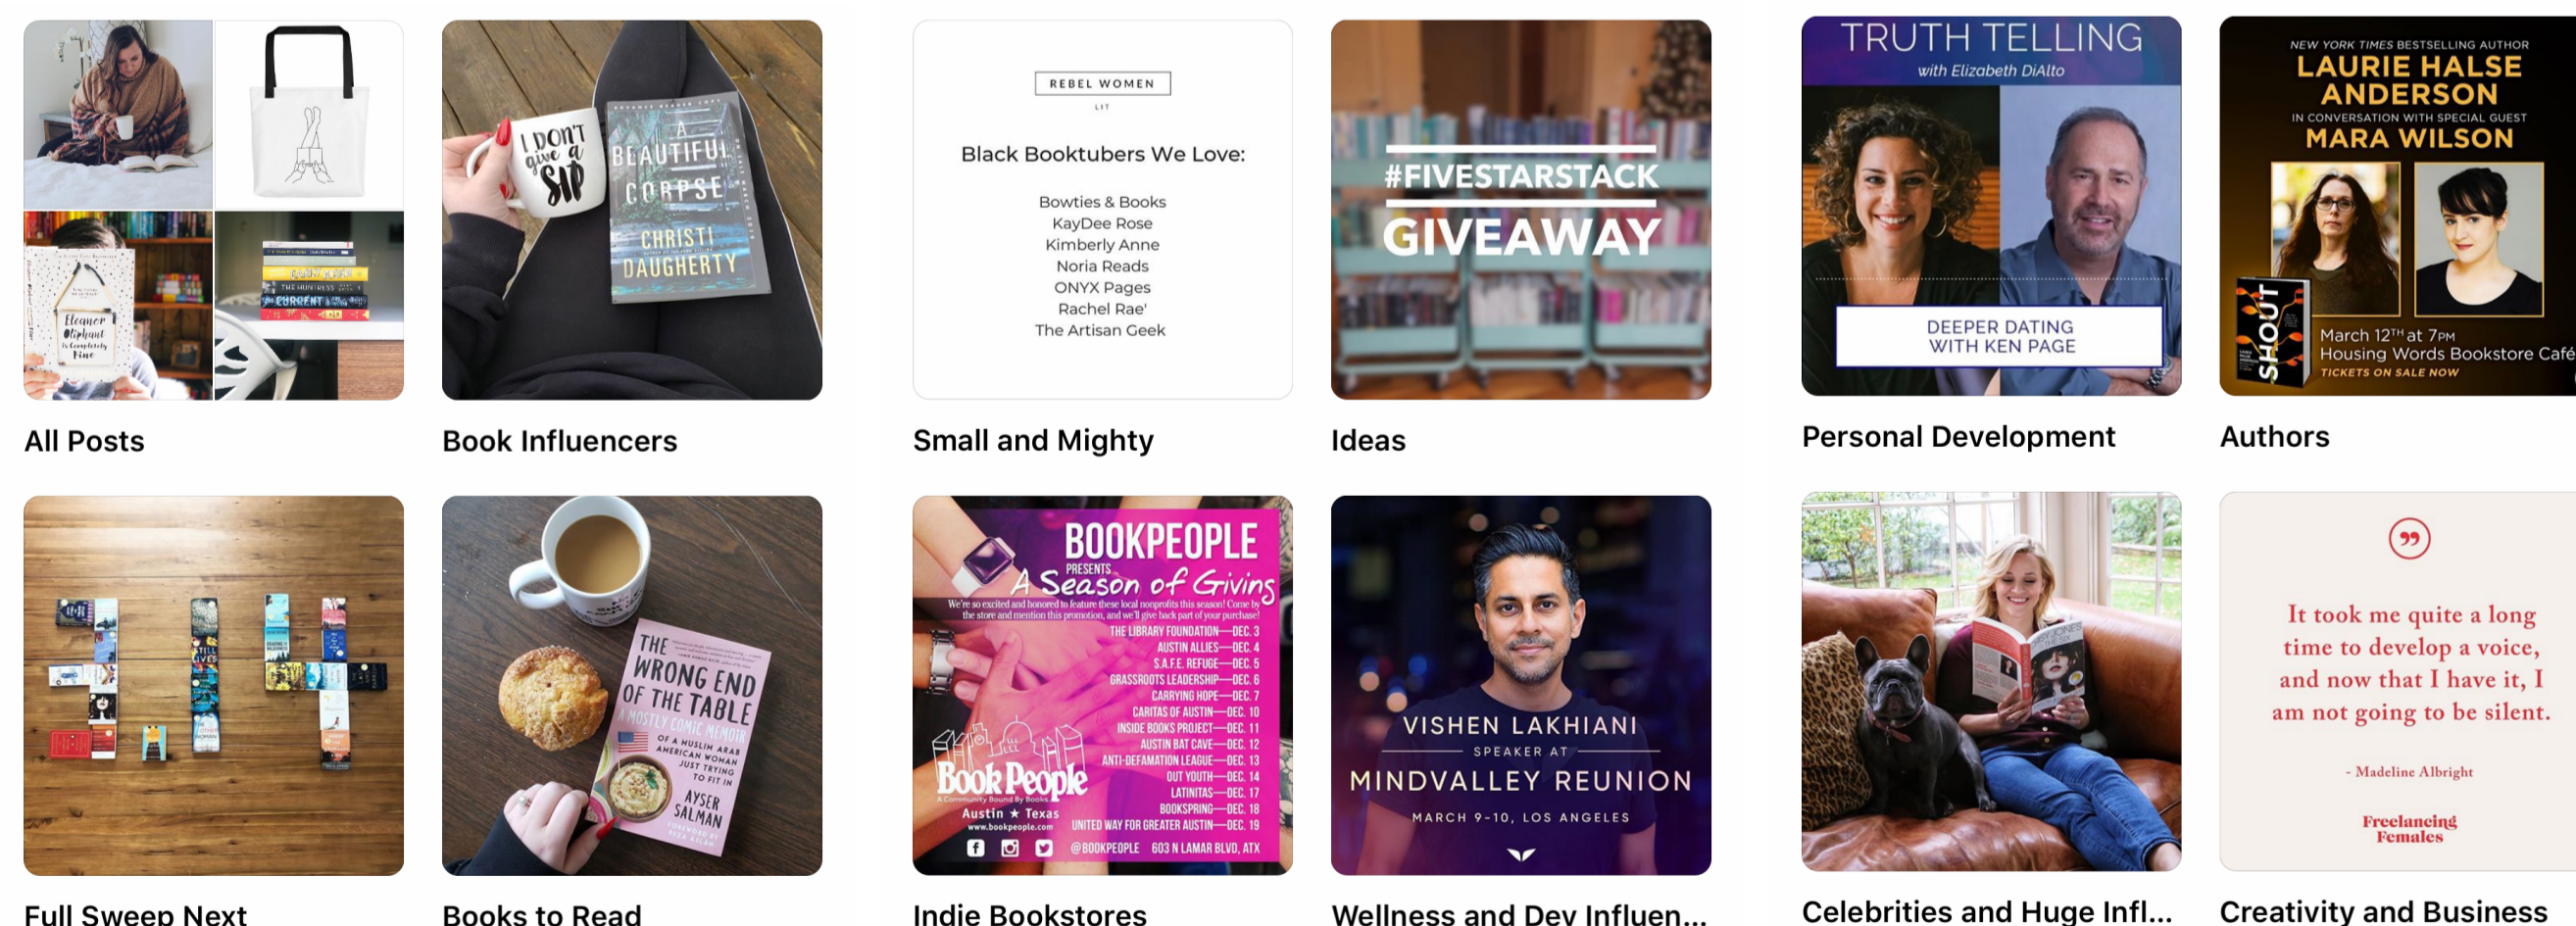

Step 2: Organize Your Handshake Accounts

Once you've identified your 15 - 30 active handshake accounts (as in: the "influencers" and brands your ideal customers follow), then it's time to do two things:

1. Decide on your best strategy for keeping track of your handshake accounts so that you can frequently check in on them and practice Step 3 (on the next page). You could use a spreadsheet or you could swipe our "saved posts" method shown below.
2. Subscribe to updates for the handshake accounts where you want to interact with (or collaborate with) the handshake account owner themselves, not just their followers. Tap the 3 dots next to their handle while visiting their profile—you'll be able to subscribe to updates and/or Stories (and get notified when they post).

