

This is how our offer work – Swedexport

Coaching/Support

Coaching and external views on the business are one of the most effective methods for gaining new insights and identifying improvement potential in a business. But also, to get a broad view and identify methods to tackle the challenges that arise as the work develops. And thus, often reach both further and faster to new results than what the business itself can achieve.

Simply reinforce your own competence with external experience.

Our coaching can be both operational and more strategic. We have several different plans that are designed for different needs and situations.

The arrangements have a system at the bottom with regular planned reconciliations/development meetings but also more spontaneous contact opportunities where more urgent and urgent matters can be handled.

If you are curious and want to know more, contact us for further dialogue here.