

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Welcome to Breaking the Power Struggle Course!

I know you're tired of feeling the guilt, exhaustion, and shame of constantly fighting with your child. You want a peaceful home where your children do what you tell them to do the first time.

You're a good mom. You just haven't cracked the code to dealing with a spirited, defiant, argumentative, or strong-willed child yet. Today is a good day because today I'm going to help you crack that code.

Use this worksheet to help you stay focused during the lessons and to jot down notes or questions.

Oh, before you get started, you'll notice I mention a quiz at the end of the lessons. Unfortunately, the quiz didn't make it when I changed to my new website (www.parentcoachatlanta.com). If you want to know your true parenting personality, you can always email me at susan@parentcoachatlanta.com and after answering a few questions, you'll have your answer.

Susan

Let's talk. Complete my Discovery Call Application and schedule a FREE 20-minute call!
www.ParentCoachAtlanta.com

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Lesson 1: Natural Authority

Natural Authority is granted as soon as Natural Authority is born from

TRUTH BOMB:

The reason moms have power struggles with their children is because

The decisions we make for our children is always in the best interest of

When we use authoritative parenting we

- Provide...
- Manage...
- Protect...
- Distribute...

It's important to be authoritative in our parenting because it prepares them for

Let's talk. Complete my Discovery Call Application and schedule a FREE 20-minute call!
www.ParentCoachAtlanta.com

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Be + Have =

Summary

Parents have a natural

Be a

Behave like a loving authority and your children will become well-behaved,

NOTES:

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Lesson 2: Leadership Audit

Step One is to ask what is working well. Write that down here:

Step Two is to ask what is working okay but needs to be tweaked. Write that down here:

Step Three is to ask what is not working at all. Write that down here:

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Start with Step Three and write what you are going to work on here:

Tonight's Homework is to (without judgment)

- Practice...
- Use a...
- Write it because language plus motor equals...
- Talk about this to...
- My accountability partner is...

NOTES:

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Lesson 3: Alpha Speech

When a command (sentence) is really a question when it ends with

Ask yourself “Am I telling or am I...”

When we talk too much we sound like

Effective leaders (parents)

- use very few...
- Say it...
- Don't use their...
- Can add Ps and Qs back in once the children...

Tonight's Homework is to replace

- “Okay?” with...
- “Will You” with...
- “Wah wah wah” with...

Remember,

Let's talk. Complete my Discovery Call Application and schedule a FREE 20-minute call!
www.ParentCoachAtlanta.com

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Lesson 4: Effective Consequences

The number one question Susan gets from parents is

Even though I do everything right, my children will still

There are two kinds of consequences. They are

The most important part of delivering consequences is

As parents we never do these two things:

We need to teach our children that when they follow our directions, life is

And when they don't follow our directions, life is

Effective consequences need to be these two things:

All Good Things...

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Rarely do we think of effective consequences in the heat

We can delay consequences for

- Young children up to:
- School-aged up to:
- Tweens up to:
- Teens up to:

Strike while the iron is...

When we wait to deliver a consequence

- It creates a bigger memory in our child's...
- They think they can't get away with...
- We feel...
- Our child will accept the consequence more...

NOTES:

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

Lesson 5: Making This Work for You

The first thing I want you to do it (even if you need to do it NOW) is

Brainstorm things you want your children to do (chores, errands, etc.)

Use the KISS (keep it simple sweetie) method and do not bite off...

I am going to tell my child to:

Go ahead! Susan is waiting.

What happened?

Breaking the Power Struggle

Course worksheet

SUSAN L MORLEY
• PARENT COACH •

If your child said “no” that’s okay because

If my child says “no” some consequences I can give are

Things will get better and I’ll see real change in about

NOTES:

Into Social Media? Follow Susan:

- Facebook
- Instagram
- LinkedIn
- Pinterest

Let’s talk. Complete my Discovery Call Application and schedule a FREE 20-minute call!
www.ParentCoachAtlanta.com