In order to grow a new personal development brand (part book club, part social club) from scratch, I used the exact methods in this section of Gram Like a Brand. In order to keep track of the handshake accounts that I wanted to visit most often (because they had the most interesting and awesome ideal customers following them), I "saved" posts from each account on IG in a special folder.

Want to use this method? While viewing any image/video post on IG, you can tap the small ribbon icon in the bottom right corner to "save" it—an option will then pop up that allows you to add the post to a specific collection.

Identify and Organize Your Handshake Accounts

Step 3: Use the Handshake Method Daily

If you just do one thing on Instagram, do this.

Now that you've identified and sorted 15 - 30 handshake accounts that your ideal customers/clients follow and interact with, it's time to connect with your potential customers.

You will repeat the following over and over:

- Go to handshake account #1.
- Go to a recent photo or video they posted at least 1 - 3 hours ago. (We're looking for something that has at least 5+ comments on it.)
- Tap on the name of one of the commenters to visit their profile; stick around if they have a public IG. Side note: If their IG account is set to private, you should still be able to "like" and respond to their comment on the original handshake account's post.
- Do a quick scan of the person's public IG account to see what they say in their bio and the types of pictures they post.
- If you feel this person is a potential client or someone you can help with your materials, like two of their pictures and comment on one picture (genuinely, please).
- Optionally: Start following the person if you really like their content.
- Optionally: Save one of their pics to a "collection" on IG of potential client connections you want to come back to and engage with more. You don't have to do this for everyone, just for people you really want to connect with who may not start following you or signing up for your free resources after just this initial contact.

Leaving actual comments that mean something to people and starting real conversations is the way to create true connections/fans.

Think about it: If someone posted a particular photo or video on a public Instagram account, they clearly like something about it and want feedback, at least on some level. Discover those things they probably wanted to highlight and then compliment those things. Engage with them. Ask a question. Be human.

Step 3: Use the Handshake Method Daily

Due to the overuse of bots, the Instagram audience doesn't appreciate likes as much as comments or short/spammy comments as much as well-thought-out-clearly-said-by-a-human comments. Likes still matter, but we don't recommend simply "liking" without commenting and taking it to the next level to show that you're a real, engaged person.

What's the point of all this?

With the handshake method, you're not only interacting with your intended customers, but you're finding the most engaged/talkative ones (since they were commenting on your handshake accounts to begin with). You're finding the people most likely to love what you have to offer and to engage and be vocal about what they like/want.

Hint: To make commenting easier, you can use the voice dictation shortcut on your phone—if applicable (it's the microphone icon on the keyboard)—so you can leave high quality comments in less time. Just make sure to double check them for accuracy before you hit "send."

When this person (the potential client you found on one of your handshake account's posts) sees that you've liked two of their photos and commented on a photo, they will likely go read what you said, perhaps reply to you, and then hopefully head to check out your profile—especially if your profile photo and name are clear.

As you take the steps above to interact on Instagram, you'll hopefully begin to notice a slow (then faster) trickle of people who click on your profile (since you've popped up in their notifications), start following you, and start heading back to your one clear link in your bio to sign up for your related freebie. This is how I grew my account and this is how our clients (who implement and use the method) grow their accounts and start to collaborate with and/or sell to the right people for them.

The key with this method (and with almost any other "thing" you can do for free or pay for), is that you decide to be consistent and purposeful with it at least for a little while. 15 - 30 minutes each day for two months will likely do wonders. You can continue beyond that of course, and it's highly recommended you do if the methods work in attracting qualified "prospects" to your brand.

4. What to Post: Break Down Your Knowledge into “Smart Themes”

So your content doesn't lose focus, jump around, or fail to meet your business needs.

How to Choose Smart Themes for Your Content in 5 Steps

The thought of filling out your editorial calendar with 90 days of content has always seemed like an ideal, desirable action to take for your business, right?

It takes care of a lot of social media work in one batch and theoretically makes you feel very productive. But. There's a secret reason it never really fulfilled your business needs even if you were able to plan out a full 90 days:

You were probably wearing so many hats and working so fast that you didn't have time to make sure all your content aligned strategically with the actions you wanted your ideal client to be taking—both for their own benefit and for yours. Basically, the content rarely helped with income and sometimes even lacked the impact you intended.

We're fixing that today. We will go over the process and skill of planning content based on smart themes, then you'll be able to use it again and again—on more than just Instagram.

Option 1

1. Identify the ideal action you want your ideal client to take.

2. Pull from your pre-developed engaging content buckets.

3. Select the motivational catalyst.

4. Choose the best style for what you want to share.

5. Decide on the best format and platform for the content.

Option 2

1. Select a convo card from your pre-defined prompts.

2. Pull from your pre-developed engaging content buckets.

3. Select the motivational catalyst.

4. Choose the best style for what you want to share.

5. Decide on the best format and platform for the content.

Step 1

1A. Identify the ideal action you want your ideal client to take.
-or-
1B. Select a convo card from your pre-defined prompts.

2. Pull from your pre-developed engaging content buckets.

3. Select the motivational catalyst.

4. Choose the best style for what you want to share.

5. Decide on the best format and platform for the content.

Option 1A: Ideal Action

Do you want your ideal customer to:

- Register for an upcoming event?
- Sign up for a free opt-in/resource you created?
- Respond to you so you can engage them in conversation or learn from them?
- Respond to you so you can pitch them something?
- “Like” your content so they’ll have a recent interaction with you on Instagram that allows you to target them with ads?
- Save your post on Instagram so they can refer back to it again easily?
- Remember your post because the content was so meaningful?
- Take care of a quick task that will help them with their goals (in the industry/field your brand is in)?
- Purchase a “no-brainer” product from you?
- Purchase a product or service from you that requires a small to medium investment?
- View your sales page for a more premium offer?
- Get on a 1:1 call with you so you can offer them the product or service you think will help them most?
- Get on a 1:1 call with you so you can collect data and do research to better understand the people you want to help?
- Fill out a quiz/assessment that will give them ideas and insights into how best to reach their goals?
- Fill out an application that will help you determine if they’re in a good place for your deeper offer?
- Something else? _____

Step 1

1A. Identify the ideal action you want your ideal client to take.

-or-

1B. Select a convo card from your pre-defined prompts.

2. Pull from your pre-developed engaging content buckets.

3. Select the motivational catalyst.

4. Choose the best style for what you want to share.

5. Decide on the best format and platform for the content.

Option 1B: Convo Card

Here are some prompts to consider and add to:

- Is there anything special going on today in the news/community?
- Have you watched any funny/meaningful movies, shows, commercials, or other videos?
- Did you learn something interesting and relevant to your ideal client through a personal interaction recently?
- Did you learn something interesting and relevant to your ideal client through a book or podcast recently?
- Have you had an annoying/delightful experience recently that makes a good talking point?
- Have your values been challenged lately?
- What are you currently obsessed with?
- What has been a long-term obsession of yours that you love to talk about?
- What do you spend way too much money on (ex: coffee, plants, etc.)?
- What's something weird you like (ex: art with giraffes on it)?
- What's something you splurge on and why?
- What's a surprising source of inspiration for you?
- Ditto all the questions above (where possible) but for your client.
- If your client was in town and you were going to meet up with them personally, where would you take them and why? Side note: Can you get pictures of this place?

Step 2: Content Buckets

1A. Identify the ideal action you want your ideal client to take.
-or-
1B. Select a convo card from your pre-defined prompts.

2. Pull from your pre-developed engaging content buckets.

3. Select the motivational catalyst.

4. Choose the best style for what you want to share.

5. Decide on the best format and platform for the content.

You're going to fill up 3 virtual "buckets" with multiple talking points that fit very specific categories (to keep your content meaningful and strategic):

1. Them
2. You and Your Solution
3. "No Argument Here"

We'll explain these (during the Gram Like a Brand training) and illustrate with an example on the next page.

Step 3: Motivational Catalyst

1A. Identify the ideal action you want your ideal client to take.
-or-
1B. Select a convo card from your pre-defined prompts.

2. Pull from your pre-developed engaging content buckets.

3. Select the motivational catalyst.

4. Choose the best style for what you want to share.

5. Decide on the best format and platform for the content.

Most people will be motivated by one or more of the catalyst categories below:

Pre-Work

(Prep)

- ▶ Form steps into a challenge
- ▶ Give your audience some quick wins
- ▶ Help increase their self-efficacy
- ▶ Give (or sell) that which helps the person get ready for your deeper offers

Pain Points

(Problems)

- ▶ Appeal to them using what they already know is off
- ▶ Help them define the things they sense are wrong
- ▶ Use emotional scheduling
- ▶ Show the pain point and relief of pain

Possibilities

(Potential)

- ▶ Highlight before + afters
- ▶ Challenge their assumptions or methods
- ▶ Share portfolio pieces
- ▶ Share case studies
- ▶ Show them success stories

Permission

("I see you.")

- ▶ Acknowledge their accomplishments and help them identify/define what they want
- ▶ Give them space/permission to feel what they're already feeling (but perhaps not sharing with others), and then show them how they can create more momentum

Step 4: Content Style

1A. Identify the ideal action you want your ideal client to take.
-or-
1B. Select a convo card from your pre-defined prompts.

2. Pull from your pre-developed engaging content buckets.

3. Select the motivational catalyst.

4. Choose the best style for what you want to share.

5. Decide on the best format and platform for the content.

Here are some common “styles” to consider:

- Testimonial
- Tutorial/walkthrough
- Lesson
- Behind the scenes (BTS)
- Before & after
- Portfolio piece
- Case study
- Story (in a more traditional sense—because all of the above will have story elements)

Can you think of other styles? Don't worry. You'll have space to record your ideas in just a few pages.

Step 5: Format and Platform

1A. Identify the ideal action you want your ideal client to take.
-or-
1B. Select a convo card from your pre-defined prompts.

2. Pull from your pre-developed engaging content buckets.

3. Select the motivational catalyst.

4. Choose the best style for what you want to share.

5. Decide on the best format and platform for the content.

Once you've got Steps 1 - 4 covered, it's time to decide the format and the internal platform/place within the larger platform (IG) you will share your content. Consider, is your content best:

- As a video?
- As a photo?
- As a graphic?
- As a mix of videos and graphics? Graphics and photos? Videos and photos? All 3?

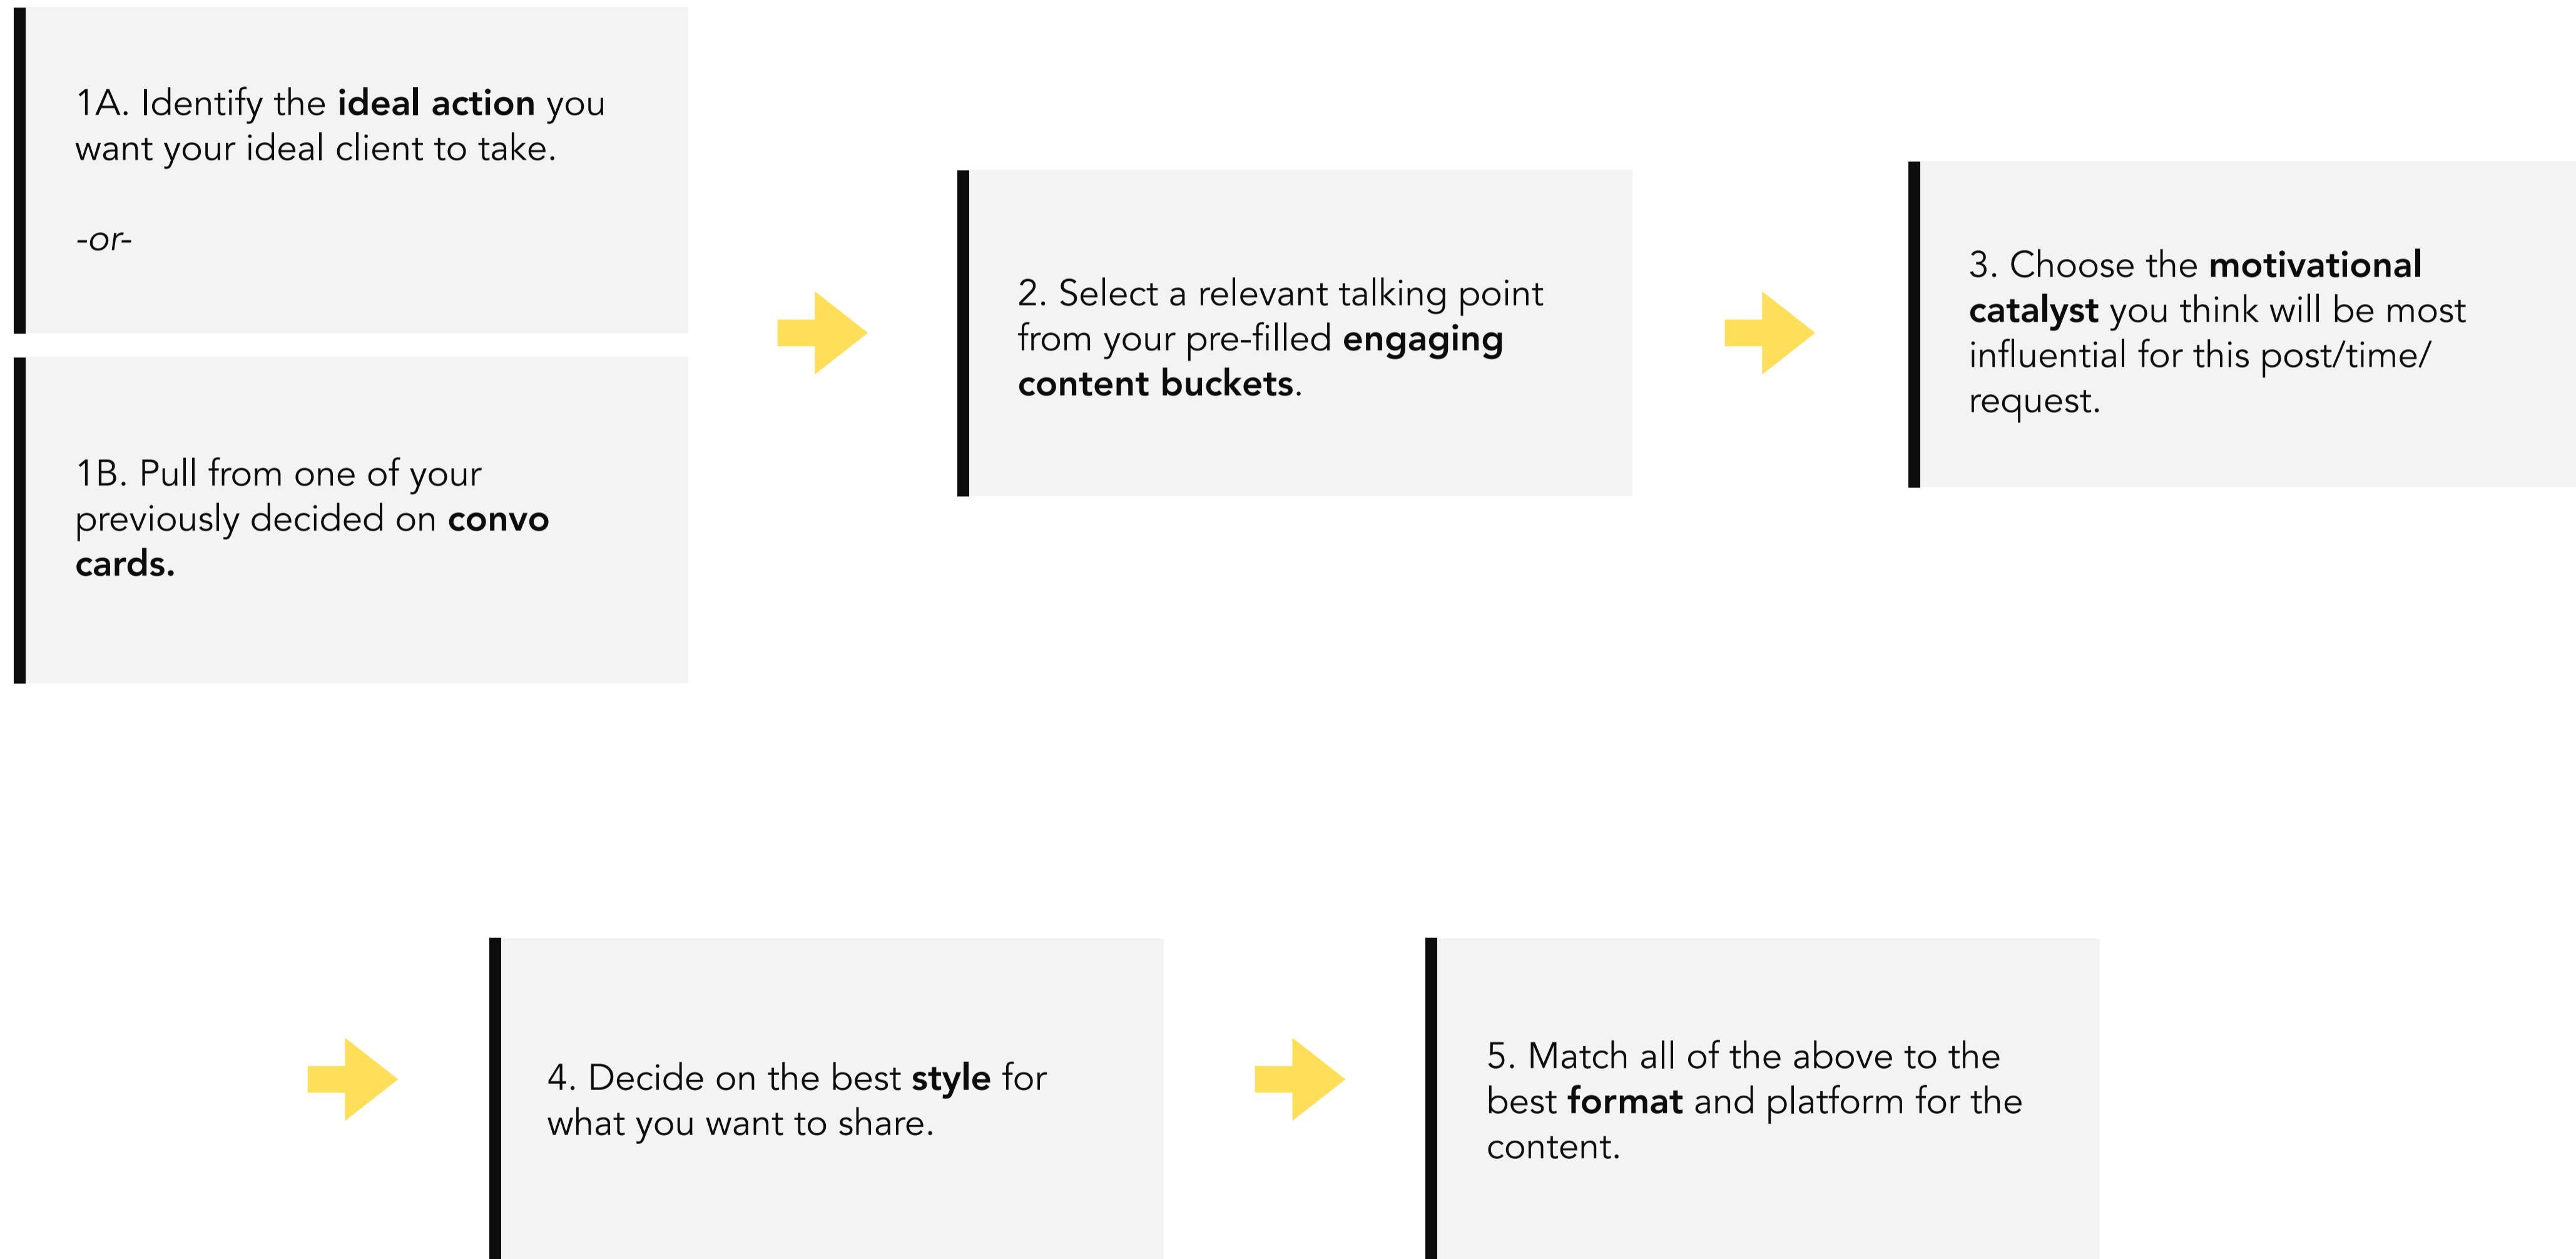

Then consider, is your content best:

- On IGTV?
- As an IG Live?
- In IG Stories?
- As a gallery post?
- In a DM to specific people?
- As an ad that shows to people who've taken specific actions with you on IG?
- In your Highlights (a.k.a. your menu of "static pages")?

Okay, now let's put all these steps together and make them even more clear with an example.

So, to create strategic and engaging content, you will:

5. Customize Your Daily 30-Minute Plan

So that what you do on the platform every single day moves you from milestone to milestone and feels rewarding, exciting, and meaningful.

What is your customized approach to using IG?

Over the next two pages, check out the common tasks you might complete on IG , so that you can organize them into what you'll do quarterly, monthly, weekly, and daily 🙌.

Maintenance

- Unfollow accounts who no longer post relevant content
- Archive your posts and stories that no longer apply or fit with your aesthetic or offers
- Remove irrelevant accounts from your Collections
- Evaluate what's working and not working for your content and captions
- Research new and trending hashtags; update your hashtag sets
- Update your IG bio and link as necessary
- Analyze your Stories Highlights for anything you might want to archive or add
- View your IG analytics (called "Insights") to understand more about your audience and about the content that is and is not working

Content Creation/Curation

- Create content similar to what's performing well for you
- Test out new types of content
- Share content from each of your "content buckets" and use emotional scheduling
- Share high-quality content (created by people/brands you'd like to work with) to your gallery and Stories, and/or cite their IG posts and non-IG work in your captions
- Look for client/customer/audience/other posts and stories where people share you or your work, so that you can potentially re-share (for social proof and testimonials); note: even if they share on other platforms, get permission to re-share on IG
- Batch create Stories and gallery posts that align with your brand goals then load them to your scheduling software
- Refer back to and update your video plan; select the IG Lives, IGTV episodes, and Stories/gallery videos you will create next and prep your talking points/slides for them
- Record and post (or record and schedule) your video content
- Update your "content buckets" and refresh/review all the other steps of the "Smart Themes" exercise (ex: motivational catalysts, convo cards, etc.)

What is your customized approach to using IG?

Check out the common tasks you might complete on IG, so that you can organize them into what you'll do quarterly, monthly, weekly, and daily 🙌.

Initiation of Contact

- Engage with the people who interact with your handshake accounts—try: likes, comments, and responses to their Stories
- Engage directly with your handshake accounts: DMs, suggestions to move off platform, responses to their Stories
- Follow relevant accounts
- Add accounts to Collections to organize them
- Engage with people using the hashtags you identified that your potential customers might use

Run and Monitor Ads

- Set up audiences in FB Ads Manager
- Update bio and link to prep for ad traffic
- Run ad(s) to lead traffic through your short stack sales funnel
- Evaluate ad performance and cost per new lead/sale

Ongoing Outreach and Relationship Building

- Engage with your established contacts; think: DMs to check in periodically, invitations to move off platform (and have a deeper convo), or comments on their content
- Engage with past customers; think: DMs to check in on progress and reconnect, or, comments on their content
- Check DM Inbox for messages and respond to each non-spam message
- Respond to each non-spam comment
- Head to the profiles of new followers (when feasible) and decide what (if any) further action you want to take to connect with them; think: follow them back, DM them, like some of their content, comment on their content, reply to their Stories, etc.

The Hierarchy of Profitable Gramming

Each item below is explained on the next page.

The Keys to Profitable Gramming

Which are, coincidentally, what you'll be creating/doing during Gram Like a Brand.

A "Short Stack" Sales Funnel fully mapped out so that you know how to get more sales of your high and low price offers

90 days of your editorial calendar completely filled out based on "smart themes"

An essential makeover of your Instagram account based on the popular and profitable "IG as a 2nd Website" framework

Your manual engagement Handshake Accounts identified and sorted, so that you have a shortcut to your ideal audience members on Instagram

Smart hashtag research specific to you completed and added to a spreadsheet (hint: this is nothing like the tired, old advice other people give about hashtags)

Your signature IG Stories storyboard and style in place and used at least once

A custom IG video plan outlined and your minimum viable studio set up (or planned)

9+ Storytell to Sell captions and content loaded into your scheduling software (meaning: your content will be engaging and will help inspire action)

A practical (and actually fun) engagement strategy for DMs identified and in practice

A customized (truly specific to you and your goals) plan for how you'll use your 30 minutes per workday on Instagram
